CITY OF LOWELL WANTS TO RECOVER

From the Allis Chalmers Co. for the Alleged Failure of Pumping Engine

Because of the alleged failure of a steam pumping engine purchased by the city from the Allis Chalmers company to meet the requirements specified in the contract, the city will demand reimbursement from the company. The city solicitor has addressed the following letter to the company in question:

Office of City Solicitor,
Lowell, Mass., Aug. 5, 1912.

Allis Chalmers Company, 59 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.:

Gentlemen—Your company, under written agreement, dated Dec. 10, 1910, with the city of Lowell, furnished to said city for its water works, a steam pumping engine, to be so furnished in conformity with certain stipulations and specifications, under penalty as expressed in a bond furnished by your company. The said engine has been out of repair to great cost and damage to the city of Lowell, and is likely to be out of repair repeatedly because of the unworkmanlike manner of its construction; therefore, pursuant to your contract "Art. 4" and in conformity with the penalty of your bond, the city of Lowell will require and demand reimbursement for its costs and damage occasioned by the failure of said engine to meet the requirements specified in the contract.

Respectfully submitted,
J. Joseph Hennessy,
City Solicitor.

INCREASE OF $42,988,68 IN THE APPROPRIATIONS

Comparative Statement Was Given Out From the Assessors' Office

A comparative statement of the appropriations for 1911 and 1912 was obtained at the office of the assessors of taxes this forenoon and it shows an increase of $42,988.68 for the present year and that amount would represent an increase in the tax rate of about 50 cents on the thousand unless it is overcome in some way, and it is believed that the increase in valuation will more than wipe it out. The present statement has nothing to do with overlayings, for they are not known until the tax rate has been established. The clerks in the assessors' office are working tooth and nail on the valuation books and their work is being increased by the number of new names that are coming in, names that did not appear on the original returns. The comparative statement referred to is as follows:

LOWELL PEOPLE

A NUMBER ARE GOING TO THE MAINE BEACHES

The exodus of Lowell people continues and on all trains this morning, great numbers of people left the city. As has been the case during the past six weeks, the majority of the people leaving here are going to the beaches along the coast of Maine, Old Orchard beach is being visited by a great many and on the 9 o'clock train this morning about twenty Lowellites left for the beach.

The 11.10 train was delayed about 10 minutes this morning. There was a large number in the station waiting its arrival. This is one of the best patronized trains running from Lowell and daily takes many Lowellites to the Hub.

The travel in general was quite heavy and considerable baggage was handled during the day.

CHARLES R. CRANE

MAY BE TREASURER OF DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 5.—Governor Wilson had nothing to say today about the appointment of a treasurer for the democratic national committee, but indications were that Charles R. Crane of Chicago, whose name had been suggested to the governor, would not be the man.

Friends of Mr. Crane had laid his name before members of the national committee, through whom it reached the governor. It was reported today, however, that the governor had another name in mind when he went to New York, and was withholding it merely to determine if the man selected was willing to serve.

No invitations have been issued to the notification exercises on Wednesday other than those sent out by Senator-elect James of Kentucky as chairman of the notification committee to the 22 democratic governors, Speaker Clark and Representative Underwood of Alabama.

Gov. Wilson declared today that the exercises would be "utterly informal."

And Marched to the Coliseum

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Several hundred women suffrage enthusiasts, carrying "Votes for Women" banners and headed by a military band, paraded to the coliseum at noon.

The procession attracted large crowds along the line of march and at many points the women marchers were cheered noisily.

As the parade passed Col. Roosevelt's hotel there was a lively interchange of greetings. Scores of delegates were waiting on the sidewalk to see Col. Roosevelt and they gave the suffrage advocates an ovation.

DRINKING CUPS IN LOCAL MILLS

Board of Health Wants Them Introduced

ACTION TAKEN AT MEETING TODAY

Board Favors Sewer in Dutton Street

At a special meeting of the board of health held this forenoon at the board's headquarters in city hall, Dr. Thomas F. Carroll was appointed a committee of one to confer with Dr. Charles E. Simpson, of the state board of health, relative to drinking cups or bubblers in the mills throughout the city. The law having to do with drinking cups does not apply to mills, but the board of health is of the opinion that conditions, so far as drinking water is concerned, can be improved in most of the mills.

In most of the mills the drinking water is kept in buckets and, as a rule, one cup, glass or dipper serves as many people as would go to constitute a good sized village. The mill authorities have always shown a willingness to cooperate with the board of health and if the board has any suggestions to make relative to the drinking cup problem in the mills the chances are the suggestion will be acted upon.

The first business before the meeting of the board this forenoon had to do with a proposed sewer in the northern part of Dutton street for the benefit of the Amasa Pratt Co., and others. The matter had been before the municipal council and that body instructed its clerk to communicate with the board of health asking that an inspection of the premises be made and that the board report back to the municipal council. The premises were inspected by the board members and inspector Connors and, tomorrow, the board will recommend to the municipal council that the sewer be provided as petitioned for.

The board found that conditions there were anything but sanitary. Edmons Ruest was granted license to collect swill and it was voted to require the owners of a stable in Wedge street to do certain things to improve conditions in and about the stable under penalty of the law. An old complaint entered some time ago by a Mrs. Burgess relative to bad sewer accommodations in Billerica street was taken up and Dr. Carroll said he has talked with the commissioner of streets about the complaint and that the commissioner promised to remedy condition at the place in question. There was another complaint about a dry well in Billerica street and the parties responsible for the trouble were given an extension of time. They will be allowed another week or so in which to make the necessary changes.

CAMBRIDGE BOY WAS DROWNED

Samuel Baron Got in Deep Water

LOST LIFE IN SILVER LAKE

He Got Out Beyond His Depth

Samuel Baron, a young lad from Cambridge, who was spending his vacation, camping at Silver lake, was drowned in the lake shortly before noon today. He went in bathing, in company with his brother, a cousin and several others. He was unable to swim and waded out into the deep waters and went down before his companions could render any assistance. The boys who were in the water at the time knew that he could not swim, and thought that he would remain near them, but he waded away from the others and the first they realized that he was in danger was when he was going down. He shouted and his friends went to his assistance, but they were too late.

The youngsters shouted for help and a large number of people were soon on the scene, but the body was not recovered.

NEW ANTI-TRUST BILL

Is Aimed at Steel Corporation Combines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A new anti-trust bill, aimed particularly at the steel corporations combines will be introduced in the house by Rep. Stanley of Kentucky, chairman of the "steel trust" investigating committee. The bill will prohibit corporations engaged in the interstate commerce from holding stock in other concerns or from buying or selling their own stock and would prohibit over-capitalization, excessive overholdings and operation of common carriers by industrial corporations. Heavy fines and long prison terms would be imposed for violations of the law.

STRUCK BY AUTO MAN BADLY INJURED

He Had Just Stepped From an Electric Car When Machine Hit Him

Sven Nelson of Pihl place, Chelmsford Centre, is in a critical condition at the Chelmsford Street hospital as the result of being hit by an automobile in Chelmsford st., near Victoria st., at about 1.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. Nelson is 73 years of age and it is feared that his injuries may prove fatal.

The old gentleman boarded a Chelmsford street car instead of a Chelmsford Centre car at Merrimack square and just as he alighted from the car at the end of the line he was struck by an automobile owned and operated by Daniel A. Macfadgen of the Lowell Furnace company, 624 Middlesex street. Mr. Macfadgen lives at 34 Robinson street. It was stated that the automobile had come by way of Victoria street. Mr. Nelson was knocked down and badly cut about the head and face. Mr. Macfadgen placed the injured man in the automobile and hastened to the Chelmsford Street hospital. City Physician Michael Tighe attended to the old man's injuries. He had a bad gash over the right eye, several cuts on his left cheeks and the doctor fears that he is injured internally.

Mr. Nelson's son was in Merrimack square when news of the accident was received and he rode to the scene of the accident. He did not know that his father was the victim and did not know that the injured man had been removed to the hospital. The young man returned to the city and learned later in the day that it was his father who was injured.

POLICE OFFICIALS TO BE INDICTED

On Charges of Grafting From the Gambling Houses in New York City

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A mass of evidence is to be presented to the grand jury this week out of which the officials of the public prosecutor's office believe that several indictments for extortion will be found against certain police officials for grafting from gambling houses.

Police Lieut. Becker's alleged activities with gamblers are being investigated on information furnished in the confession of "Bald Jack" Rose.

Private detectives also working on the gambling end of the Rosenthal case are reported to have unearthed evidence that will result in indictments of two high police officials and a man not in the department.

For several days the district attorney's assistants have been examining witnesses to learn more of the relations of Lieut. Becker with gamblers.

Becker prepared himself today for arraignment in the court of general sessions, where it was understood that he would maintain his plea of not guilty to the indictment charging him with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler. The coroner's hearing in the case of Jack Rose was on the calendar today.

Meanwhile the Catskill mountains today will be the scene of the hunt for Louis Rosensweng and Harry Horowitz, wanted in connection with the Rosenthal shooting.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty said this morning that he was still working on the theory that the men were in the Catskills and were being confined to a small district where they would be unable to conceal themselves much longer.

PROGRESSIVES MET TODAY IN THE CHICAGO COLISEUM

Great Cheering for Many State Delegations When They Entered Convention Hall

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The big Coliseum, transformed in a few weeks from the battleground of the republican national convention to the meeting place of the new national progressive party, was thrown open shortly before 11 o'clock today but it was nearly an hour after that time before the first of the delegates began to arrive. They filtered in slowly at first, in ones and twos. Then came the big phalanx of delefiates from Pennsylvania singing "We'll hang Boise Penrose to a sour apple tree as we go marching on."

The Pennsylvanians got a demonstrative welcome.

The galleries of the hall were all but empty as the hour set for the convention approached and spectators were coming in slowly.

The scene in the hall, except for the lack of a jam in the galleries, was almost identical with that of the republican convention. The seating arrangements for the delegates and alternates had been changed but little. Many of the standards had been raised on the identical spots where they stood during the tumultuous convention which renominated President Taft. New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania had front row places.

California, a pioneer state in the Roosevelt movement, was promoted to a prominent front position at the right of the stage.

The big sounding board suspended by wires over the speakers' stand, looking for all the world like an aeroplane in flight, attracted much attention. It had been constructed particularly for Col. Roosevelt's speech tomorrow afternoon but similarly assisted everybody else, including the reading and tally clerks.

Large canvas portraits were features of the decorations. Back of the stage were those of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. The portrait of Jefferson had been labeled Jackson but the mistake was rectified before the convention was called to order. At the left of the stage was a portrait of Hamilton and at the right one of Andrew Jackson, at first first labeled Jefferson.

The Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln portraits have been linked on the convention tickets and badges.

Suspended from the hand gallery at the far end of the hall, where all could see, was an oil painting of Col. Roosevelt. The artist did not at all flatter the progressive leader.

Over the main entrance was a stuffed head of a splendid specimen of a bull moose.

TO FIGHT PROGRESSIVES

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Lewis Loison, who circulated the petitions that gave the Roosevelt movement an impetus in this county and then was ignored when an organization was formed, has issued a call for Roosevelt supporters to gather around him in a new league. His declaration of principles declares strongly against the "steam roller tactics" of the progressives.

CITY SOLICITOR GIVES AN OPINION

Relative to Expenditure of Money

The following opinion, handed Commissioner Cummings today by the city solicitor, is self explanatory:

August 5, 1912.

Lawrence Cummings, Commissioner of Public Property and Licenses:

Dear Sir—Your request for an opinion of the city solicitor as to the advisability of entering into contracts where an order of the municipal council has become effectual, appropriating money to satisfy said contracts, but such money being not in the possession of the city for that particular purpose, has received the consideration of the city solicitor, and he is of the opinion that it is not advisable to execute such contracts before the money is actually placed to the credit of the appropriation, for the reason that a multiplicity of conditions is apt to arise between the time of executing said contracts and the time of the acquisition of the money to be appropriated.

The city solicitor therefore advises that no contract should be entered into until the money appropriated is actually accredited on the auditor's books, to the satisfaction of the contemplated contract. Respectfully submitted,

J. Joseph Hennessy,
City Solicitor.

To Discuss Important Questions With Czar Relative to Naval Agreement

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Raymond Poincaire, the French premier, started today for Russia, surrounded by all the signs usually accompanying a great state pilgrimage. Aristide Briand, minister of justice; Theophile Delcasse, minister of marine; Albert Lebrun, minister of the colonies; Armand Mallard, chief of the protocol; Louis Lepine, prefect of police of Paris, the secretaries and attaches of the Russian embassy and the staff of the French foreign office were all present at the station to emphasize the occasion, while in the president's train traveled all the leading journalists of France, who always mobilize when questions of high politics are in the air.

Near-eastern questions and the Franco-Russian naval convention, the signature of which by M. Poincaire in St. Petersburg will bring the whole of the fighting forces of the allies within the terms of an offensive and defensive treaty of alliance, are to be the main subjects of discussion between the emperor of Russia, Sergius Sazonoff, Russian minister of foreign affairs, and the French visitor. The most prominent feature of the visit will naturally be the French-Russian naval agreement which will claim immediate attention.

The eventual opening of the Dardanelles and the steps necessary for its accomplishment are also to be discussed during the 14 days' visit of M. Poincaire to the banks of the Neva. It is pointed out here that this is likely to be the burning question in the settlement of the Turco-Italian war, for it is felt that Russia is not building $15,000,000 dreadnoughts in the Black sea with the intention of anchoring them in an enclosed lake, and unless the question be settled soon it is bound to cause another European upheaval at the time of the completion of the ships a couple of years hence.

TURKISH DEPUTIES

PASSED VOTE OF WANT OF CONFIDENCE IN TURKISH CABINET

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 5.—The chamber of deputies today passed a vote of want of confidence in the Turkish cabinet and then adjourned without settling on the date of reassembling.

There were many stormy scenes during the session, which began at 10 o'clock this morning. Deputy Rahmi of Saloniki and Deputy Tchamlik of Albania drew revolvers in the course of the debate and were about to fire at each other when some of their colleagues parted them.

Djavid Bey, a Saloniki deputy and ex-minister of finance and public works, delivered an exciting speech in which he vehemently attacked the cabinet, declaring it had shown a reactionary spirit and had trampled on the Turkish constitution.

The motion censuring the cabinet was passed by acclamation.

CHILD KILLED

RUN OVER BY AUTO OWNED BY HAVERHILL MAN

LYNN, Aug. 5.—Doris Virginia Clarke 3-year-old daughter of David H. Clark of 19 Lowell street, was instantly killed late yesterday afternoon by a touring car owned and driven by Eugene J. Kempton of Haverhill on Summer street near Lowell street. Kempton was arrested, charged with manslaughter, and later was released on bail of $3000.

The little girl was playing with a number of playmates near the corner of Summer and Lowell streets. Kempton was coming from Saugus, accompanied by his wife, two sons and a daughter. In some unknown manner the Clark child was struck by the machine, which passed over her body.

The police were notified and the ambulance hurried the little girl to the hospital. Physicians stated that death was instantaneous.

Mr. Kempton declared he was going at a fair rate of speed and the accident was unavoidable.

BILLERICA

Constables Livingston and Conway of Billerica are on the lookout for all unlicensed dogs within the limits of the town, for according to the state law they have full power to do away with them, and this they will do if any are caught inside of the Billerica boundary line. The law provides "that the constables, within 10 days after the first of July in each year shall kill or cause to be killed all dogs within such town not licensed or collared according to the provisions of the revised laws, and to enter complaints against the owners or keepers thereof." The town officials feel that stringent methods should be taken to collect the dog licenses this year.

FIVE SAILORS

WERE ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF GAMBLING

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 5.—Soon after midnight Sergt. John Leary with five patrolmen visited the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian association, where a crap game was in progress on the lower floor.

Each officer selected one bluejacket and five were trapped while the others made their escape. The bluejackets were from battleships, torpedo boat destroyers and the training station.

Besides dice the police took $1.50 of the total receipts in the ring.

The sailors were arraigned in the police court later, charged with gambling on the Lord's Day and pleaded guilty. Each was fined $5 and costs.

PRES. TAFT

TO ATTEND THE FUNERAL OF J. W. HERRON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President and Mrs. Taft will leave Washington tonight for Cincinnati to attend the funeral of J. W. Herron, Mrs. Taft's father, who died there early today. The death of Mr. Herron was not unexpected by the president and Mrs. Taft but the news was a shock to both.

The president will return to Washington Thursday morning.

MURDER MYSTERY IS LIKELY TO BE CLEARED

The Crime Was Committed Five Years Ago—Man Says He Witnessed Murder

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—After more than five years of mystery—years which revealed no definite clew to the man who killed fifteen-year-old Amelia Stafeldt at Rockaway, L. I., on May 22, 1907—the police of the Rockaways have again taken up the trail.

For these five years a young man has been confined in the Kings Park, L. I., insane asylum. He is Henry Becker, who was arrested shortly after the killing of the girl. He was suspected, but the grand jury refused to indict him, and it was later found that he was mentally unbalanced.

Nevertheless, it was undoubtedly the Stafeldt murder that was the primary cause of his incarceration.

For the last few days detectives of Far Rockaway have been at work in the vicinity of Lawrence, L. I., gathering new information regarding the strange and shocking tragedy. An entirely different person is under suspicion.

Where their information came from is not known, but the information given the proprietor of Uebacker's hotel at Lawrence, that a conversation be overheard in his place a few weeks ago aroused his suspicion.

Uebacker says an elderly man was talking with a group of friends in the hotel one night when the mystery of the Stafeldt girl's death was mentioned.

"Oh, it was that fellow Becker that killed her," someone said.

"No," replied the elderly man slowly, "Becker isn't the man. I saw that murder. It's troubled me ever since. That murder was done by some one pretty close to home."

So the police are again looking into the case, and it is predicted an arrest—one that may startle the quiet community of Lawrence—will be made shortly.

Amelia Stafeldt, an unusually attractive child, daughter of a well-to-do farmer, was killed in a field near the farm while picking dandelion greens. She was cruelly attacked and stabbed to death with the dull case-knife with which she had been uprooting the greens.

The bride was becomingly attired in a white hand embroidered marquisette gown. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and wore a white picture hat. The bridesmaid was dressed in white marquisette and she carried pink roses and wore a pink picture hat.

After the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, 54 Abbott street and at noon dinner was served to the relatives and friends of the happy couple. I., of the Sacred Heart church, Lowell, both cousins of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll were the recipients of numerous gifts. They left Lowell on an afternoon train for an extended wedding tour, after which they will be at home to their friends at 218 Thorndike street, after Oct. 1.

FOOD DEPT. STORES ARE RECOMMENDED

As Means of Reducing Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The committee on markets of the New York state food investigating commission made public yesterday its recommendations as to cheapening the cost of living in this and other cities of the state, based on data gathered at public hearings here and elsewhere since February.

New Yorkers, it is estimated by the committee, spend $641,683,000 a year on food, of which 45 per cent. is mere cost of distribution, and a saving of 10 to 20 per cent. in the cost of that distribution, which the committee believes its plans will cause, means from $60,000,000 to $120,000,000 saved to the public.

As to this city, the committee, of which William C. Osborne is chairman, is against the construction of public markets and terminals that might impose heavy fixed charges on the community and be incapable of changing with altered conditions of population and habits.

The committee concludes that the large retail food department store buying direct, receiving direct and each selling, to 25,000 to 50,000 persons, is the best economic type in point of efficiency, minimum of waste, satisfactory distribution and due rewards for management and capital. Towards the development of such stores the committee believes retailers, wholesalers and private organizations should move.

Some of the other recommendations of the committee are:

That the charters of the various cities of the state be amended so as to provide for departments of markets charged with the economic and sanitary supervision of food supplies used in the municipalities.

That the primary or wholesale prices be fixed by systematic auction sales in lots suitable for purchase by retailers, conducted under the direction of the city or of a public organization, not for profit, in which all parties interested should have a voice, constituting on primary prices, a producers' and consumers' market.

That accurate statements of market needs and prices be sent to producers; that they be protected from extortion and offered facilities for marketing.

That the railroad and steamship lines entering our cities be encouraged and required to provide adequate facilities for the prompt deliveries of food products, for their sale by auctions on the premises, for temporary storage, both dry and cold for the publication of bulletins showing what supplies are to arrive.

This change has been ordered to lessen the danger.

TERRIBLY BURNED

MARY MULCAHY PLAYED WITH MATCHES IN BED

WORCESTER, Aug. 5.—Three-year-old Mary Mulcahy of 59 Belmont street, daughter of Thomas P. Mulcahy, was terribly burned at the home of Mrs. Katie Holden, 57 Belmont street yesterday, while playing with matches in bed.

The child received third degree burns all over her body and was taken to the hospital, where her name is on the dangerous list. Her mother had been at the hospital two weeks and neighbors were caring for the child. How she got the matches is not known, but when Mrs. Holden rushed into the room in response to Mary's screams she found the bed clothing a mass of flames. Bravely Mrs. Holden wrapped the child in blankets, smothering the fire, but not in time to prevent burns that will probably prove fatal.

THREE HIGHWAYMEN

FAILED IN ATTEMPT TO ROB NEW LONDON MEN

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 5.—Three highwaymen attempted to relieve Marketman Melvin Mason of a roll of about $200 on the main road west of Niantic at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Mason and his clerk, William Messenger, put up a stiff battle and the footpads were forced to take to their heels.

Mason and Messenger were in a wagon, bound for Niantic station to get the Sunday papers, when the trio pounced upon them from a clump of bushes. During the melee that followed, one of the would-be robbers discharged a revolver five times and Mason received a bullet in the stomach.

He walked to his home, telephoned for a surgeon, had the bullet extracted and later was able to deliver his papers as though nothing had taken place.

Sheriff Sidney A. Brown and his deputies and several state policemen searched for the strangers all day, but none of them had been captured up to a late hour last night.

VARIETY OF CASES IN POLICE COURT TODAY

Judge Enright Kept Busy Hearing Larceny and Drunk Charges

William Alexander and his wife, Margaret, who reside in Auburn street disturbed the neighbors yesterday morning.

The police were called and they found that the doors were barricaded. One of the officers shouted that he was an officer of the law and wanted to be admitted.

"The first man who tries to come through this door will be killed," was the answer.

The officers forced an entrance and found the woman, but the man was missing. Word was telephoned to the police station and subsequently the man was captured.

In police court this morning the man was charged with drunkenness and maliciously breaking two doors in a house owned by Hosea B. Hill, and the woman was charged with being drunk. Both entered pleas of guilty.

Judge Enright after considering the testimony in the case found both guilty and ordered Alexander to 60 days in jail and his wife to pay a fine of $10.

Drunken Offenders

There were many drunken offenders in court this morning but the majority of them were first offenders. Ten simple drunks were released.

Robert Marr was sent to jail for 30 days.

Hermenegilde Frappier, Thomas E. McKeon and Michael Giblin were fined $6 each.

Two first offenders were fined $2 each.

Case Continued

Christini Mouski was charged with the larceny of an iron bar and saw, both of the value of $2 and the property of James J. McManmon. It is alleged that the articles were stolen on July 25. Charles A. Foye, an officer of Dracut, made the arrest. By agreement the case was continued until tomorrow morning.

A Family Affair

John, Joseph, Elizabeth and Mary Kiernan were arrested in a house in Wall street, Saturday night by Patrolman Alfred J. Cooney. Elizabeth, the mother of the two boys, is blind, and she presented a very pitiful appearance when she entered court this morning, escorted by two young women. According to the testimony offered, the mother and two sons and niece had been drinking heavily. Inasmuch as it was the first offense for all of the offenders three of them were ordered to pay a fine of $2, while the mother, Elizabeth, was placed on probation for three months.

Found Not Guilty

Anthony Kawiewicz was charged with the larceny of 20 pounds of pork, three pieces of stove lining, ten keys and two table cloths, the property of Jacob Cichowski. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty and after the case had been heard Judge Enright found the defendant not guilty and ordered him discharged.

The complainant and defendant occupied tenements at 21 Summer street for some time and on July 21 the former vacated his house and took up residence in another place. He took away the large pieces of furniture and many other articles, but left several small articles in the house. When he went back he found that they were gone, but after reporting the matter to the police the articles were returned to him.

Withdrew His Appeal

Peter Rusick, who was found guilty of assault and battery last week and was fined $20 and appealed, came into court this morning and withdrew his appeal and the sentence was affirmed.

Suspended Sentence

Mrs. Elmina Lalime and her daughter, Amanda, the latter almost still in her teens, were arraigned before Judge Enright this morning on a charge of drunkenness. They both denied their guilt, but after hearing the evidence the court found otherwise and imposed a suspended sentence of two months to the house of correction, placing both on probation for a term of six months.

Patrolman Gelinas who made the arrest testified that his attention was attracted to the house of the defendants in Hall street early yesterday morning by loud outcries.

PRESIDENT TAFT

ACCEPTS THE RESIGNATION OF JUDGE HANFORD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President Taft today accepted the resignation of Federal Judge Hanford of Seattle, tendered when Judge Hanford's conduct on the bench was being investigated by a congressional committee. The committee advised acceptance of the resignation and the dropping of the impeachment proceedings.

TITANIC SUFFERERS' FUND

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Although the Mansion house and other funds for the relief of the Titanic sufferers exceed $2,000,000 reports made to the lord mayor indicate that all of this will be required to maintain the allowances now made for the relief of the dependents of the victims of the disaster.

Of 673 of the crew who were drowned 535 belonged to Southampton and 138 to other places. For those belonging to Southampton claims have been made to the Mansion house committee for 239 widows, 533 children under 16 years of age and 213 other dependents.

Claims have been received also on behalf of the dependents of 461 of the 817 passengers lost in the wreck.

OPERATIVES ON STRIKE

ADAMS, Aug. 5.—More than four hundred operatives employed in mill number four of the Berkshire Cotton Manufacturing company struck today because four operatives refused to join the weavers' union. As a result of the strike mill number 4 was closed. The company officials said that the other mills were not affected by the strike. The company employs 2000 employes.

ROSENTHAL CASE
Continued

LIEUT. BECKER

SAID TO HAVE ADVISED ROSE TO SURRENDER

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—"Jack" Rose was double-crossed.

How it was done, why Rose went to police headquarters and gave himself up, what conclusions later prompted him to make full confession to the district attorney, how he was led to believe that a vast fund would be raised to defend him and what brilliant lawyers would appear in his behalf, were all revealed last night for the first time since Herman Rosenthal was shot to death in front of the Hotel Metropole.

Sharp upon the heels of this remarkable recital may be expected the most amazing revelations and developments that have been brought to light by Mr. Whitman's investigation.

If it was Lieut. Becker who arranged that Attorney Aaron J. Levy should be employed to conduct the defense of the owners of the gray murder automobile—Shapiro and Libby—and Rose says it was, a final link in the chain of direct circumstances connecting Becker with the full conspiracy to murder Rosenthal will be forged.

Today one big question looms above all else. It is this:

"Who was the policeman that hired Attorney Levy?"

Rose says that he knows, and Rose will tell!

When the public first heard that "Jack" Rose had confessed and accused Police Lieut. Charles A. Becker with directing the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, only half the story was told.

It is the sharp, high details of this revelation of modern brigandage, fostered under the cloak of metropolitan municipal government, through its chief protective system, that will prove most astounding.

Becker Advised Surrender

The most vital point of this startling narrative by Rose is his statement that it was Lieut. Becker who advised him to go to police headquarters and surrender; that he did this, acting strictly in line with definite instructions given to him by Becker over a telephone, and that he was positively assured that he would not be detained as a prisoner.

"It was upon the night before I surrendered that Becker advised me to go to headquarters," said Rose, in narrating the story. "The two chauffeurs who owned the gray murder car—Shapiro and Libby—were prisoners. I was in hiding at the home of my friend, Harry Pollok.

"Becker telephoned to me during that night. He told me that I must go down to headquarters and give them an explanation. I at once protested. I told Becker that I was sick in body and mind, and that I did not feel able to make a statement, much less stand up to a grilling.

"Becker assured me that there wouldn't be anything to it. He declared that all I had to give was an 'explanation;' that he knew what he was doing, and that it would come out right. Becker said to me: 'Say, Jack, these fellows (Shapiro and Libby) have told them that you two hired their car that night. Now, there is nothing to it but coming down and explaining that away. Just tell them that of course you hired their car as you have done a hundred times before.'

"I was still leery. I told Becker that I was afraid to go to headquarters because I had a hunch that I wouldn't get away. Becker positively assured me that it was all fixed, that I would not be detained."

Monumental Bluff Attempted.

At this point in his narrative Rose declared that he relied upon Becker above every one else. He said that Becker held all police men in absolute contempt; that Becker's superiors were actually treated as his inferiors by the head of the "strong-arm" squad.

Before the telephone conversation ended Becker had convinced Rose that they could get away with the most monumental bluff ever attempted upon a metropolitan detective bureau. And Rose said that he passed his word to Becker to go through the ordeal.

Now Rose insists that he obeyed Becker's instructions literally. But he also admits that he went one step further and did something on his own initiative. And this very thing later proved the stumbling block to whatever prearranged scheme existed. Rose has told the district attorney under oath that a prearranged plot did exist.

Bad Complexions Are Now Easily Discarded

(From The Beauty Seeker)

Every woman has it in her own hands to possess a beautiful and youthful complexion. No matter how soiled, faded or coarse the cuticle, ordinary mercolized wax will actually remove it, and Nature will substitute a skin as soft, clear and lovely as a child's. The action of the wax is not drastic, but gentle and agreeable. Minute particles of scarf skin come off day by day, yet no evidence of the treatment is discernible, other than the gradual complexional improvement. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, suffices for most cases. It is put on at bedtime like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water. It is a certain method of discarding tan, freckles, sun spots, liver spots, moth patches, blackheads and pimples.

Wrinkles can be treated with benefit by bathing the face in a lotion prepared by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Instantaneous results are secured.

THE GANGSTERS

ARE REPORTED TO BE IN BOSTON, MASS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—From Boston came a suggestion that within 48 hours corroboration would be obtained there of the confessions made by Jack Rose and "Bridgie" Webber that Lieutenant Becker ordered the killing of Rosenthal. The investigation in Boston is in charge of the W. J. Burns Detective Agency, working under the orders of District Attorney Whitman.

Superintendent Smith of the Burns agency has located, according to the report from Boston, several men who have knowledge of the preparations for the murder of Rosenthal and of the killing. The Burns chief admitted that he expected important news shortly, but he would not say what men he expected to arrest. "Big Jake" Zelig was in Dorchester, a Boston suburb, recently, and others of the gang believed to have been implicated in the murder have been seen at Revere Beach.

Late last night it was said the men wanted had left Boston.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, at his home in Sheepshead Bay last night, had his ear to a phone waiting for news from the Catskills that Louis Rosenzweig (Lefty Louie) and Harry Horowitz (Gib the Blood) had been captured. From Inspector Hughes, in charge of the central office men in the mountains, word came to Dougherty last evening that the hunt was still active.

The news from Tannersville, Greene county, around which the New York detectives and deputy sheriffs have been operating, was that the two men accused of the murder of Rosenthal had slipped through the police lines, and that the hunt was over so far as the Catskills were concerned.

One of the central office men, who under the circumstances appeared to be extraordinarily loquacious said that the detectives were withdrawing from the mountains and returning to New York because they had got information that Lefty Louie and Gib the Blood, would surrender today at police headquarters. Headquarters said this communicative sleuth had been informed of the forthcoming surrender and had therefore ordered back the Catskill squad.

Mr. Dougherty flatly denied the story. He said that he was in charge of the hunt for the fugitives and that he had every reason to believe that Rosenszweig and Horowitz were hiding in one of the little villages west of the town of Catskill. He had given no orders, he said, for a discontinuance of the chase. On the contrary, he was continuing by telephone the direction of the Catskill squad. It was untrue, also, said the deputy commissioner, that the police had received word that the two would surrender today.

"Maybe somebody is interested in circulating that story," he added. "I am working now on the same theory that I started on," said Dougherty. "The men we want were in the Catskills recently, and I believe they are now. We think we have them located in a comparatively small district. Rosenszweig and Horowitz are running out of money and they can't conceal themselves very much longer.

BOSTON SLEUTH

SEEK GUNMEN IN ROSENTHAL CASE AT NANTASKET.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—One of the best known resorts for gamblers in Greater Boston situated on Green Hill, Nantasket, was searched by Boston detectives yesterday, acting under orders from Aaron Levy, counsel for the owners of the automobile which carried the murderers of Herman Rosenthal in New York 21 days ago.

Levy received a tip during a tour he himself made of Boston's underworld after midnight, that "Lefty Louie" and "Big Jack" Zelig, were at Nantasket.

As soon as he returned to the Touraine, Levy got into touch with a Boston detective agency. An automobile carried four detectives to Green Hill, who spent the day in and about the resort named.

"Lefty Louie" or "Big Jack" were no longer there. The detectives uncovered something good, however.

"The New York police sanctioned the murder of Herman Rosenthal they were fixed; I can prove it," declared Levy.

He left the Touraine last night for Worcester. He had just returned from a midnight tour of Boston's underworld, during which he interviewed several men he wanted to see.

This was one of yesterday's important developments in the local end of the New York murder conspiracy.

Another was Attorney Levy's statement that there was a "woman in the case," whom he and Attorney Whitman wished to interview.

This is believed to be the paramour of one of the New York "guns." The New York taxicab robbery was solved when one of the women in the case told what she knew.

Boston gamblers who have "sat in" at the same poker table with the much-sought "gunmen" and who know them personally, saw the pair early Friday evening strolling arm in arm on the boulevard at Revere beach.

Private detectives were down there, looking for them, a fact which it is believed they very quickly ascertained as they decided that the atmosphere elsewhere would be found much more enjoyable.

It is thought they immediately went to Nantasket beach, to the resort mentioned, the proprietor of which is well known to the sporting world, and passed Saturday evening. The detectives, finding the pair had evidently left Revere, believed their quarry could be found at Nantasket.

During the day, however, no trace of the men could be found and it is thought that they had been tipped off concerning the detectives coming and once more slipped through their grasp.

The two detectives who are known to have been in Worcester all day yesterday afternoon and evening may have been following the fleeing gunmen.

This may have also been the reason for Attorney Levy making such a hurried trip to that city after consulting with Mr. Morgan of the Wood-Morgan agency, changing his entire plan of leaving Boston this morning for New York to meet Attorney Whitman as he originally intended.

That the men may be in Worcester was evidenced by the fact that other detectives are to be rushed to that city tomorrow.

Attorney Levy put in a busy day at the Touraine. Returning from his midnight tour of the underworld, he bathed, breakfasted, got District Attorney Whitman almost immediately on the long-distance telephone, and then enlisted the services of the Wood-Morgan detective agency.

Then came the departure for Worcester, escorted by Wood-Morgan detective agency men and two "strong-arm" bodyguards of his own importation. At Worcester Levy stopped with James Dorr, the wealthy woolen merchant.

"I shall go on to New York on the midnight," he told reporters.

It was reported last night New York detectives at Tannersville, N. Y., had definitely located and surrounded "Lefty" Louie and "Gyp the Blood" (Harry Horowitz), the two gangsters wanted in connection with the Rosenthal murder, but this proved to be erroneous.

The fugitives have not been found but the detectives are continuing their search in that vicinity.

Since the Rosenthal murder there has been a steady influx of gamblers from New York into this city. It is estimated that at present the minimum number of New York pickpockets, gunmen and gamblers hereabouts is 150. The majority of these are daily seen at Revere beach, where Zelig and "Lefty Louie" are known to have been together.

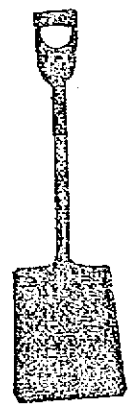

Known to Police

Knowing the summer resorts about Boston and being well versed in the art of extracting property from unsuspecting persons' pockets, "Lefty Louie," who has been arrested and convicted of picking pockets in this city would seek those who follow the same means as himself to secure a livelihood.

The sudden activities on the part of the police may cause many of the gang to move from their present quarters. Most all of these men are known to Boston police inspectors and would not be likely to stay in the city.

It is believed that there are at present about Boston men other than Zelig and "Lefty Louie" whom District Attorney Whitman would like very much to lay hands on. Many other New York "gunmen" beside the two mentioned are more or less implicated, and it is believed that the private detectives are searching for them also.

MEXICAN REBELS ON WAY TO BORDER

They Are Destroying the Northwestern Road

JUAREZ, Mexico, Aug. 5.—General Salazer, the rebel leader responsible for the disarming of the American colonists is heading for the border with his 10,000 rebels. On his way Salazer is destroying the Mexico Northwestern railroad. In this way he hopes to delay pursuit by the two federal armies which temporarily pocketed him at Casas Grandes.

The on-coming insurrectos will join their chief, Pascual Orozco, who with about 500 men remains here. Salazar's arrival at Juarez would combine particularly all of the rebels operating in Chihuahua and the next problem would be to proceed successfully into Sonora, the border state to the west, where other rebel groups are operating. On account of the scarcity of the water supply the trip directly along the international line is almost impossible.

The Northwestern railway, which will be destroyed by the rebels, is a Canadian and American-owned road of the Pearson corporation. It was reported that the rebels had made a demand on the Pearson Lumber Co. for $100,000 with the threat that the plant of the company at Pearson would be burned if the money was not delivered.

STRIKE COLLECTORS

SENT FROM NEW BEDFORD TO OTHER CITIES

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 5.—The strike situation is quiet this morning. The chief activity about labor headquarters is the sending out of additional collectors to new fields. Ten were started for Springfield, Worcester, Lynn, Boston, Haverhill and Providence.

The weavers had nothing to say as to what action they might possibly take this evening to relieve the situation, but it is certain that after the endorsement of their position by the national federation of cloth weavers at the meeting here yesterday that they will not change their policy of fighting against the grading system to any great extent.

That the manufacturers do not expect any change in the situation was stated this morning when it was learned that Secretary William O. Devoll of the Manufacturers' association left for New York on a business trip to be absent a day or two.

Collectors sent out last week reported and the money taken while reported as a fair sum was hardly up to expectations.

REPAIRS BEING MADE AT ST. PATRICK'S SCHOOL

Rev. Fr. Flynn Preached at Sacred Heart

A force of workmen is engaged in remodeling and extensively repairing the parochial school building of St. Patrick's parish. The desks and benches have been removed temporarily so as not to interfere with the work which is progressing rapidly. New hardwood floors are being laid and the old plaster ceilings will be replaced by the more modern steel variety. The interior furnishings will be repainted and varnished. The date set for the opening of the fall term is Monday, September 9th.

Immaculate Conception

The members of Holy Rosary society of the church of the Immaculate Conception have arranged to hold a picnic to Revere Beach on Tuesday August 13th. A special car will convey the party to their destination. The number of those who have already signified their intention of attending is quite large.

Although no definite day has been determined upon, it is quite probable that the parochial school will reopen on September 9th with the others. The building has been thoroughly cleaned and renovated.

Sacred Heart

At the high mass at the Sacred Heart church yesterday, Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I., delivered the sermon, it being his first appearance in the pulpit of the church for five months. He first expressed his pleasure at being back with his friends and spoke on the gospel of the day. Preceding the sermon, a trio composed of Messrs. John McMahon, Henry Curry and George Kerwin, sang Abt's "Ave Maris Stella," in a very impressive manner.

Rev. Dennis Finnegan, O. M. I., who is enjoying a vacation in Lowell, celebrated mass. The responses of the mass were given by the sanctuary choir, and John J. Kelty presided at the organ and directed the choir.

St. Mary's, Collinsville

A meeting of all the committees of St. Mary's parish will be held in Harmony hall, tomorrow evening, and plans for the annual lawn party, which will be held on the grounds surrounding the hall on next Saturday afternoon and evening will be made. A fine program for the affair has been arranged and the committees are confident that this year's party will be the most successful in the history of the parish.

McMANUS' PICNIC

Constable John McManus reports all in readiness for his 13th annual outing to the poor children of Lowell. The affair will be held on Aug. 14th at Mountain Rock, and John has tickets for the event on which is printed a good picture of himself. The cars will leave Merrimack square at 8 o'clock in the morning, and inasmuch as there will be 13 police officers with the children, he guarantees that the best order will prevail. The children are all requested to carry along a dipper for the lemonade, and John promises enough food for everybody.

AN AUDIENCE OF 1000 HEARD CANDIDATE CHAPIN

Prohibition Candidate for President Addressed Meeting on the South Common

An audience aggregating nearly 1000 people gathered on the South common last evening to listen to a speech by Eugene W. Chafin of Waukesha, Wis., prohibition candidate for the presidential chair. Mr. Chafin who is a man of eloquent language commanded the earnest attention of his audience as he stated his political stand in regard to the liquor traffic.

"Capt." Stanley, a singer of campaign songs, accompanied the candidate and he won the applause of the audience with his witty speech and verse.

Introducing Mr. Chafin, Rev. James M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church said: "He is willing to be the best president of the United States we have ever had."

With a pleasing directness, Mr. Chafin spoke as follows:

"Last year in the west, the potato crop was small, but we didn't pay any attention to the old law about demand regulating the cost so we kept right on eating potatoes. Pretty soon the price went higher and we had to go over to Ireland for potatoes. Just think of it: sending to Ireland for potatoes when we have 150,000 acres of unoccupied land out in the western country, where millions of bushels of potatoes might be raised. And think, too, that we have here in this country about ten million persons who do not pretend to produce anything.

"What is the solution of the great economic question confronting us? The solution lies right in that vast army of non-producers whom we are forced to carry along and feed and clothe. Nearly one million men are annually engaged in nothing but making and selling intoxicating liquors. Taken into account the families of these men and the army grows to five millions. That army hasn't produced a loaf of bread. It doesn't make a suit of clothing. Who feeds it and clothes it? The men who earned two billion dollars last year and who passed it over the saloon bars paid for the support of that army. If there is one drinking man here he can say to himself that he has purchased many bricks for the house of the saloon keeper, has bought him loaves of bread, has put clothing onto his back.

"In the penitentiaries of the land are 200,000 young men, all under the age of 21 years, who are being fed and clothed by the tax payers. Most of those young men, 95 per cent. of them, are serving time because of intoxicating liquors. In addition to these we have an army of tramps and drunkards, who produce nothing. And again, we have an army of police and court officials who would have no occupation if the liquor traffic were stopped. All these policemen and court officials and retainers, lawyers among them, total up five million more to add to the class of non-producers. Here we have ten million persons, that we are forced to carry along and support. And it is all due to our absolutely wrong economic system that we are forced to give them a living.

"Last year five hundred millions of dollars were taken from the taxpayers of this country to protect 97 per cent. of the country's population from three per cent., to keep the three per cent. from killing the 97 per cent. and from stealing everything which isn't nailed down. And the five hundred million dollars hasn't done very much at that. The thievery went on, there were 9000 murders and everything the acknowledged thief class didn't take was stolen by the police of the city of New York.

"Last year $15,000,000 bushels of grain was raised and used for the purpose of distilling liquor. Had that amount of grain been put in the market the price of wheat would have dropped 10 per cent. In the past 10 years but the number of beef cattle has increased but three per cent. If that grain had been fed to cattle to raise beef instead of being put into whiskey, you would have had a whole lot more good meat to eat, and at a decently low figure at that.

"We will look at the three notable men who are candidates for president. Mr. Taft is supposed to be a statesman. Mr. Wilson is one of the finest men in morals and education who has ever pursued the office. He is the best scholar who has been a candidate since James Madison. And everybody supposes Mr. Roosevelt is the biggest thing on earth. All three of these men are supposed to have studied our economic questions. But not one of them has uttered a single sentence that touches upon the great liquor question. Either these distinguished gentlemen know the awful waste that is being caused or if they don't know it they are not fit for the high office to which they aspire. And if they do know of it and don't say something about it they do not deserve to be elected, any one of them.

"The prohibition party, if it gets into power, proposes not to stop the sale of liquor in a single township until it has stopped the government from granting the right to manufacture it. Elect me president and send a congress of prohibition congressmen to Washington, and we'll make a severe penalty for making liquor.

"Somebody asked me yesterday what I would do with the saloon keepers, if the prohibition ticket were elected. Well, I would get that vast army of 50,000 men into line, have them put on their best white aprons and would then lead them out to the 750,000 acres of unoccupied land in the west, where they would be forced to produce something worth while. And the bartenders? They could get jobs on western farms at $30 and $40 a month and keep, and they could assist in producing something worth while. And the police court judges and the police court lawyers and sheriffs and police officers could be allowed to look for their employment, for there would really be nothing for them to do.

"You will have no change in economic conditions until this liquor condition is wiped out. Many drinking men every year vote the prohibition ticket, and every drinking man ought to vote it. It would be the best thing that could happen to him. It is a lot more consistent for a drinking man to vote to prohibit the manufacture of liquor than it is for a church member to vote the whiskey ticket.

"The prohibition platform holds a plank which means that in the future there need be no shedding of blood to settle disputes. The first thing I would do if elected president would be to create a bureau of peace, and then do away with the bureaus of navy and army. A court of international arbitration would settle all of the disputes. But the election of a democratic or republican or progressive candidate will not solve the matter of waste which I have shown to you. It's the simplest thing in the world. Perform a surgical operation on this old cancer that's eating into our vitals, perform it by voting the prohibitionist ticket."

DOES NOT THINK THAT ALDRICH WILL RUN

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 5.—Governor Aram J. Pothier, who had not visited Newport for more than a year, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Marsden J. Perry.

The governor and Mrs. Pothier attended the dedication ceremonies of St. Augustine's church yesterday morning and later drove about the cottage colony with Mr. and Mrs. Perry.

Yesterday afternoon Governor Pothier was asked about the report that ex-United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich was to be a candidate for reelection, to which the executive replied he did not think the report was true. Asked if he knew who would be the candidate for Senator George Peabody Wetmore's seat when he retires this year, replied: "I have heard the name of Judge Lebdron Colt of Bristol mentioned, but this is not new and perhaps you have heard the same report."

The governor, asked if he were enjoying his visit at Newport, said: "You have a grand place here and I am enjoying every moment of my stay, which unfortunately ends tomorrow morning, as I am taking an early train for Providence."

Governor Pothier and Mrs. Pothier were entertained at a dinner last night. The 30 guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Irving, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Miss Josephine Gibson, Miss Beatrice Colt of Bristol, Charles Thompson of Narragansett Pier, Mrs. Oliver H. Belmont, Capt. and Mrs. William B. Caperton of the naval station, Frederick H. Paine, Commander William P. Scott of the navy, Col. and Mrs. Samuel M. Nicholson of Providence and Mr. von Bulow, attache of the German embassy.

Over One Thousand In City Today

TREMENDOUS SUCCESS OF NEW REMEDY ATTRACTS ATTENTION OF LARGER CITIES

It was stated that over one thousand people in Lowell and vicinity are strong supporters of Var-ne-sis, the new remedy now being introduced at a local store down town. The tremendous success this remedy is having has attracted attention all over New England and letters come pouring in seeking further information about the medicine. For the benefit of those who cannot call on the Var-ne-sis physician here it was announced that all reliable drug stores carry Var-ne-sis and if one is unable to secure it or is offered a substitute, write to the doctor direct.

Among those who consented to talk for publication was Mr. J. E. Willett, a well known Lowell man, who lives at 57 West Fifth street, and a more enthusiastic man it would be hard to find. He said: "For 20 years I suffered with rheumatism in my shoulders and hands; it gradually worked down until it settled in my feet and knees and I was unable to bend my knees. When I got up in the morning it was almost impossible to get about and sometimes I had to actually crawl about until I got limbered up. I tried every kind of cures and remedies without relief, and I finally gave up all hope of ever getting rid of this trouble.

"An old friend of mine who was cured of a severe case of stomach trouble and rheumatism recommended Var-ne-sis to me and I began to take it immediately. Well, I am glad I listened to him for it has absolutely cured me every sign of that dread disease. My limbs and feet are as limber as can be and I know what it is to walk with comfort again, thanks to Var-ne-sis."

This remedy is composed of entirely different ingredients than that usually given for this disease and the success they are having with it more than bears out the statement that we are living in an enlightened age and nothing is impossible. Its main action is on the stomach and liver and Mr. Varney says get these organs working right and with good, rich blood, disease cannot exist.

The Var-ne-sis physician will meet the public at Dows drug store, corner Merrimack and Central streets, every day from 10 in the morning to 8 at night.

REV. A. C. LINCOLN AT KIRK ST. CHURCH

Talked on "The Progressive Christian"

"The Progressive Christian" was the topic of a sermon preached yesterday morning at the Kirk Street church by Rev. A. C. Lincoln of Moline, Ill. The words of Paul: "Forgetting the things which are behind, and stretching forward to the things which are before; I press toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Jesus Christ," served as his text.

"Every age has its watchword," said the speaker in opening his address.

He went on to contrast the conservative policies so popular in this country a short time ago, with the progressive tendency of today. St. Paul, he said, was a true progressive. Being the exponent of a new religion it was his policy to cease to cling to precedent and to strive for what was before him, to "forget the things which are behind." In the developing of his text, Rev. Mr. Lincoln said in part:

"These words, 'Forgetting the things which are behind and stretching forward to the things which are before,' catch the attention and engage the interest of a true progressive in any walk of life.

"But these words, 'Forgetting the things which are behind,' if taken literally, are the counsel of impossibility. We cannot forget the past if we would, and most of it we would not forget if we could. Painting, architecture, music, science, literature, commerce, government, religion: all of these by their present power testify to the virility of the past in the present. In the matter of commerce,—of the business world in which we daily toil and which we daily enjoy, we find strong testimony to the healthy influence of the past. The man who would try literally to forget the past and press forward into the future, is a dangerous radical.

He went on to interpret the text of Paul more clearly.

Forget the evil of the past, he said, for it will hinder the good of the future. Forget the good deeds of the past for one must forget what he has once accomplished, in large measure, that he may repeat his success.

Concluding, he said:

"The things of the heart are the greatest source of wealth. Love is the highest of all these things of the heart. Forget te things that are behind you in matters which have engaged your affection. Do not let them become an obsession; stretch forward to the things which are before."

MANAGER GRAY

WAS INJURED AT THE LOWELL-LAWRENCE GAME

Manager Gray of the Lowell baseball team met with an accident at the Lowell and Lawrence double-header Friday. He was directing his players from the bench when a foul tip from one of the Lowell men's bats struck him on the left knee. For a few minutes he felt the effect of the blow but thought that he was nothing serious. This morning, however, he discovered that the knee had swollen and it was very painful. He consulted a physician and was advised to carry a cane for a few days.

HEALTH BOARDS ARE CRITICISED

By the State Board of Health

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The state board of health has issued an extended criticism of local boards of health in this state in the matter of caring for tubercular patients who have been released from state sanitariums where consumptives are cared for. This attack is based on the report of Dr. William Hall Coon, the state inspector of health.

Dr. Coon has taken the cases of 80 patients discharged from state sanitariums who returned to one of the largest cities of the state, the name of which is not given. It covers a period from July 19, 1910, to March 14, 1912.

Of this number 49 were discharged as either "apparently cured," "arrested" or "improved." A brief statement of these cases is as follows: Dead 5, disappeared 9, active tubercular process 13, no history 3, in apparent good health 5, not investigated 3, stayed at hospital to work 5.

Of the 80 cases it was found on inquiry at the office of the local board of health that 15 had apparently never been reported. No knowledge whatever could be obtained as to the whereabouts of 20 or the 80 persons supposed to have returned to the city. Of these, nine had been discharged from a state sanitarium as "apparently cured," "arrested" or "improved," four had been discharged as "unimproved" and seven with no comment as to health.

The state inspector found that in the greater number of cases no aid or assistance had been rendered to the persons afflicted and that no inquiry had been made into their surroundings. It appeared to be the custom for the local boards to offer no aid except on request. And in any event no patient was aided unless it was first shown that tubercular was found.

The state board says that this custom prevails among all the boards with a few notable exceptions. It says that the facts were collected without any bias. That there should be co-operation on the part of health officials and private tuberculosis organizations is the claim of the state officials if this disease is to be prevented from spreading.

NORMAN E. MACK

SAYS CAMPAIGN FUND RAN SHORT IN BRYAN'S TIME

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the democratic national committee in 1908, today told the senate committee investigating campaign funds of that year and also those of 1904, that the only contribution he could remember having rejected was one by Col. J. M. Guffey of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. Mack added that after Mr. Bryan had been defeated the campaign committee was several thousand dollars in debt and Guffey's contribution was accepted.

The official report of expenditures which the committee filed at Albany in conformity of the New York state law, Mr. Mack said, was absolutely correct and covered every dollar contributed.

BADLY INJURED

A. H. SARGENT OF NEWTON, N. H. STEPPED IN FRONT OF AUTO

NEWBURYPORT, Aug. 5.—A. H. Sargent, aged 71, a lumber dealer of Newton, N. H. was struck and probably fatally injured yesterday morning by a machine owned and operated by John P. Lane of 7 Bakers road, Everett.

Mr. Sargent was walking on the street car tracks in the direction of this city, and when Mr. Lane's auto was about 75 feet from him a warning was given by a number of toots of the horn.

The elderly man, believing that it was an electric car approaching, stepped from the track directly in front of the machine, which was going at a rate of about 18 miles an hour. He was knocked down, run over and dragged several feet.

Mr. Lane immediately stopped, placed the injured man aboard the car and hurried to the Homeopathic hospital. Mr. Sargent sustained a lacerated wound on the back of the head about two inches long, one over the left eye, and it is feared that he is injured internally.

MILLMEN'S UNION

HELD ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING AT CARPENTERS' HALL

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Millmen's union was held at Carpenters' hall in the Runels building yesterday afternoon, and the most important business of the session was the vote on the strike question. The members of the union have been on strike since July 5, and, contrary to reports, they voted unanimously to remain on strike. C. N. Kimball, organizer, presided and also spoke. Among the other speakers was John Hannigan of Worcester, president of the state council.

It was reported that about all the men who came out on strike are engaged in other places and that the reason they voted to continue the strike was to keep union men from taking the places that they made vacant. At the close of the business session several of the members addressed the gathering.

FALL RIVER

MAY PLAY IN THIS CITY FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

It is expected that the games scheduled between Lowell and Fall River for the latter city on Friday and Saturday will be transferred to Lowell, owing to the fact that Manager John O'Brien of the Fall River team informed Manager Gray on his last visit to Lowell that he would prefer to play in the Spindle City. The Lowell manager said this morning, just before boarding the 11.55 train for Worcester, that he will announce upon his return to Lowell where the games will be played.

Messrs. Elzear Hebert and Arthur Brunelle of this city will spend the coming two weeks at Old Orchard beach.

LOWELL PLAYERS SHOW UP WELL

DeGroff Still the Leading Batter in N. E. League

While three men are ahead of him in the percentage table, Rube DeGroff, the Lowell right fielder, is still the real leader in the New England league batters. He has played all season and has the splendid average of .369. Halstein, who has played in 31 games with the Lowell team, has an average of .389. In the first 30 batters of the league, Lowell has six men.

Clemens of the Lowell team has scored the largest number of runs, 78 and De Groff of the same team is in third place, having crossed the counting station just 69 times.

Clemens also leads the base stealers, having purloined 40, while De Groff is second in this department of the game, having "pinched" 38 during the season. Lowell is way down the list in the sacrifice hitting, Magee and Miller being the leaders of the Lowell team, having made but 15 each during the season. Crum of Worcester, leads in that department, with 26 to his credit.

Lowell leads in team batting with an average of .286. In team fielding, strange to relate, Haverhill is leading the league with the average of .960, and Lowell is in fifth place, with an average of .952.

"Big Jeff" Pfeffer of Lowell has yet to lose a game, having won all that he has participated in to date, five in number. Van Dyke of Worcester is the real leader with a percentage of .714, having won 15 and lost 6 games.

The leading 30 batters of the league and the pitchers who have won the majority of their games are as follows:

Work on New Reservoir Is Progressing Favorably

THE NEW RESERVOIR IN CENTRALVILLE

Commissioner Barrett stated this forenoon that work on the new reservoir is progressing very favorably, and he thinks that work on the roof will be begun next week. The concrete floor has been laid and all but one section of the wall has been completed. Engineer Barbour, who has charge of the work, says the walls are perfect and that the fellow who said one side of the wall was out of plumb must have been suffering from the heat or perhaps had been taking a wee drop too much. Mr. Barbour is one of the best known engineers of reservoir construction in this section of the country, and he was engaged by the water board of 1911 to supervise the work, and the agreement was that he should receive 5 per cent of the total cost of the work. It was figured that the work would cost about $60,000, but Commissioner Barrett believes that it will in all probability foot up to $60,000. The contract was awarded Contractor Cyrus Barton in the early spring, his estimate for all the cement work being $31,940.50, slightly under Charles R. Gow, who bid $32,065. cBrfnoMdNEdln 4 ..N5f-d wer

MAN STRUCK BY AN AUTO RECEIVED SERIOUS INJURIES

James Duckworth and Family of This City Had Narrow Escape at Salem

George W. Dowrey, aged 62 years, residing at 76 Epping street, Wigginville, had a narrow escape from being killed Saturday afternoon as a result of being struck by an automobile near Chandler's turnout in Tewksbury. The unfortunate man was thrown under the machine and dragged a distance of about 25 feet before the machine could be brought to a stop.

Arthur H. Barthwick of Reading, who was driving the machine, brought the car to a stop as soon as possible, and then placed the injured man in the tonneau and hurried him to the state infirmary at Tewksbury where he received attention.

An examination of the man's condition showed that he had sustained two broken ribs and severe bruises about the chest and head.

Dowrey was at the time of the accident engaged with two other men in oiling the roads and, according to the story which his wife gave after visiting him at the hospital, he was facing the automobile and was aware of its approach. He stepped off the road about three feet. When the automobile was almost up to him it seemed to swerve toward him and, seeking to avoid it, he jumped back into the road. The automobile in making another attempt to avoid him, swerved again as he tried to step off the road, but it was too late then to avoid him and the accident resulted.

Narrow Escape

John Duckworth and family of this city had a narrow escape from being badly hurt in Lafayette street, Salem, yesterday, when Mr. Duckworth was forced to run his automobile into a fence in order to escape colliding with a touring car belonging to United States District Attorney Court Judge Edgar Aldrich of Littleton, N. H.

Mr. Duckworth's machine was going through Lafayette street directly behind Judge Aldrich's car when the latter machine made a turn in order to cross into Ocean avenue. In order to avoid striking the car ahead Mr. Duckworth headed for the sidewalk and, after passing over the curbing, struck a fence.

The automobile was badly damaged, but fortunately the occupants escaped injury.

GONE TO CANADA

LOWELL PEOPLE ENJOYING FINE AUTO TRIP

Mr. Omer Deziel and his family and ex-Councilman Arthur Genest with his family left this morning on an extended automobile tour to Canada. Mr. Deziel is using an E. M. F. car, while Mr. Genest will make the tour in a Ford touring car.

The trip was undertaken for the sole purpose of deciding which car would stand the most endurance. Mr. Genest claimed that the Ford could outdo the E. M. F. on a long run, while on the other hand Mr. Deziel has great confidence in his machine and expects to be forced to tow the other car especially in hill climbing.

The party will go from here to Montreal and then to Trois Rivieres. They will push ahead as far as Shawinigan Falls. They will be gone a couple of months, and on the way they expect to meet other Lowell parties who are now travelling in the dominion.

BOEHLING AGAIN HANDS IT TO JIMMY GRAY'S CHAMPS

Score 3 to 1—Large Attendance—Flaherty Made Home Run With One On

Lowell dropped a game to Worcester at Spalding park Saturday afternoon by the score of 4 to 1 before one of the best crowds of the season. Boehling, who pitched for the Busters, seems to have the Indian sign on the locals for on his last appearance here he put it to the Grays in fine style, the score being 17 to 2. He is some pitcher and has great success against us. Wolfgang was on the mound for Lowell and he pitched good ball. The game was won in the first inning, when after Shorten singled, Flaherty put the ball over the left field for a home run. The clout was a corker, and the Worcester third baseman received a great hand, despite the fact that it practically broke up the game. The game in detail:

First Inning

Nye lined to Wolfgang, who threw him out at first; Shorten singled to centre field. Flaherty put the ball over the left field fence, scoring Shorten and himself. McCune went out, Dee to first. Crum struck out, but Lavigne dropped the third strike, and he reached first. Then he stole second. He went to third on a passed ball and tried to come home but was out, Lavigne to Wolfgang.

For Lowell, Clemens drove out a three-bagger to right field. Magee flied out to McCune. DeGroff was hit by a pitched ball and stole second. Halstein struck out. Miller hit to Flaherty, who fumbled and Clemens scored. DeGroff also tried to score on the error and was caught at the plate.

Score: Worcester 2, Lowell 1.

Second Inning

Clements opened up for Worcester by striking out. Haas hit to Dee and was thrown out at first. Smith struck out.

In the latter half Boultes singled and was thrown out at second when Dee hit to Boehling, who threw to Nye. Lavigne hit to Boehling and Dee was thrown out at second. Lavigne stole second and went to third on Smith's bad throw. Wolfgang struck out.

Score—Worcester 2, Lowell 1.

Third Inning

Boehling flied out to De Groff, Nye struck out and Shorten flied to Clemens.

In Lowell's half Clemens flied out to Crum, and Shorten took care of Magee's drive. De Groff was hit by a pitched ball for the second time. Halstein ended the inning by flying out to Smith.

Score—Worcester 2, Lowell 1.

Fourth Inning

In Lynn's half, Flaherty struck out. McCune hit to Wolfgang and was out at first. Clements reached first on an error by Boultes, and when he tried to steal second he was nailed by a play in which Wolfgang, Halstein and Miller figured.

For Lowell, Miller hit to McCune and was an easy out at first. Boultes singled and stole second. Dee went out, Flaherty to Haas. Lavigne sent an easy one to Flaherty, who retired him at first.

Score, Worcester 2, Lowell 1.

Fifth Inning

Clements singled and tried to steal second, but was thrown out, Lavigne to Dee.

Haas was passed to first and stole second. Smith struck out and Boehling flied out to DeGroff.

Wolfgang was an easy out, Nye to Haas. Clemens sent a hot one that McCune cleaned up and got to first in time to nail the Lowell player. Magee flied out to McCune.

Score: Worcester 2, Lowell 1.

Sixth Inning

Nye struck out and Shorten drove a hot one that Miller picked up and tossed to first. Flaherty went out Dee to Halstein.

For Lowell De Groff singled and Halstein hit to Nye and died at first. Miller singled and De Groff tried to score and was caught between third and home. Boultes hit to McCune and was an easy out at first.

Score—Lowell 1, Worcester 2.

Seventh Inning

McCune flied out to Clemens. Crum went to first on an error by Dee and took second on Dee's bad throw to first. Clements hit to Wolfgang who threw Crum out at third. Haas made a three bagger and Clements scored. Smith flied to Clemens.

Dee and Lavigne struck out and Wolfgang hit to McCune and went out at first.

Score—Lowell 1, Worcester 3.

Eighth Inning

Magee dropped Boehling's fly. Nye hit to Halstein who threw to Dee at second getting Boehling. Wolfgang caught Nye napping off first. Shorten went out, Dee to Halstein.

Clemens struck out. Magee singled to left. DeGroff went out, Flaherty to first. Halstein hit to Flaherty and was out at first.

Ninth Inning

Flaherty, Worcester's first man up struck out. McCune singled to center field. Crum hit to Halstein who threw to second getting McCune. Crum tried to steal second and thrown out by Lavigne.

In Lowell's half, Miller flied out to McCune. Boultes went out on a grounder to Haas. Monahan went to bat for Dee and was an easy out at first.

Lowell 1, Worcester 3.

DIAMOND NOTES

Down with Jesse for two days.

Fall River Lore Wednesday and Thursday, and Lowell at Fall River Friday and Saturday, if the schedule isn't changed.

Boehling has Lowell's nanny. He's the boy who fanned Rube De Groff four times one afternoon, and the little fanning exhibition took place at Spalding park, on July 1.

Flaherty's homer was a good clout, and he received the little check calling for 72 packages of the famous Bull.

Thirty-one home runs have been made on the local grounds this season, and for each a check for 72 packages of Bull was issued. That's some bull.

Manager Burkett was a happy individual Saturday, for the attendance looked good to the old boy, and the winning of the game also made the veteran smile.

Durnan is prepared for the usual stakes. The Canadian recently defeated Rainy Hackett and is in great shape. Barry won the title from Dick Arnst of New Zealand on the Thames recently.

The Ponies have a few open dates, and would like to hear from 15-16 year old teams.

The Tiger A. C. won from the Indians, Saturday, 7 to 3.

The Tyler A. C. defeated the Rockdale A. C., Saturday, 10 to 3.

The North Billerica Independents defeated the Chippewas of Lowell, Saturday afternoon, at the Fair grounds, Lowell, by the score of 7 to 4.

The O. M. I. Cadets accept the challenge of the Belvidere A. A. for Aug. 10. The Cadets defeated the Central A. A. and the Methuen A. C. of Lawrence, Saturday, by the scores of 8-1 and 9-10.

The T. R. & T.'s defeated the strong Milford team, Saturday, at Milford, by the score of 7 to 2. McCarthy of the Billerica team was in fine form and allowed the New Hampshire men but seven scattered hits, as well as making two hits and scoring two runs himself. Linehan and Allen also starred for the T. R. & T.'s, while McLane and Kendall batted well for Milford.

LICENSE BOARD

GIVES WORCESTER HOTEL KEEPERS QUITE A SCARE

WORCESTER, Aug. 5.—The liquor license commission, William J. McLoughlin and Moses D. Gilman, went over the heads of the police liquor squad yesterday and stirred up a big scare among the hotel men of the city, when they went on a personal tour of investigation.

The liquor business at the hotel Sterling and Hotel Essex was closed up by order of the commissioners as a result, and the proprietor of the Hotel Vernon will be summoned before them.

The commissioners visited every hotel in the city.

At the Sterling the commissioners say 75 men were drinking freely with no food in sight, except sandwiches and soup plates. This is contrary to their expressly stipulated rules, they say. At the Essex, they also report finding liquors being sold contrary to the regulations laid down and at the Hotel Vernon they charge that beer was being sold to a drunken man. The commissioners also say they are satisfied the tip was passed along to other hotels, for everything was quiet in the other places visited, except one where they say about 15 men were looking for something to drink and being refused.

CRUMBS OF BASEBALL

Culled by "Sul" From Circuit Dope Sheets

Tough on Van Dyke to hold Lawrence to three hits and still lose his game.

Burkett is still fishing for a shortstop. He needs McCune back behind the bat.

Rube De Groff has played in about every league of any account in the past decade.—Exchange. And he is still there.

For a game going 10 innings, that one at Worcester Thursday was run off in pretty quick time, 1 hour and 25 minutes.

A quartet of swell first sackers have been uncovered in the New England league this year—Ness, Carney, Barry and Halstein.—Exchange.

Worcester would be a whole lot stronger with Jesse in its lineup and besides draw better at the box office.—Worcester Post.

The Wilkesbarre club has bought Pitcher Elmer Steele, formerly with Lynn, from the Toronto club of the International league.

Gray worked his star backstop, Lavigne, in both games Thursday, another indication of his great desire to annex two.—Exchange. How observing!

STRUCK OUT

Right over the pan, O Pill!
And the words that my tongue could utter
In print would look very ill.
O, well for the man in the stand,
That tells you to wallop it out;

O, well for the coacher at third
That he hollers to give 'er a clout.

And the pesky pill goes on
And lands in the catcher's mitt;
But O, for a crack at the vanished ball,
And the sound of a ringing hit.

And the umpire shouts: "Strike three!"
But the tender grace of a swat misplaced
Will never return to me.
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Garry Wilson, formerly third baseman on the New Bedford team is playing in Orlando, Fla.

Joe Monahan is showing better form behind the bat for Lowell just now than at any time this season.—Exchange.

Lawrence never has won a pennant in the New England league. It will be a bitter blow to the fans up there if they are cheated out of the distinction this year.—Exchange. We don't like to cheat anybody, but still we like the first place.

Jack Ness' boast that he can take a bigger lead off a base and get back safely than any other player in the league cost New Bedford Monday's game at Lowell.

O'Dowd may be a good infielder, but he shapes poorly at the bat. It is hard to see where he fitted with the New York Americans, even for a day.—New Bedford Mercury.

From now on the Lowell club will be the one to watch in the pennant fight of the New England league. Though Worcester, Lawrence, Lynn and Brockton are all in the thick of the fray, the Lowell players have now struck their stride and are slamming all pitchers alike. Gray has a good pitching staff, and his team certainly has the hitters, a combination which wins games.—Manchester Union.

Being shifted around from one position to another evidently hasn't put Wolfgang on the blink or anywhere near it. He resumed work in the box, his natural position, with victorious results against Lynn.—Lynn Item.

Lefty Wallace has got back all of his old speed on the bases and some more with it. At Worcester, Monday, he made a clean steal home.—Lynn Item. Look at our old friend, Eddie McLane, doing the same.—Brockton Enterprise. And our old friend, Jake Boultes.

Jimmy Gray came within an ace of making good his prediction that his Champs would be at the top on the first day of August. They are so close to it that the Lawrence bunch are digging out of their little dope books everything which will help keep them in the lead.—Lynn Item.

It is caustically remarked by the Brockton Enterprise that the Lawrence club has of late taken to kicking about everything since they have been so nearly overtaken again and their position in the race is seriously threatened by several clubs thundering along close behind.

The Worcester fans are right on their nerve, now that it is apparent Burkett's players have a look-in for the flag and their bombardment of Umpire Kerins, Thursday, with sticks and stones, shows that they bitterly resent any decision which tends to retard the upward progress of their representatives in the league race. It's not a nice way to win pennants, though, and the Busters don't need any such rowdyish assistance.—Exchange.

Dr. Carney, the Haverhill first baseman, who graduated from Tufts' Dental school this summer, plans to hang out his shingle in the fall, probably in Worcester, his home burg.

Cy Perkins, the Haverhill catcher, has ordered 600 shells for his shotgun, according to the Haverhill Gazette, in anticipation of a winter of marsh shooting near his Gloucester home.

After looking all the league catchers over critically, the New Bedford Times concludes that Larry Pratt of Haverhill tops them all. Looks to us, too, like a sale or draft for this blonde backstop.—Exchange.

Interest in the game is at low ebb down in the city where John O'Brien's tail-enders are struggling along with the booby prize fastened to them in a double-and-twisted bowknot. "The crowds get slimmer and then more slim," says the Fall River News, "and it looks as though pretty soon no one but the three sporting writers will be left. "You've got to show the 'punkings' to get a ribbon at the fair.—Exchange.

Terry McGovern is doing good work this year for Lynn on the initial sack, no doubt leading the first sackers of the league in fielding at the present time, with a mark of .995. He has accepted 669 putouts and 31 assists, with but four misplays. He has been in 70 games and has made 71 hits for a .293 average. Managing the club hasn't affected his work evidently.—Brockton Enterprise.

Lowell is the first team in the league to win 50 games.

"TY" COBB LEADS

TURNS IN SIXTEEN HITS IN A WEEK

Ty Cobb of Detroit continues to hit 'em out at the terrific rate he began to travel at about three weeks ago, all pitchers looking alike to Tyrus these days. Last week he turned in 16 hits for a total of 20 bases, batting at a .470 clip for the seven days and running his average up from .425 to .429.

Tris Speaker of the Red Sox is still second, increasing his standing a single point in the week, his mark now being .391. Joe Jackson of Cleveland is a distant third with .367, while next to him is a man new to the .300 list, Larry Pape of the Red Sox, who, however, is tied with Kocher of Detroit for fourth place.

Larry Gardner is still batting for .315, but with him Boston's share in the .300-or-better honors ceases, Jake Stahl having dropped out of that group and now being marked at .296.

Next to Cobb, Moeller of Washington made the most hits last week, getting 13. Incidentally, Moeller made the greatest gain in percentage of any man in the league, moving up from .308 to .323. Speaker made 12 hits in the seven days, Milan of Washington got 11, while McInnis of the Athletics and Jackson of Cleveland turned in eight apiece.

The batting averages of the American leaguers, who are hitting for .300 or better, excluding those who have not played in at least 10 games, follow.

REFORMER BUSY

"HINTS FOR LADIES" SHOCK COTTAGERS AT BAR HARBOR

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 5.—Conspicuously posted on telegraph poles and fences close to the Swimming club, where it is the custom of Bar Harbor's summer people to gather, the postoffice, schoolhouse grounds and other points of public notice, a number of scrawling notices appeared Saturday.

These caused amusement to those who read them, and then wonder if they were the work of a practical joker or a bonafide reformer, for so many appeared that it would seem hardly the work of one bent on fun.

The notices were written in a straggling, evidently disguised hand on torn pieces of note paper, and criticised strongly the feminine set at Bar Harbor. No one knows when or how they were put up. The posters read as follows:

HINTS FOR LADIES

1. Wear stockings heavier than gauze.
2. Wear skirts more than one-half yard around.
3. Don't wear French heels.
4. Don't stare.
5. Don't go to church to see the styles.
6. Wear colors that harmonize.

VESPER GOLF CLUB

At the Vesper Country club Saturday afternoon, R. W. Gleason turned in the best net and gross card in the medal play. Gleason had 41-39 for the 18 holes and with his handicap of six took first place with 74. A. H. Sweatt, W. G. Eaton and F. L. Allen with 75 were tied for second honors. The scores:

SILVER WEDDING

WAS OBSERVED BY MR. AND MRS. J. B. LELACHEUR

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lelacheur, were yesterday the recipients of many beautiful silver gifts as well as the congratulations from their many friends, the occasion being the 25th anniversary of their wedding. The event occurred last Friday, but inasmuch as Mr. and Mrs. Lelacheur wished to let the occasion go by unnoticed, their many friends did not learn of it until yesterday, when they gathered at their beautiful summer home, B. Hive camp on Bowers avenue, Willow Dale, and extended their best wishes and congratulations to the couple.

Mr. Lelachaur was born in Quebec, 45 years ago and at the age of 15 he came to this city, where he learned the tailor's trade. He has been a resident of Lowell ever since and for the past few years has been in the employ of Marks Brothers, in Central street, previous to which he was for many years with Alexander the tailor.

Mrs. Lelacheur, nee Ella Richard, daughter of Mr. Jacob Richard, was born in Chazy, N. Y., 45 years ago. She came to Lowell at the age of 15 and five years later on August 2, 1887, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. Lelacheur, the ceremony being performed at St. Joseph's church by Rev. Fr. Marion, O. M. I. Ten children were born to the happy couple, nine of whom are living. They are: Arthur, Alice, Eva, Paul, Gertrude, Irene, Edouard, Willis and Hortense.

The Lelacheur family is one of the best known families in this city and they have a very large number of friends. They live at 199 Mt. Washington street and during the summer months enjoy life on the shores of Lake Mascuppic at Willow Dale.

BOOTT REPAIR SHOP OUTING

The annual outing of the employes of the Boott repair shop was held Saturday afternoon at Mountain Rock, and was largely attended. A feature of the afternoon was the ball game between the machine shop and the carpenter shop, the former winning by a score of 11 to 4. A very pleasant afternoon was spent, and it was late when the party broke up and returned to this city.

I. W. W. MEETING

Over 1000 people were in attendance at the mass meeting which was held on the South common yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the I. W. W. The meeting was held as a protest against the arrest and detention of Ettor and Giovannitti, I. W. W. leaders in the famous Lawrence strike. Several speakers were heard and at the close of the speechmaking a collection was taken for the defense of Ettor and Giovannitti.

TRUNKS FULL OF JEWELRY FOUND BY CHICAGO POLICE

Raffles' Loot Now Amounts to About $250,000 in Value—More Recovered

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—After 24 hours' work, the police yesterday completed inventory of the art treasures, jewelry, silver plate and other articles stolen by Jacob P. Guthrie, alleged society burglar and forger, who is now under arrest and announced that the goods recovered are estimated to be worth $250,000.

Last night, after a partial examination of the barn and the room in a storage warehouse, which Guthrie used to hide a portion of the articles stolen, the police estimated the value of the property found at $150,000. This was nearly doubled when half a dozen additional trunks and chests, filled with jewelry, laces and other valuables, were discovered. Much of the stolen property was found in Guthrie's home, where he lived with his mother, sister and brother, who is a Chicago policeman.

Further investigation of the young man's history revealed that after graduation in a course in electrical engineering at a Chicago technical institute, he obtained employment with an electric company. Later he was employed in the municipal laboratory. Subsequently he was appointed an instructor in electrical engineering at one of the public high schools.

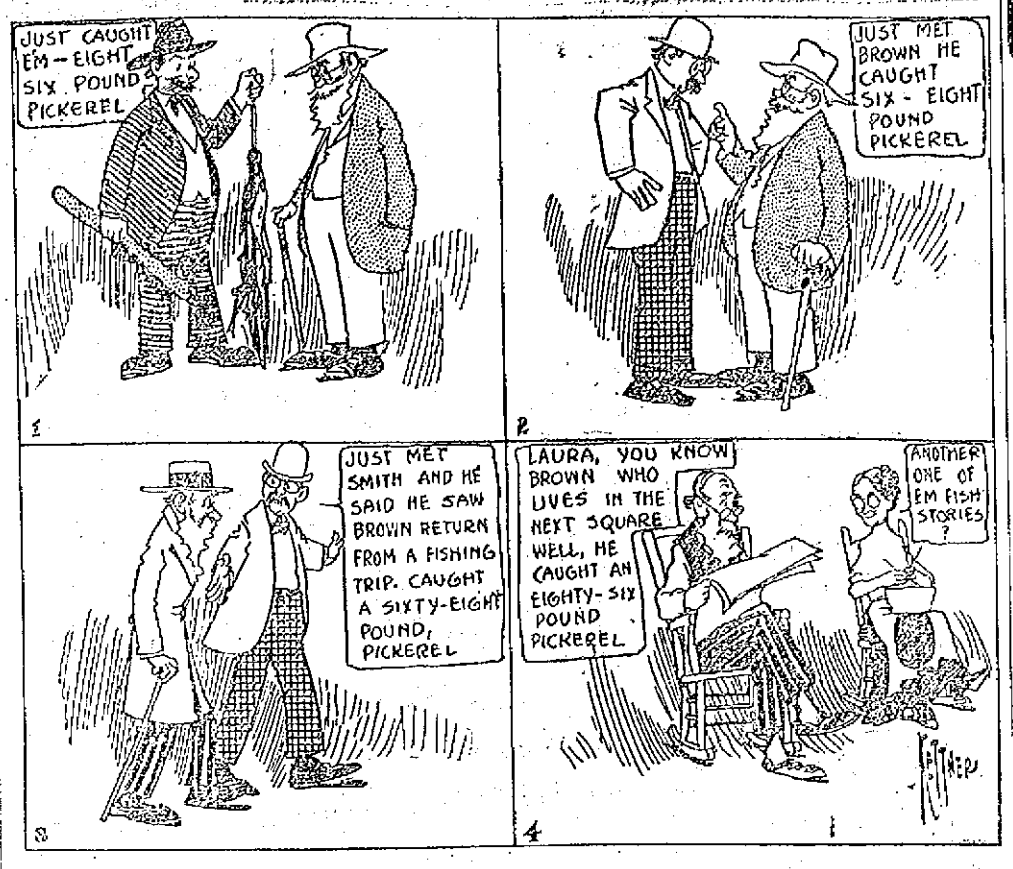

Guthrie is 26 years old, six feet in height and weighs 200 pounds. He is poorly dressed, although when arrested he had more than $16,000 deposited to his credit in Chicago banks.

Dr. Leslie W. Schwab, who has been physician for the Guthrie family for a number of years, talked with the prisoner for an hour yesterday, and later conferred with Capt. Halpin of the detective bureau. Dr. Schwab said:

"Guthrie is an educated fool, in my opinion. I have known him since a childhood. He has always been a bookworm, and read detective and problem novels incessantly. He has all the characteristics of a confirmed kleptomaniac."

Chief of Detectives Halpin said: "Beyond a doubt Guthrie has obtained the most valuable collection of stolen articles I ever saw in all my connection with the Chicago police department. There is an endless list of all kinds of jewelry, silverware and art treasures. There are diamonds, rubies, sapphires, emeralds and pearls worth thousands of dollars each."

Many valuable articles were identified during the day by society women who called at the central station.

SPINNING A FISH YARN

CAMBRIDGE BOY MISSING IS PROBABLY KIDNAPPED

Police Search the Woods and the Ponds of Three Towns for Him

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The police and Cambridge residents yesterday unsuccessfully searched the wooded sections adjoining the Fresh pond parkway and the clay pits in that vicinity, Belmont and West Somerville to find Richard D'Arcy, the 7-year-old son of William D'Arcy of 42 Chilton street, Cambridge, who has been missing since Saturday at noon.

One theory is that the lad has been kidnapped. A small boy in the neighborhood told the mother of the missing child that he saw a boy answering the description of the lost boy on Huron avenue, near Chilton street, with a poorly clad man late Saturday night. They were going in the direction of Belmont.

The Cambridge police called on the Belmont department for assistance, and ran down the clew from every angle, but were unable to learn anything that would corroborate the story. They tried to find the author of the rumor, but found that he had talked with Mrs. D'Arcy while she was in great mental distress and his name had passed from her mind. As near as she could recall she said his name was either Conklin or Clonin, and he lived on Lakeview street. The police made a search through Lakeview street, but were unable to locate such a boy.

Late last night when they matched up all the facts they had learned in the day's search, they were inclined to disregard the Kidnapping theory. They were of the opinion that the boy had either been lost in the woodland or drowned, and as the woodland had been thoroughly gone over by a searching party led by William D'Arcy, they believed more strongly that the boy had drowned. Following up this belief, they will drag Scrolfan's clay pit, near the boy's home today.

The drowning theory impressed the police because of a story the missing child told his mother shortly before he disappeared. He said that another boy in the neighborhood had told him never to go near the clay-pits, as they were very dangerous. He also told of the drowning of a boy in a claypit pool on July 4. The police believe that this might have inspired a desire in young D'Arcy to see where the boy was drowned, with fatal results attending his curiosity.

A DANGEROUS LUNATIC

Made His Escape From the Police

BOSTON, Aug. 5—Police and citizens of West Roxbury, Hyde Park and Jamaica Plain are engaged in a search for Edward C. Smith, a dangerous lunatic, who escaped from the Pierce farm some time yesterday afternoon. This man, whom they fear has found some means to arm himself, is homicidal, and the residents of the section where he is supposed to be at large are terror-struck.

Smith is about 40 years of age, is 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighs about 170 pounds, is of medium complexion and has a peculiar impediment in his speech. When he escaped he was dressed in a faded blue suit and wore a black fedora hat.

At present he is supposed to be in hiding in the woods in West Roxbury, and a strict watch is being kept over all parts. The police fear that he will attack someone, and last night everyone was warned away from the suspected region.

THE STATE MILITIA GETS TRAIN ORDERS

Commanders Announce Departure Time

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Next Sunday the movement of Massachusetts troops who are to participate in the Connecticut manoeuvre campaign commences. Two brigades, the 1st and the 2d, commanded respectively by Brig.-Gens. Frederick E. Pierce and William A. Pew, Jr., and the signal corps, field hospital and ambulance company, to be attached to the 2d brigade, will leave home stations, via rail, for Derby, Conn., and vicinity.

The exact time of the departure of the 5th infantry from this city has not yet been announced and it may be that the regiment will leave Saturday night, instead of Sunday morning. This point will be settled early this week. Lieut.-Col. Willis W. Stover, who is to command the 5th infantry in the absence of Col. Frank F. Cutting, who is on leave in Europe, has issued regimental orders governing the movements of companies of the 5th infantry. It is directed that the commanding officer and staff will leave with the third battalion, Maj. Whitney commanding, made up of companies A, L, E and G, on the first train section, leaving the South station at 8 a. m. Sunday.

The second battalion, Maj. Francis Meredith, Jr., made up of Companies B, H, C and F, will entrain at the South station, its train pulling out at 8.10 a. m.

The first battalion, Maj. William C. Butler commanding, with two companies, M and K, will occupy the third section and will leave at 10 a. m., stopping at Attleboro to pick up the local company and company D, the latter reaching Attleboro from Plymouth. At Attleboro the Plymouth company will entrain and with the local company will await the arrival of the third section at about 11 a. m.

The 2d infantry and the 6th infantry will entrain at Springfield and South Framingham, respectively, on Sunday, while the signals corps, field hospital and ambulance company will leave this city before noon on Sunday.

The instructional period of the manoeuvres will commence when the Massachusetts troops report to the brigadier-general, Albert L. Mills, U. S. A., who is to command the Red army and will hold until Aug. 15, the final period commencing on Aug. 16 and continuing until the end of the manoeuvres. As the Massachusetts troops are to return on Aug. 18, they will have but two days to join in the final period.

More than 80 escort and other wagons will be required to remove the impedimenta of the Massachusetts troops alone, while over 400 horses and mules will be necessary to haul the teams. This number of animals will be exclusive of the animals required for mounts.

KNIVES USED

AT A HOUSE PARTY IN CHARLES STREET

There was a house party held at 150 Charles street Saturday night and during the festivities an argument arose and knives were drawn and during the fracas which followed Frank De Palma received a cut in the right hand. The matter was reported to the police and the latter are on the lookout for the assailant.

BADLY INJURED

PIERRE BRIERE MET WITH PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Pierre Briere, aged 12 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Briere of 88 Ford street, met with a painful accident Saturday when he was thrown from a buggy. The accident occurred in Moody street near the Textile school. The horse is owned by Zephyr Roussel and was being driven to the stable of the latter's father in Riverside street. When turning the corner of Moody and Riverside streets, the buggy was overturned and the boy was thrown to the street, fortunately landing in a mud hole. He received a few scratches but today is none the worse for his fall. The horse kept right on until it reached the barn, but the buggy was badly smashed.

DRACUT

The pupils of the Sunday school department of the Dracut Centre and Hillside churches held a joint picnic on Saturday afternoon at Willow Dale. The event was very largely attended and was very successful. Special electric cars conveyed the children to the place of the outing, where outdoor games and sports were features of the day. The return trip was made at 6 o'clock, and it was made quite as enjoyable as any number on the program.

MOTHER AND CHILD

WERE SAVED FROM DROWNING BY WIREMAN

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Chester Roundthrill, a wireman on the Boston & Albany, swam to the rescue of Mrs. Joseph Noonan and her seven-months-old infant who were struggling in the Charles near the St. Alphonsus boat club late yesterday afternoon. He pulled them to a float where they were dragged up and revived.

Mrs. Noonan and 15-year-old James Bragger had gone out with the baby in their boat to catch another boat that was drifting in the river. Mrs. Noonan reached out to catch the boat, stretched out too far, and capsized the boat. The boy could swim, but the woman and child struggled helplessly.

Chester Roundthrill saw the accident from the shore. He plunged into the water and swam for the baby. Taking the child on one arm, he swam to the woman, who clung heavily around his neck, dragging him under the water. With difficulty he reached a float about 50 feet from the shore, and with the assistance of Officer George E. Coombs, who came to his aid, he managed to get the woman and infant on the float.

Through the efforts of Coombs the baby, which was nearly drowned, was revived.

NATIONAL PARK FOR THE DANES

Was Presented by the Danish-Americans

AARHUS, Denmark, Aug. 5.—King Christian yesterday received at Marselisborg castle the committee representing the association of Danish-Americans, which has presented a new national park in Jutland to the government.

The American minister to Denmark, Dr. Maurice F. Egan, on behalf of President Taft, honorary president of the association, read a message from Mr. Taft extending greetings to the king and people of Denmark. The message was as follows:

"On the occasion of the presentation to His Majesty, King Christian, of a deed to the Danish-American National park, I desire that you convey in my name, as honorary president of the association, and in the name of the people of the United States, my warmest greeting to King Christian and the Danish nation.

"It is with great pleasure that I have witnessed the action of the American citizens of Danish birth in this country in acquiring a tract of land near Aalborg for the purpose of establishing a Danish-American national park, to be dedicated to the Danish government and to be open at all times to the public.

"I am gratified to be identified with this act in my capacity as honorary president of the association. I recognize in it a concrete expression of the cordial relations which have always existed between the Danish and American people and which are today based more firmly than ever on friendship, understanding and mutual esteem.

"On this happy occasion I desire you to convey to his majesty and to the Danish people my sincere wishes for his happiness and welfare and the continued prosperity of the Danish nation."

In response the king said: "I have heardn words in the name of the president of the United States in which I see new testimony of friendship and understanding between the Danish and American peoples with the greatest pleasure.

"I beg you to give to President Taft my heartfelt thanks for the interest he has taken in the realization of the plan acquiring the Rebild tract as a proof of the loyal feelings toward their old country of the men and women of Danish birth who have found a home in your country.

"In my own name and in the name of the Danish people I request you to convey to Mr. Taft on this pleasant occasion and through him to the American people the Danish people's and my own warmest greetings and best wishes for the future."

MATTRESS ON FIRE

An alarm from box 131 early yesterday morning summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in a mattress in a house at 26 Wall street. A stream from the extinguisher put an end to the blaze. The building is owned and occupied by Mrs. Elizabeth Kerwin. The damage was confined to the destruction of the mattress, bedclothing and scorching of the bed. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Unusual Precautions Taken to Guard Men Accused of Killing Rosenthal

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The New York detectives take few chances in handling the men accused of killing Herman Rosenthal, the gambler. It is known that the prisoners have friends who are members of desperate gangs, and would not hesitate at beginning shooting if such a course offered a chance of freedom for the prisoners. For instance, when "Whitey" Lewis was arraigned in court a detective sat on each side of him, one of them holding to a handcuff which was clasped firmly on the prisoner's right wrist. Lewis was arrested in the Catskills and was brought to New York on a train arriving before 6 o'clock in the morning, but a score of his east side friends knew of his coming and were at the station to meet him. A half dozen detectives were also on hand, and they surrounded the prisoner and with their hands on their revolvers awed the gangsters.

Boy Scouts in New York Lend Their Aid in Effort to Clean Up the City

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Boy scouts in New York have turned their attention to a form of scouting different from what appeals to the average boy. They have begun cleaning up streets in certain sections of the city. A score of the little chaps in khaki uniforms would descend on a block, and within a few minutes every bit of paper and refuse was collected and put in the proper receptacles. The lads worked with a vim, and the result of their labors was soon apparent.

WHY DETAIN INNOCENT MEN?

The meeting held on the common here yesterday to protest against the prolonged detention in prison of Ettor and Giovannitti was attended by many sympathizers who do not belong to the I. W. W. Whether guilty or not, these men should have been tried before this time and their detention in prison so far from injuring the cause of the I. W. W. is helping it immensely. The district attorney of Essex county is undoubtedly responsible for the delay, and in holding these two men so long in prison he is violating the constitution of the United States which says: "In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed."

The two prisoners have now been in jail for over six months, and if after trial they be acquitted of the charge brought against them neither the state nor the county will compensate them for such prolonged imprisonment. Why then hold these men from January till the September term of court? In the administration of justice it is important that there shall be no injustice done to any citizen because all are presumed by law to be innocent until proven guilty. Why are two innocent men held for seven months in jail awaiting trial? That is a question that comes home to the district attorney and the courts of Essex county. We do not approve of the extreme methods used by the I. W. W. in some cases; but we hold that the constitution of the United States guarantees to all men justice and protection and to those accused a speedy trial by a jury of their peers. Does the constitution mean anything or has a district attorney the right to ignore it in the prosecution of alleged criminals? If the district attorney of Essex county fails to do his duty, the attorney general might have something to say on the matter if it were brought to his attention.

THE "BLACK DEATH"

According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, the Bubonic Plague or "Black Death" of medieval Europe is threatening the United States. The plague has appeared in Porto Rico and Cuba, two of the principal islands in the West Indies, and with such intercourse between these islands and the United States, the transference of the disease is inevitable unless the most rigid precautions are adopted to prevent it. There is undoubted danger to the Mississippi valley and the Atlantic seaboard. Dr. Howard King of New Orleans, instructor in tropical medicine in Tulane university, announces that the danger is menacing, and that it must be met by active measures of prevention by the health authorities of the threatened states. The federal authorities, too, should assist in the work by a strict supervision of the emigration from these islands to the United States.

It is found that rats convey the plague, and the ports all along the coast are badly infested with the rodents. They are carried from place to place in ships, concealed in the large cargoes into which they burrow at will. The opening of the Panama canal, it is believed, will increase the danger while the possibility of infection over the Mexican border must also be guarded against. It requires long and persistent work to stamp out this dread disease wherever it gets a foothold, and hence the necessity of precautionary measures at all points to prevent it spreading in any part of the United States.

THE CANAL TOLLS AGAIN

The Johnstown Democrat does not favor the discrimination in canal tolls in favor of American ships. In a lengthy editorial on this subject it says:—

> "Aside from the national perfidy of violating a treaty that we voluntarily agreed to, it ought to be apparent to our national lawgivers that discriminating in favor of American merchant vessels in charges for the use of the Panama canal would not benefit the American people. It would not increase our foreign trade. It would not reduce the cost of transportation and therefore it would have no tendency to lessen the cost of living. The owners of the vessels would be benefitted at the expense of the people. The builders of American vessels would be benefited indirectly. How those who are opposed to the shipping trust or opposed to a ship subsidy can favor this kind of discrimination it is difficult to understand on any theory except mental incapacity to trace effect to cause."

If the government undertook to remit the tolls to American vessels other governments would do the same. It is a fact that other governments are doing more to promote their shipping interests than is the United States which has practically no merchant marine. If any shipping trust would derive the principal benefit from the free passage of the canal, there should be no such privilege extended to American vessels.

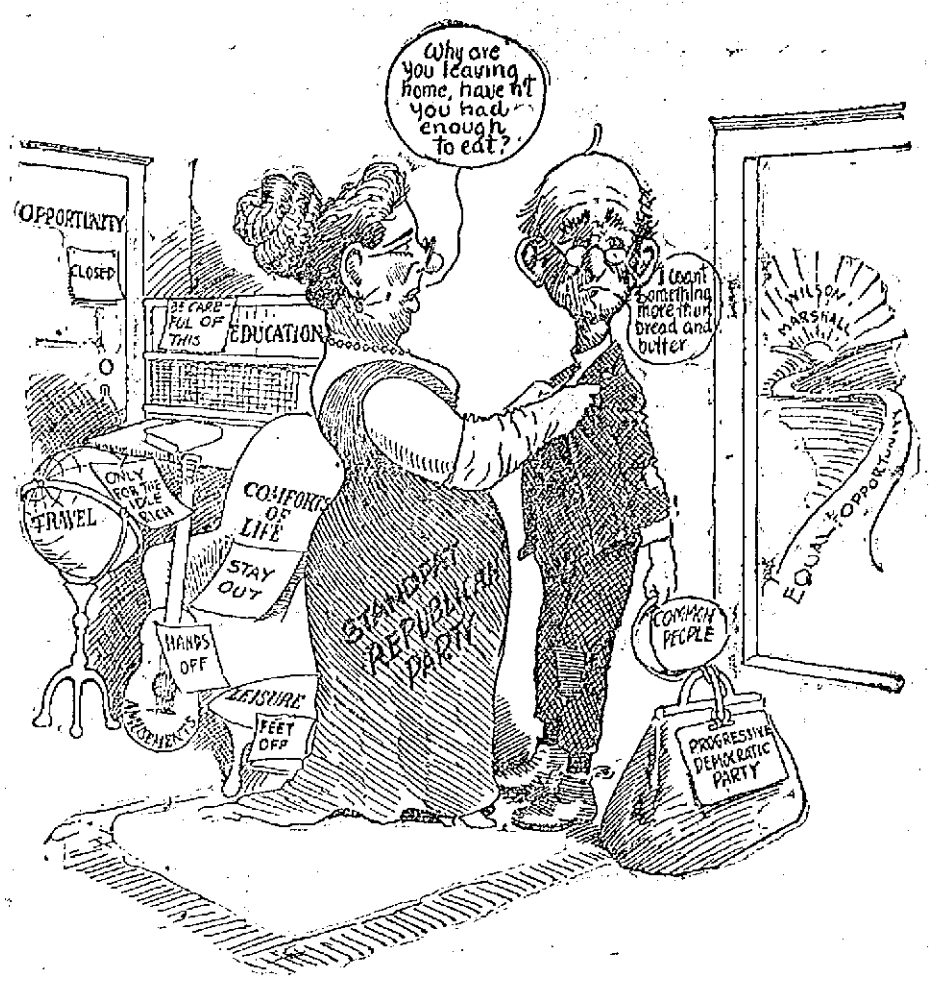

THE VICE OF GAMBLING

The recent murder in New York was but the result of a climax in the gambling dens of the city. Rosenthal was the leader in this vice so common to American cities, and some of the police officers were either beneficiaries of the business or active participants therein. The worst thing that can happen any city is the corruption of its police force so that instead of ferreting out crime and bringing the guilty parties to justice, they aid and abet it and receive pay for affording it protection. That state of affairs has undoubtedly existed to a most serious extent in New York and there is no doubt that it exists in some other American cities today. At least one police official in New York pursued the gambling craze too far and now he is in the toils charged with complicity in the murder of Rosenthal who was about to expose him. The men who did the shooting are or will undoubtedly be arrested and will probably pay the penalty of their crime.

The tragedy opens up a fearful state of corruption under which the vilest dens of vice were paying police officials for protection. Perhaps after all the murder of the leading gambler of the city although a heinous crime, will put an end to the system by which $2,400,000 a year was collected for the protection of the worst law-breakers.

DEPARTMENT EXPENDITURES

The showing in departmental expenses of our city government this year as compared with last is not as good as it might be, not as good as was expected perhaps: but five months remain in which the departments may improve the record and show a greater balance on the right side. It must be remembered that last year was not a model of economy: but the comparison thus far made is intended as a test of the economic qualities of the new form of government as compared with the old. There is still another question that enters into the calculation, and it is this: In the money expended has the city got more for its money this than last year?

HER SIMPLE BOY HAS COME TO HIS SENSES

SEEN AND HEARD

"Queer name," remarked the editor. "Yes, it might belong to either a parlor car or a Russian dancer."

The writer, seeking local color for his new novel, ought not to make it yellow.

No man really knows just what he would do if he should wake up suddenly at night and find a burglar in his room.

Even if you are not Sherlock Holmes, when you see a man with his fingers black with ink you may safely reason that he does his writing with a fountain pen.

Running a newspaper in a little country town is a fine business, if a man isn't ambitious to make money and doesn't care what the people say.

Even when you go on a Sunday school picnic, it is possible to have a pleasant time.

Another way to decrease the high cost of living is to substitute corned-beef hash for porterhouse steak, but comparatively few are doing it.

If you are really unselfish, you won't heave a sigh of envy even when you hear the rattling noise as the men are putting in your neighbor's winter coal.

The man who gets only wages thinks that he would like to have a salary. The man who gets a salary thinks that he would like to have the freedom from responsibility that the man who gets only wages has.

"What is this picture?" queried a little fellow who was visiting at the home of one of his classmates, pointing at a picture representing the battle of Fontenoy in 1776.

"That," replied the other little fellow, "is a picture of the battle of Fontenoy, and that man on horseback there is my father."

"Whew!" said the boy while looking at the date on the picture. "Your father must be pretty old."

Don't ask your sincere friend to give you his candid opinion of anything you do. If he doesn't give it to you without asking, it probably will not encourage you.

The pessimist is always hunting trouble, and thus doing unnecessary work. According to his own principles, if he would only sit still and wait, the trouble would come to him all right.

It was a divorce case, and the detective witness came to the stand dressed in black broadcloth, wore a gold fob, and seals and looked much more like a respectable middle-aged solicitor than a member of the police force. The man's testimony was damaging to his client, so the learned counsel began his cross-examination very gently and was excessively polite.

"I believe you are John Blank, of the firm of Blank & Co., the eminent detectives?"

"Yes, sir," said the witness, "I represent that firm."

"And I presume," continued the counsel, "that in the course of your duties as a detective you have, at times, to assume many disguises?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then," said the counsel, smiling, "will you have the goodness to tell the court just what you are disguised as now."

THE INVISIBLE COMRADE

I have been down in the deeps there with you,
I have been walking the streets of your hell,
I have been doubting and trusting with you,
I have been helping because it were well.
I have been stumbling with you in the dark,
Weary, disconsolate, hoping in vain;
I have been suffering your sting and your blow,
I have been feeling your ache and your pain.

I have been walking, O sister of sin,
The pavement with you in your tour of the night;
I have been standing the snubs and the slurs
Of men who were foolish and men who were tight,
I have been feeling your bitterness, child;
I have been haunted with woe like your woe;
I have been lost with you, maddened and wild,
Not knowing whither the next step would go.

I have been lurking you corner with you,
Thief of the city; been watching the chance
To do a fine job that my thirst might be through
And maybe my feet get a whack at the dance.
I have been forcing a window and door;
I have been driven to dregs by the crime
Of the old inefficiency called being poor.

I have been lying, poor forger, tonight
Stretched on your cot with you there in the cell,
Thinking of days that have gone evermore,
Thinking of what I have done and its hell.
I have been there in the gutter with you,
Slab of the alley, with bloated, red face;
Cursing God's mercy and pity and love,
And calling down oaths on His power and His grace.

I have been there with you all in your grief,
I have been there in your sin and your gloom;
I shall go with you, dear sister of vice,
Holding your hands to the brink of the tomb.
Thief and accomplice and forger and dregs
Of the gutter and alley—wherever you wend,
I shall be there with the pity God gave
When He sent me the impulse of being your friend.

—Bentztown Bard, in Baltimore Sun.

Herbert stood on a chair. The chair stood in the pantry. The jam stood on the shelf. Herbert's mother stood on the threshold. Herbert stood his ground. "My son," said the mother, pointing at him with astonishment, "I am s-u-r-prised! To think that my little boy would do a thing like that." Herbert, resourceful and not at all abashed, looked his mother straight in the eye. "Please do not interfere with the minnuvers of a boy scout," he said. "A boy scout?" "Yes, mother, after supplies."

No woman, of course, would ever read a letter addressed to anybody else if there were any other way of finding out just what is in it.

CAPTIVE

He's big and strong and manly
As any man could be.
His heart is full of courage,
As any one can see.
If Fate should be against him.
He'd battle unto death,
And never give up fighting
Until his final breath.

He's bold and lion-hearted,
He's ignorant of fear.
He has no dread of danger,
Although it may be near.
And still, for what I'll tell you
Perhaps you are prepared:
He knows a five-foot maiden.
And she has got him scared!

MY PILLOWMOBILE

'Tis my delight
In the depths of night
To speed in my Pillow Car;
To dance perchance
Through sunny France.
Perhaps to the Polar Star.

I linger long
In the Hills of Song
I travel to Mandalay;
I board my ship
And take a trip
To glorious Yesterday.

My Pillow train
Will jump from Spain
To Saturn perhaps the Moon;
Then take the track
That leads me back
To the Home of eternal June.

Through old Japan,
Beloochilstan
And Thibet and gay Pekin:
And thence we creep
Through the vastly deep
To the haunts of the Tribes of Fin.

My Pillow Car's
Been up to Mars,
It travels both earth and air;
And like the wind,
It leaves behind
The City of Woe and Care.

So come with me.
On a billowy spree.
For the Land of Dreams awheel;
Through sky and earth.
To Joy and Mirth.
In my wonderful Pillowmobile.

M'CALL A CANDIDATE

HE WANTS TO SUCCEED SENATOR CRANE

BOSTON, Aug. 5. — Congressman Samuel W. McCall formally announced his candidacy for United States senator to succeed Senator Winthrop Murray Crane in a statement issued last night.

Mr. McCall states that he favors the direct election of United States senators and indorses the action of the legislature in the ratification of the amendment to the constitution declaring for the direct election of United States senators.

He states that he will not attempt to secure the nomination or election of candidates to the legislature who favor his candidacy on the ground that "any attempt on the part of one aspiring to the senatorship to control the nomination of candidates for an office of such important and varied powers would be an unwarranted intrusion and would merit the rebuke of failure.

INJURIES WERE FATAL

Child Crushed Under a Car is Dead

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—After one of the gamest fights for life ever put up by a child of his age, Jacob Goobertman, 7 years old, and living with his parents at 19 Fay street, South End, died shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning at the city hospital, from injuries he received by being crushed by a car at the corner of Washington and Dover streets, late Saturday night.

The motorman of the car, Norman Brown, was arrested and locked up, charged with assault, and later released under $2000 bonds. An application will be made in court today for a warrant against Brown on a charge of manslaughter.

The boy was walking down Washington street with his mother, shortly before 10 o'clock, when suddenly he started to run across the street directly in front of the car driven by Brown.

The car, according to witnesses, was not moving at a high rate of speed, but the boy was so close that it was impossible to bring it to a stop before it struck him and the forward part went over his body.

Brown, as soon as the car stopped, jumped down and dragged the crushed but still conscious boy from underneath and handed him to Patrolman Frazer, who was nearby, and had in the meantime sent in a call for the ambulance.

Frazer held the boy in his arms during the ride to the hospital, and during the whole ride the little fellow kept a running chatter to his mother and the police officers, telling them not to worry, that he would be all right.

When laid on the operating table in the hospital, the little fellow told the doctors his name, his father's name, and where he lived, and then passed into unconsciousness from which he did not recover. He died a couple of hours later. He received a fractured pelvis and crushed thigh, besides internal injuries.

GOV. WILSON

IS ENJOYING NOVEL EXPERIENCE OF THE CAMPAIGN

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 5.—Governor Wilson's sudden entry into the political limelight with a squad of correspondents and telegraphers camped in tents on the meadow near his cottage, has given him a novel experience.

The governor remarked today that while he recognized the sincerity of most newspapers, he could not understand some misrepresentations and inaccuracies.

"For example," related the governor, "when I was president of Princeton university, I delivered an address in a certain city in which I said that public opinion was not developed in great congested communities. I said that public opinion was developed in the cross roads store, where the farmers sat around, chewed tobacco, spit into the sawdust and exchanged ideas. I added, jokingly, that no matter what might be said against tobacco chewing, it must be admitted that it made men think, and wherever you found men chewing tobacco together, you found the real public opinion of the country.

"Imagine my horror when the newspapers the next day ignored the rest of my speech—when I thought not without merit—and gave prominence to what I said about tobacco chewing, declaring in the headlines that I said tobacco chewing made thinkers."

The governor added that a big tobacco company also made a photograph of one of the newspaper reports and used it in their advertising, stamping him "as a college president who advocated chewing tobacco to develop the mind."

LUTHER McCARTY

TO MEET JIM STEWART AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Luther McCarthy, the Springfield, Mo., heavyweight who came into prominence by knocking out Carl Morris, will make his first appearance in New York when he meets Jim Stewart of Brooklyn at Madison square garden. McCarthy will lay claim to the heavyweight title if he defeats Stewart decisively. The local fighter holds a popular decision over Morris, whom he outboxed. McCarthy is a "rusher" and depends upon his slugging ability.

COL. ROOSEVELT

GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION ON ARRIVAL IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Theodore Roosevelt arrived here shortly after 8 a. m. He was given an enthusiastic welcome and hurried to headquarters in the Congress hotel. The crowd cheered as the colonel stepped from the train. He was received by a delegation of progressives headed by George W. Perkins and Gov. Johnson of California.

WILLOW DALE

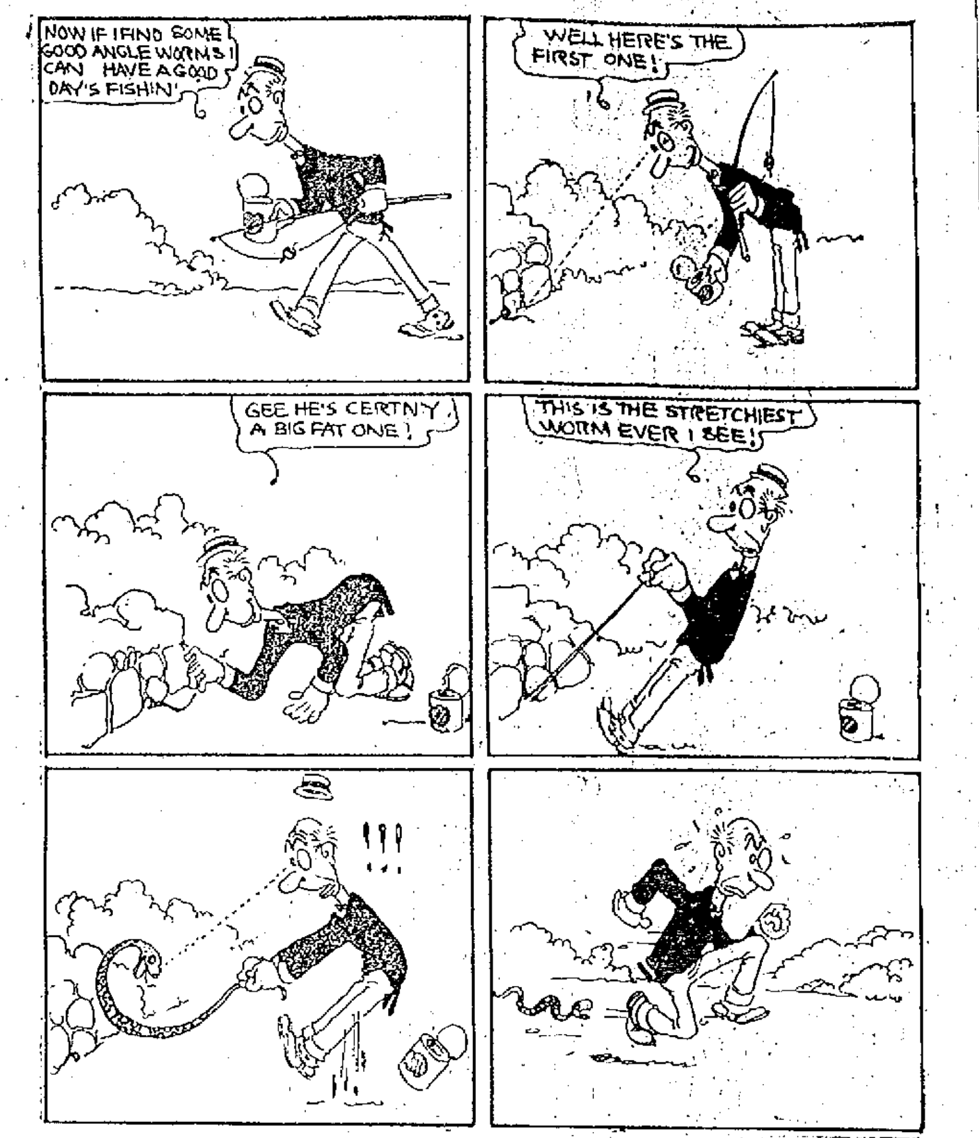

The attractions furnished here of late by the management have proved a great success and drawing card. The strong man, Darrow, drew a large number to see his performance during the week, while yesterday the concert given in the pavilion by the M. T. I. Bachelor Girls brought thousands from the city to hear the pleasing voices of these popular young ladies. It is estimated that there were 5000 on the grounds during the afternoon and evening. The popularity of the singers was evidenced by the applause which they received at the conclusion of the concert.

Saturday night witnessed the largest crowd on the dance floor during the season. The music furnished by Miners' orchestra is admitted to be the finest attainable. Dancing to such music is certainly a pleasure to both dancer and music lovers. The good old times seem to be coming back to the popular old summer resort, Willow Dale.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 5.—A. G. Daley, democratic national committeeman for Alaska, committed suicide yesterday aboard a river steamboat near Tolovan, 70 miles west of here, while en route from Fairbanks to the Iditarod district. Mr. Daley shot himself through the head with a revolver. A coroner's jury at Hot Springs last night, found that Mr. Daley was temporarily insane when he killed himself.

ALGY TURNED—NOT THE WORM

LAKEVIEW DANCE HALL

Novelty numbers will be introduced at all sessions at the Lakeview dance hall all this week and the orchestra will play a number of the latest New York selections. The new music arrived here last week and was carefully rehearsed, for the special numbers. At several of the sessions last week some "innovations" were introduced that made a great hit with the large crowds and owing to the numerous requests for a repetition of the line of entertainment the management has decided to provide new features every week. One of the most enjoyable features of last week was the surprise waltz and this number will be given again in the near future. Dancing at the Lakeview hall is enjoyed under perfect conditions, the floor being as smooth as glass being in charge of an expert. Tom Poot will give his xylophone and bell selections that have proven such an important part of the entertainment at the hall and several of the other musicians will play solos on their instruments.

BATHING AT WILLOW DALE

The new bath house at Willow Dale had its real opening day yesterday and although the weather was hardly warm enough to arouse great bathing enthusiasm, the bath house was well patronized and those who patronized it were delighted with the pleasure and convenience it afforded. The ladies' apartment is separate and apart from that used by the men and it was a young lady who carried off the honors at diving. She made the boys and men look like second raters and some of them were good divers, too. The young lady was a stranger at the Dale. Henry F. Sullivan, Lowell's greatest swimmer, and one of the best in New England, looks after the safety of the bathers at the new bath house and offers generous assistance to beginners. It is a splendid opportunity to learn to swim and there isn't any better fresh water bathing in New England.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Lowell week," the week which marks the completion of the 100th consecutive week of the Merrimack Square theatre, will be the biggest week ever. As a headliner attraction, Mortimer Snow and company will present scenes from Shakespeare's great tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," one of the most beautiful tragedies ever written and one of Shakespeare's masterpieces. It is hardly necessary to say that with the very capable company presenting it, and with the superb staging, it will be one of the biggest popular successes ever given at this theatre, one which should appeal to every one.

Among the other splendid features on this week's bill will be Joe Harrington and Luella Miller, both Lowell people, in their comedy skit, "The New Janitor," an extremely amusing little playlet; Prof. Gallaway, known professionally as "England's Greatest Ventriloquist," but now a resident of Lowell, in a very interesting ventriloquist" act; "Ye Singers of '76," all very well known Lowell singers, in popular selections, and Walter Davis, a Lowell man famed for his odd and interesting personality, in clever songs and dances.

The photo-plays are of unusual interest and will include a series of colored views of Lowell, her factories, playgrounds, and beauty spots, furnished by the board of trade.

M. T. I. BACHELOR GIRLS

The M. T. I. Bachelor Girls gave two excellent concerts at Willow Dale yesterday afternoon and last evening. There were large audiences at both concerts and that the performances were enjoyed was evident by the applause accorded the singers. Every number was given in a manner that reflected great credit on the young ladies, and they were the recipients of many compliments at the conclusion of the entertainment. The girls will meet in Mathew hall, Dutton street, tomorrow evening to make arrangements for several engagements that are scheduled for the near future.

SUSPECT IS HELD ON WOMAN'S CHARGE

She Insists That the Man She Caught is Slayer—He is Held Pending Inquiry

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Lillian Czermak, the young woman who caused the arrest of the man calling himself Frank F. Andrea, but who she says is John A. Norman, wanted for the murder of Mrs. Annie Kessler three years ago, persisted in her identification yesterday.

In the Jefferson Market court, Mrs. Czermak and Mrs. Samuel Altman, a sister of the murdered woman, both swore Andrea was the man who, under the name of Norman, lived with Mrs. Kessler at her boarding house at 319 East 121st street until the morning of November 1, 1909, and disappeared a few hours before the murder was discovered.

Supplementing the testimony of the two women the police produced a photograph of Norman obtained from one of his sweethearts and a minute description of him furnished by Mrs. Czermak at the time of the murder. The picture bore a striking resemblance to the prisoner and the description tallied with his appearance in every detail.

On the strength of this evidence Magistrate Freschi held Andrea without bail for forty-eight hours pending an investigation by the coroner.

After the hearing Mrs. Czermak, whose determination to avenge the death of her friend brought Andrea into the police net, discussed the case.

"Mrs. Kessler and I were bosom friends," she said. "I lived at her boarding house. When she was killed I was morally certain who had committed the crime, for she and this man Norman had had a number of serious quarrels.

"On one occasion she went to court and had a warrant sworn out against him to keep him from bothering her, but she was in love with Norman and the matter was patched up. One night, just before the murder, I heard him say to her in one of his violent fits of temper, 'I'll beat you to death. I've handled a lot of women like you before and have got away with it.'

"For seven months after the murder Detective Forbes and I visited the various manufacturers of parquet flooring in the city trying to get track of Norman, who had given up his job as quartermaster on one of the Clyde line steamers and had gone to work with a flooring concern. When we had made the rounds of all these places we went from pier to pier in search of the man. Not a word did we hear, but I was set on bringing the man to justice."

The police are inclined to agree with Mrs. Czermak that they have the right man. In substantiation of their belief they point out that the tattooing on Andrea's arms corresponds with that described in the circular issued at the time of Norman's disappearance. Within the next 24 hours they expect to complete their chain of evidence against Andrea by getting the girl who gave them the picture of Norman, and the milkman who met him coming out of the house at 319 East 121st street early on the morning of the murder. At that time the milkman told the police that Norman, who carried two suit cases, asked him not to disturb Mrs. Kessler by ringing the bell.

When Andrea was searched in the West Seventeenth street station there were found in his pockets a number of pawnticketis for valuable jewelry. It was here, too, that he gave the detectives another clue on which to work in establishing his identity. The prisoner, who has maintained a bold air all along, laughed at a remark passed by some one. In doing so he put one hand over his mouth. The circular describing Norman mentions this as one of his mannerisms.

In Jefferson Market court Andrea repeated his story that he was a deckhand on the steamboat Trojan of the Hudson River line and that he knew absolutely nothing of the crime with which he was charged.

ATLANTIC FLEET SAILED

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 5.—The vessels of the Atlantic fleet sailed out of Newport harbor today for a week of maneuvres on war basis. The Red force, which is to manipulate the mine planting and submarine operations is commanded by Commander Bullard.

DRINKING CUPS IN LOCAL MILLS

Board of Health Wants Them Introduced

ACTION TAKEN AT MEETING TODAY

Board Favors Sewer in Dutton Street

At a special meeting of the board of health held this forenoon at the board's headquarters in city hall, Dr. Thomas F. Carroll was appointed a committee of one to confer with Dr. Charles E. Simpson, of the state board of health, relative to drinking cups or bubbles in the mills throughout the city. The law having to do with drinking cups does not apply to mills, but the board of health is of the opinion that conditions, so far as drinking water is concerned, can be improved in most of the mills.

In most of the mills the drinking water is kept in buckets and, as a rule, one cup, glass or dipper serves as many people as would go to constitute a good sized village. The mill authorities have always shown a willingness to cooperate with the board of health and if the board has any suggestions to make relative to the drinking cup problem in the mills the chances are the suggestion will be acted upon.

The first business before the meeting of the board this forenoon had to do with a proposed sewer in the northern part of Dutton street for the benefit of the Amasa Pratt Co., and others. The matter had been before the municipal council and that body instructed its clerk to communicate with the board of health asking that an inspection of the premises be made and that the board report back to the municipal council. The premises were inspected by the board members and Inspector Connors and, tomorrow, the board will recommend to the municipal council that the sewer be provided as petitioned for.

The board found that conditions there were anything but sanitary. Edmons Ruest was granted license to collect swill and it was voted to require the owners of a stable in Wedge street to do certain things to improve conditions in and about the stable under penalty of the law. An old complaint entered some time ago by a Mrs. Burgess relative to bad sewer accommodations in Billerica street was taken up and Dr. Carroll said he has talked with the commissioner of streets about the complaint and that the commissioner promised to remedy condition at the place in question. There was another complaint about a dry well in Billerica street and the parties responsible for the trouble were given an extension of time. They will be allowed another week or so in which to make the necessary changes.

STRUCK BY AUTO MAN BADLY INJURED

He Had Just Stepped From an Electric Car When Machine Hit Him

Sven Nelson of Pilil place, Chelmsford Centre, is in a critical condition at the Chelmsford Street hospital as the result of being hit by an automobile in Chelmsford st., near Victoria st., at about 1.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. Nelson is 73 years of age and it is feared that his injuries may prove fatal.

The old gentleman boarded a Chelmsford street car instead of a Chelmsford Centre car at Merrimack square and just as he alighted from the car at the end of the line he was struck by an automobile owned and operated by Daniel A. Macfadgen of the Lowell Furnace company, 624 Middlesex street. Mr. Macfadgen lives at 34 Robinson street. It was stated that the automobile had come by way of Victoria street. City Physician Michael Tighe attended to the old man's injuries. He had a bad gash over the right eye, several cuts on his left cheeks and the doctor fears that he is injured internally.

Mr. Nelson's son was in Merrimack square when news of the accident was received and he rode to the scene of the accident. He did not know that his father was the victim and did not know that the injured man had been removed to the hospital. The young man returned to the city and learned later in the day that it was his father who was injured.

POLICE OFFICIALS TO BE INDICTED

On Charges of Grafting From the Gambling Houses in New York City

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A mass of evidence is to be presented to the grand jury this week out of which the officials of the public prosecutor's office believe that several indictments for extortion will be found against certain police officials for grafting from gambling houses.

Police Lieut. Becker's alleged activities with gamblers are being investigated on information furnished in the confession of "Bald Jack" Rose.

Private detectives also working on the gambling end of the Rosenthal case are reported to have unearthed evidence that will result in indictments of two high police officials and a man not in the department.

For several days the district attorney's assistants have been examining witnesses to learn more of the relations of Lieut. Becker with gamblers.

Becker prepared himself today for arraignment in the court of general sessions, where it was understood that he would maintain his plea of not guilty to the indictment charging him with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler. The coroner's hearing in the case of Jack Rose was on the calendar today.

Meanwhile the Catskill mountains today will be the scene of the hunt for Louis Rosensweng and Harry Horowitz, wanted in connection with the Rosenthal shooting.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty said this morning that he was still working on the theory that the men were in the Catskills and were being confined to a small district where they would be unable to conceal themselves much longer.

To Discuss Important Questions With Czar Relative to Naval Agreement

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Raymond Poincaire, the French premier, started today for Russia, surrounded by all the signs usually accompanying a great state pilgrimage. Aristide Briand, minister of justice; Theophile Delcasse, minister of marine; Albert Lebrun, minister of the colonies; Armand Mollard, chief of the protocol; Louis Lepine, prefect of police of Paris, the secretaries and attaches of the Russian embassy and the staff of the French foreign office were all present at the station to emphasize the occasion, while in the premier's train traveled all the leading journalists of France, who always mobilize when questions of high politics are in the air.

Near-eastern questions and the Franco-Russian naval convention, the signature of which by M. Poincaire in St. Petersburg will bring the whole of the fighting forces of the allies within the terms of an offensive and defensive treaty of alliance, are to be the main subjects of discussion between the emperor of Russia, Sergius Sazonoff, Russian minister of foreign affairs, and the French visitor. The most prominent feature of the visit will naturally be the French-Russian naval agreement which will claim immediate attention.

The eventual opening of the Dardanelles and the steps necessary for its accomplishment are also to be discussed during the 14 days' visit of M. Poincaire to the banks of the Neva. It is pointed out here that this is likely to be the burning question in the settlement of the Turco-Italian war, for it is felt that Russia is not building $15,000,000 dreadnoughts in the Black sea with the intention of anchoring them in an enclosed lake, and unless the question be settled soon it is bound to cause another European upheaval at the time of the completion of the ships a couple of years hence.

TURKISH DEPUTIES

PASSED VOTE OF WANT OF CONFIDENCE IN TURKISH CABINET

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 5.—The chamber of deputies today passed a vote of want of confidence in the Turkish cabinet and then adjourned without settling on the date of reassembling.

There were many stormy scenes during the session, which began at 10 o'clock this morning. Deputy Rahmi of Saloniki and Deputy Tehamlik of Albania drew revolvers in the course of the debate and were about to fire at each other when some of their colleagues parted them.

Djavid Bey, a Salonikl deputy and ex-minister of finance and public works, delivered an exciting speech in which he vehemently attacked the cabinet, declaring it had shown a reactionary spirit and had trampled on the Turkish constitution.

The motion censuring the cabinet was passed by acclamation.

The town officials feel that stringent methods should be taken to collect the dog licenses this year.

MURDER MYSTERY IS LIKELY TO BE CLEARED

The Crime Was Committed Five Years Ago—Man Says He Witnessed Murder

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—After more than five years of mystery—years which revealed no definite clew to the man who killed fifteen-year-old Amelia Staffeldt at Elmhurst, L. I., on May 22, 1907—the police of the Rockaways have again taken up the trail.

For these five years a young man has been confined in the Kings Park, L. I., insane asylum. He is Henry Becker, who was arrested shortly after the killing of the girl. He was suspected, but the grand jury refused to indict him, and it was later found that he was mentally unbalanced.

Nevertheless, it was undoubtedly the Staffeldt murder that was the primary cause of his incarceration.

For the last few days detectives of Far Rockaway have been at work in the vicinity of Lawrence, L. I., gathering new information regarding the strange and shocking tragedy. An entirely different person is under suspicion.

Where their information came from is not known, but the information given the proprietor of Ueblacker's hotel at Lawrence, that a conversation he overheard in his place a few weeks ago aroused his suspicion.

Uebiacker says an elderly man was talking with a group of friends in the hotel one night when the mystery of the Staffeldt girl's death was mentioned.

"Oh, it was that fellow Becker that killed her," someone said.

"No," replied the elderly man slowly, "Becker isn't the man. I saw that murder. It's troubled me ever since. That murder was done by some one pretty close to home."

So the police are again looking into the case, and it is predicted an arrest—one that may startle the quiet community of Lawrence—will be made shortly.

Amelia Staffeldt, an unusually attractive child, daughter of a well-to-do farmer, was killed in a field near the farm while picking dandelion greens. She was cruelly attacked and stabbed to death with the dull case-knife with which she had been uprooting the greens.

As Means of Reducing Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The committee on markets of the New York state food investigating commission made public yesterday its recommendations as to cheapening the cost of living in this and other cities of the state, based on data gathered at public hearings here and elsewhere since February.

New Yorkers, it is estimated by the committee, spend $644,633,000 a year on food, of which 45 per cent. is mere cost of distribution, and a saving of 10 to 20 per cent. in the cost of that distribution, which the committee believes its plans will cause, means from $60,000,000 to $120,000,000 saved to the public.

As to this city, the committee, of which William C. Osborne is chairman, is against the construction of public markets and terminals that might impose heavy fixed charges on the community and be incapable of changing with altered conditions of population and habits.

The committee concludes that the large retail food department store buying direct, receiving direct and each selling, to 25,000 to 50,000 persons, is the best economic type in point of efficiency, minimum of waste, satisfactory distribution and due rewards for management and capital. Towards the development of such stores the committee believes retailers, wholesalers and private organizations should move.

Some of the other recommendations of the committee are:

That the charters of the various cities of the state be amended so as to provide for departments of markets charged with the economic and sanitary supervision of food supplies used in the municipalities.

That the primary or wholesale prices be fixed by systematic auction sales in lots suitable for purchase by retailers, conducted under the direction of the city or of a public organization, not for profit, in which all parties interested should have a voice, constituting on primary prices, a producers' and consumers' market.

That accurate statements of market needs and prices be sent to producers; that they be protected from extortion and offered facilities for marketing.

That the railroad and steamship lines entering our cities be encouraged and required to provide adequate facilities for the prompt deliveries of food products, for their sale by auctions on the premises, for temporary storage, both dry and cold for the publication of bulletins showing what supplies are to arrive.

BENNETT CUP RACE

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The closed circuit Gordon Bennett cup race for the international aviation championship to be held at Clearing, Sept. 9, will be the last of its kind. Hereafter the race will be contested over a straight course, according to a communication received yesterday by the local aero club from the headquarters of the Federation Aeronautique Internationalique. This change has been ordered to lessen the danger.

TERRIBLY BURNED

MARY MULCAHY PLAYED WITH MATCHES IN BED

WORCESTER, Aug. 5.—Three-year-old Mary Mulcahy of 59 Belmont street, daughter of Thomas P. Mulcahy, was terribly burned at the home of Mrs. Katie Holden, 57 Belmont street yesterday, while playing with matches in bed.

The child received third degree burns all over her body and was taken to the hospital, where her name is on the dangerous list. Her mother had been at the hospital two weeks and neighbors were caring for the child. How she got the matches is not known, but when Mrs. Holden rushed into the room in response to Mary's screams she found the bed clothing a mass of flames. Bravely Mrs. Holden wrapped the child in blankets, smothering the fire, but not in time to prevent burns that will probably prove fatal.

THREE HIGHWAYMEN

FAILED IN ATTEMPT TO ROB NEW LONDON MEN

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 5.—Three highwaymen attempted to relieve Marketman Melvin Mason of a roll of about $300 on the main road west of Niantic at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Mason and his clerk, William Messenger, put up a stiff battle and the footpads were forced to take to their heels.

Mason and Messenger were in a wagon, bound for Niantic station to get the Sunday papers, when the trio pounced upon them from a clump of bushes. During the melee that followed, one of the would-be robbers discharged a revolver five times and Mason received a bullet in the stomach.

He walked to his home, telephoned for a surgeon, had the bullet extracted and later was able to deliver his papers as though nothing had taken place.

Sheriff Sidney A. Brown and his deputies and several state policemen searched for the strangers all day, but none of them had been captured up to a late hour last night.

VARIETY OF CASES IN POLICE COURT TODAY

Judge Enright Kept Busy Hearing Larceny and Drunk Charges

William Alexander and his wife, Margaret, who reside in Auburn street disturbed the neighbors yesterday morning.

The police were called and they found that the doors were barricaded. One of the officers shouted that he was an officer of the law and wanted to be admitted.

"The first man who tries to come through this door will be killed," was the answer.

The officers forced an entrance and found the woman, but the man was missing. Word was telephoned to the police station and subsequently the man was captured.

In police court this morning the man was charged with drunkenness and maliciously breaking two doors in a house owned by Hosea B. Hill, and the woman was charged with being drunk. Both entered pleas of guilty.

Judge Enright after considering the testimony in the case found both guilty and ordered Alexander to 60 days in jail and his wife to pay a fine of $10.

Drunken Offenders

There were many drunken offenders in court this morning but the majority of them were first offenders. Ten simple drunks were released.

Robert Marr was sent to jail for 20 days.

Hermenegilde Frappier, Thomas E. McKeon and Michael Giblin were fined $6 each.

Two first offenders were fined $2 each.

Case Continued

Christini Mouski was charged with the larceny of an iron bar and saw, both of the value of $3 and the property of James J. McManmon. It is alleged that the articles were stolen on July 25. Charles A. Foye, an officer of Dracpt, made the arrest. By agreement the case was continued until tomorrow morning.

A Family Affair

John, Joseph, Elizabeth and Mary Kiernan were arrested in a house in Wall street, Saturday night by Patrolman Alfred J. Cooney. Elizabeth, the mother of the two boys, is blind, and she presented a very pitiful appearance when she entered court this morning, escorted by two young women. According to the testimony offered, the mother and two sons and niece had been drinking heavily. Inasmuch as it was the first offense for all of the offenders three of them were ordered to pay a fine of $2, while the mother, Elizabeth, was placed on probation for three months.

Found Not Guilty

Anthony Kawlewicz was charged with the larceny of 20 pounds of pork, three pieces of stove lining, ten keys and two table cloths, the property of Jacob Cichowski. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty and after the case had been heard Judge Enright found the defendant not guilty and ordered him discharged.

The complainant and defendant occupied tenements at 21 Summer street for some time and on July 21 the former vacated his house and took up residence in another place. He took away the large pieces of furniture and many other articles, but left several small articles in the house. When he went back he found that they were gone, but after reporting the matter to the police the articles were returned to him.

Withdrew His Appeal

Peter Rusick, who was found guilty of assault and battery last week and was fined $20 and appealed, came into court this morning and withdrew his appeal and the sentence was affirmed.

Suspended Sentence

Mrs. Elmina Lafime and her daughter, Amanda, the latter almost still in her teens, were arraigned before Judge Enright this morning on a charge of drunkenness. They both denied their guilt, but after hearing the evidence the court found otherwise and imposed a suspended sentence of two months to the house of correction, placing both on probation for a term of six months.

Patrolman Gelinas who made the arrest testified that his attention was attracted to the house of the defendants in Hall street early yesterday morning by loud outcries.

TITANIC SUFFERERS' FUND

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Although the Mansion house and other funds for the relief of the Titanic sufferers exceed $2,000,000 reports made to the lord mayor indicate that all of this will be required to maintain the allowances now made for the relief of the dependents of the victims of the disaster.

Of 673 of the crew who were drowned 535 belonged to Southampton and 138 to other places. For those belonging to Southampton claims have been made to the Mansion house committee for 239 widows, 533 children under 16 years of age and 213 other dependents.

Claims have been received also on behalf of the dependents of 461 of the 817 passengers lost in the wreck.

OPERATIVES ON STRIKE

ADAMS, Aug. 5.—More than four hundred operatives employed in mill number four of the Berkshire Cotton Manufacturing company struck today because four operatives refused to join the weavers' union. As a result of the strike mill number 4 was closed. The company officials said that the other mills were not affected by the strike. The company employs 2000 employes.

ROSENTHAL CASE
Continued

LIEUT. BECKER

SAID TO HAVE ADVISED ROSE TO SURRENDER

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—"Jack" Rose was double-crossed.

How it was done, why Rose went to police headquarters and gave himself up, what conclusions later prompted him to make full confession to the district attorney, how he was led to believe that a vast fund would be raised to defend him and what brilliant lawyers would appear in his behalf, were all revealed last night for the first time since Herman Rosenthal was shot to death in front of the Hotel Metropole.

Sharp upon the heels of this remarkable recital may be expected the most amazing revelations and developments that have been brought to light by Mr. Whitman's investigation.

If it was Lieut. Becker who arranged that Attorney Aaron J. Levy should be employed to conduct the defense of the owners of the gray murder automobile—Shapiro and Libby—and Rose says it was, a final link in the chain of direct circumstances connecting Becker with the full conspiracy to murder Rosenthal will be forged.

Today one big question looms above all else. It is this:

"Who was the policeman that hired Attorney Levy?"

Rose says that he knows, and Rose will tell!

When the public first heard that "Jack" Rose had confessed and accused Police Lieut. Charles A. Becker with directing the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, only half the story was told.

It is the sharp, high details of this revelation of modern brigandage, fostered under the cloak of metropolitan municipal government, through its chief protective system, that will prove most astounding.

Becker Advised Surrender

The most vital point of this startling narrative by Rose is his statement that it was Lieut. Becker who advised him to go to police headquarters and surrender; that he did this, acting strictly in line with definite instructions given to him by Becker over a telephone, and that he was positively assured that he would not be detained as a prisoner.

"It was upon the night before I surrendered that Becker advised me to go to headquarters," said Rose, in narrating the story. "The two chauffeurs who owned the gray murder car—Shapiro and Libby—were prisoners. I was in hiding at the home of my friend, Harry Pollok.

"Becker telephoned to me during that night. He told me that I must go down to headquarters and give them an explanation. I at once protested. I told Becker that I was sick in body and mind, and that I did not feel able to make a statement, much less stand up to a grilling.

"Becker assured me that there wouldn't be anything to it. He declared that all I had to give was an 'explanation;' that he knew what he was doing, and that it would come out right. Becker said to me: 'Say, Jack, these fellows (Shapiro and Libby) have told them that you two hired their car that night. Now, there is nothing to it but coming down and explaining that away. Just tell them that of course you hired their car as you have done a hundred times before.'

"I was still leery. I told Becker that I was afraid to go to headquarters because I had a hunch that I wouldn't get away. Becker positively assured me that it was all fixed, that I would not be detained."

Monumental Bluff Attempted.

At this point in his narrative Rose declared that he relied upon Becker above every one else. He said that Becker held all police men in absolute contempt; that Becker's superiors were actually treated as his inferiors by the head of the "strong-arm" squad.

Before the telephone conversation ended Becker had convinced Rose that they could get away with the most monumental bluff ever attempted upon a metropolitan detective bureau. And Rose said that he passed his word to Becker to go through the ordeal.

Now Rose insists that he obeyed Becker's instructions literally. But he also admits that he went one step further and did something on his own initiative. And this very thing later proved the stumbling block to whatever prearranged scheme existed. Rose has told the district attorney under oath that a prearranged plot did exist.

THE GANGSTERS

ARE REPORTED TO BE IN BOSTON, MASS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—From Boston came a suggestion that within 48 hours corroboration would be obtained there of the confessions made by Jack Rose and "Bridgie" Webber that Lieutenant Becker ordered the killing of Rosenthal. The investigation in Boston is in charge of the W. J. Burns Detective Agency, working under the orders of District Attorney Whitman.

Superintendent Smith of the Burns agency has located, according to the report from Boston, several men who have knowledge of the preparations for the murder of Rosenthal and of the killing. The Burns chief admitted that he expected important news shortly, but he would not say what men he expected to arrest. "Big Jake" Zelig was in Dorchester, a Boston suburb, recently, and others of the gang believed to have been implicated in the murder have been seen at Revere Beach.

Late last night it was said the men wanted had left Boston.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, at his home in Sheepshead Bay last night, had his car to a phone waiting for news from the Catskills that Louis Rosenzweig (Lefty Louie) and Harry Horowitz (Gib the Blood) had been captured. From Inspector Hughes, in charge of the central office men in the mountains, word came to Dougherty last evening that the hunt was still active.

The news from Tannersville, Greene county, around which the New York detectives and deputy sheriffs have been operating, was that the two men accused of the murder of Rosenthal had slipped through the police lines, and that the hunt was over so far as the Catskills were concerned.

One of the central office men, who under the circumstances appeared to be extraordinarily loquacious said that the detectives were withdrawing from the mountains and returning to New York because they had got information that Lefty Louie and Gib the Blood, would surrender today at police headquarters. Headquarters said this communicative sleuth had been informed of the forthcoming surrender and had therefore ordered back the Catskill squad.

Mr. Dougherty flatly denied the story. He said that he was in charge of the hunt for the fugitives and that he had every reason to believe that Rosenzweig and Horowitz were hiding in one of the little villages west of the town of Catskill. He had given no orders, he said, for a discontinuance of the chase. On the contrary, he was continuing by telephone the direction of the Catskill squad. It was untrue, also, said the deputy commissioner, that the police had received word that the two would surrender today.

"Maybe somebody is interested in circulating that story," he added. "I am working now on the same theory that I started on," said Dougherty. "The men we want were in the Catskills recently, and I believe they are now. We think we have them located in a comparatively small district. Rosenszweig and Horowitz are running out of money and they can't conceal themselves very much longer.

BOSTON SLEUTH

SEEK GUNMEN IN ROSENTHAL CASE AT NANTASKET.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—One of the best known resorts for gamblers in Greater Boston situated on Green Hill, Nantasket, was searched by Boston detectives yesterday, acting under orders from Aaron Levy, counsel for the owners of the automobile which carried the murderers of Herman Rosenthal in New York 21 days ago.

Levy received a tip, during a tour he himself made of Boston's underworld after midnight, that "Lefty Louie" and "Big Jack" Zelig were at Nantasket.

As soon as he returned to the Touraine, Levy got into touch with a Boston detective agency. An automobile carried four detectives to Green Hill, who spent the day in and about the resort named.

"Lefty Louie" or "Big Jack" were no longer there. The detectives uncovered something good, however.

"The New York police sanctioned the murder of Herman Rosenthal they were fixed; I can prove it," declared Levy.

He left the Touraine last night for Worcester. He had just returned from a midnight tour of Boston's underworld, during which he interviewed several men he wanted to see.

This was one of yesterday's important developments in the local end of the New York murder conspiracy.

Another was Attorney Levy's statement that there was a "woman in the case," whom he and Attorney Whitman wished to interview.

This is believed to be the paramour of one of the New York "guns." The New York taxicab robbery was solved when one of the women in the case told what she knew.

Boston gamblers who have "sat in" at the same poker table with the much-sought "gunmen" and who know them personally, saw the pair early Friday evening strolling arm in arm on the boulevard at Revere beach.

Private detectives were down there, looking for them, a fact which it is believed they very quickly ascertained as they decided that the atmosphere elsewhere would be found much more enjoyable.

It is thought they immediately went to Nantasket beach, to the resort mentioned, the proprietor of which is well known to the sporting world, and passed Saturday evening. The detectives, finding the pair had evidently left Revere, believed their quarry could be found at Nantasket.

During the day, however, no trace of the men could be found and it is thought that they had been tipped off concerning the detectives coming and once more slipped through their grasp.

The two detectives who are known to have been in Worcester all day yesterday afternoon and evening may have been following the fleeing gunmen.

This may have also been the reason for Attorney Levy making such a hurried trip to that city after consulting with Mr. Morgan of the Wood-Morgan agency, changing his entire plan of leaving Boston this morning for New York to meet Attorney Whitman as he originally intended.

That the men may be in Worcester was evidenced by the fact that other detectives are to be rushed to that city tomorrow.

Attorney Levy put in a busy day at the Touraine. Returning from his midnight tour of the underworld, he bathed, breakfasted, got District Attorney Whitman almost immediately on the long-distance telephone, and then enlisted the services of the Wood-Morgan detective agency.

Then came the departure for Worcester, escorted by Wood-Morgan detective agency men and two "strong-arm" bodyguards of his own importation. At Worcester Levy stopped with James Dorr, the wealthy woolen merchant.

"I shall go on to New York on the midnight," he told reporters.

It was reported last night New York detectives at Tannersville, N. Y., had definitely located and surrounded "Lefty" Louie and "Gyp the Blood" (Harry Horowitz), the two gangsters wanted in connection with the Rosenthal murder, but this proved to be erroneous.

The fugitives have not been found but the detectives are continuing their search in that vicinity.

Since the Rosenthal murder there has been a steady influx of gamblers from New York into this city. It is estimated that at present the minimum number of New York pickpockets, gunmen and gamblers hereabouts is 150. The majority of these are daily seen at Revere beach, where Zelig and "Lefty Louie" are known to have been together.

Known to Police

Knowing the summer resorts about Boston and being well versed in the art of extracting property from unsuspecting persons' pockets, "Lefty Louie," who has been arrested and convicted of picking pockets in this city would seek those who follow the same means as himself to secure a livelihood.

The sudden activities on the part of the police may cause many of the gang to move from their present quarters. Most all of these men are known to Boston police inspectors and would not be likely to stay in the city.

It is believed that there are at present about Boston men other than Zelig and "Lefty Louie" whom District Attorney Whitman would like very much to lay hands on. Many other New York "gunmen" beside the two mentioned are more or less implicated, and it is believed that the private detectives are searching for them also.

MEXICAN REBELS ON WAY TO BORDER

They Are Destroying the Northwestern Road

JUAREZ, Mexico, Aug. 5.—General Salazer, the rebel leader responsible for the disarming of the American colonists is heading for the border with his 10,000 rebels. On his way Salazer is destroying the Mexico Northwestern railroad. In this way he hopes to delay pursuit by the two federal armies which temporarily pocketed him at Casas Grandes.

The on-coming insurrectos will join their chief, Pascual Orozco, who with about 500 men remains here. Salazar's arrival at Juarez would combine particularly all of the rebels operating in Chihuahua and the next problem would be to proceed successfully into Sonora, the border state to the west, where other rebel groups are operating. On account of the scarcity of the water supply the trip directly along the international line is almost impossible.

The Northwestern railway, which will be destroyed by the rebels, is a Canadian and American-owned road of the Pearson corporation. It was reported that the rebels had made a demand on the Pearson Lumber Co. for $100,000 with the threat that the plant of the company at Pearson would be burned if the money was not delivered.

STRIKE COLLECTORS

SENT FROM NEW BEDFORD TO OTHER CITIES

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 5.—The strike situation is quiet this morning. The chief activity about labor headquarters is the sending out of additional collectors to new fields. Ten were started for Springfield, Worcester, Lynn, Boston, Haverhill and Providence.

The weavers had nothing to say as to what action they might possibly take this evening to relieve the situation, but it is certain that after the endorsement of their position by the national federation of cloth weavers at the meeting here yesterday that they will not change their policy of fighting against the grading system to any great extent.

That the manufacturers do not expect any change in the situation was stated this morning when it was learned that Secretary William O. Devoll of the Manufacturers' association left for New York on a business trip to be absent a day or two.

Collectors sent out last week reported and the money taken while reported as a fair sum was hardly up to expectations.

REPAIRS BEING MADE AT ST. PATRICK'S SCHOOL

Rev. Fr. Flynn Preached at Sacred Heart

A force of workmen is engaged in remodeling and extensively repairing the parochial school building of St. Patrick's parish. The desks and benches have been removed temporarily so as not to interfere with the work which is progressing rapidly. New hardwood floors are being laid and the old plaster ceilings will be replaced by the more modern steel variety. The interior furnishings will be repainted and varnished. The date set for the opening of the fall term is Monday, September 9th.

Immaculate Conception

The members of Holy Rosary society of the church of the Immaculate Conception have arranged to hold a picnic to Revere Beach on Tuesday August 13th. A special car will convey the party to their destination. The number of those who have already signified their intention of attending is quite large.

Although no definite day has been determined upon, it is quite probable that the parochial school will reopen on September 9th with the others. The building has been thoroughly cleaned and renovated.

Sacred Heart

At the high mass at the Sacred Heart church yesterday, Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I., delivered the sermon, it being his first appearance in the pulpit of the church for five months. He first expressed his pleasure at being back with his friends and spoke on the gospel of the day. Preceding the sermon, a trio composed of Messrs. John McMahon, Henry Curry and George Kerwin, sang Abt's "Ave Maris Stella," in a very impressive manner.

Rev. Dennis Finnegan, O. M. I., who is enjoying a vacation in Lowell, celebrated mass. The responses of the mass were given by the sanctuary choir, and John J. Kelly presided at the organ and directed the choir.

St. Mary's, Collinsville

A meeting of all the committees of St. Mary's parish will be held in Harmony hall, tomorrow evening, and plans for the annual lawn party, which will be held on the grounds surrounding the hall on next Saturday afternoon and evening will be made. A fine program for the affair has been arranged and the committees are confident that this year's party will be the most successful in the history of the parish.

McMANUS' PICNIC

Constable John McManus reports all in readiness for his 13th annual outing to the poor children of Lowell. The affair will be held on Aug. 11th at Mountain Rock, and John has tickets for the event on which is printed a good picture of himself. The cars will leave Merrimack square at 8 o'clock in the morning, and inasmuch as there will be 13 police officers with the children, he guarantees that the best order will prevail. The children are all requested to carry along a dipper for the lemonade, and John promises enough food for everybody.

Bad Complexions Are Now Easily Discarded

(From The Beauty Seeker)

Every woman has it in her own hands to possess a beautiful and youthful complexion. No matter how soiled, faded or coarse the cuticle, ordinary mercolized wax will actually remove it, and Nature will substitute a skin as soft, clear and lovely as a child's. The action of the wax is not drastic, but gentle and agreeable. Minute particles of scarf skin come off day by day, yet no evidence of the treatment is discernible, other than the gradual complexional improvement. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, suffices for most cases. It is put on at bedtime like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water. It is a certain method of discarding tan, freckles, sun spots, liver spots, moth patches, blackheads and pimples.

Wrinkles can be treated with benefit by bathing the face in a lotion prepared by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Instantaneous results are secured.

AN AUDIENCE OF 1000 HEARD CANDIDATE CHAPIN

Prohibition Candidate for President Addressed Meeting on the South Common

An audience aggregating nearly 1000 people gathered on the South common last evening to listen to a speech by Eugene W. Chafin of Waukeshaw, Wis., prohibition candidate for the presidential chair. Mr. Chafin who is a man of eloquent language commanded the earnest attention of his audience as he stated his political stand in regard to the liquor traffic.

"Capt." Stanley, a singer of campaign songs, accompanied the candidate and he won the applause of the audience with his witty speech and verse.

Introducing Mr. Chafin, Rev. James M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church said: "He is willing to be the best president of the United States we have ever had."

With a pleasing directness, Mr. Chafin spoke as follows:

"Last year in the west, the potato crop was small, but we didn't pay any attention to the old law about demand regulating the cost so we kept right on eating potatoes. Pretty soon the price went higher and we had to go over to Ireland for potatoes. Just think of it: sending to Ireland for potatoes when we have 750,000 acres of unoccupied land out in the western country, where millions of bushels of potatoes might be raised. And think, too, that we have here in this country about ten million persons who do not pretend to produce anything.

"What is the solution of the great economic question confronting us? The solution lies right in that vast army of non-producers whom we are forced to carry along and feed and clothe. Nearly one million men are annually engaged in nothing but making and selling intoxicating liquors. Taken into account the families of these men and the army grows to five millions. That army hasn't produced a loaf of bread. It doesn't make a suit of clothing. Who feeds it and clothes it? The men who earned two billion dollars last year and who passed it over the saloon bars paid for the support of that army. If there is one drinking man here he can say to himself that he has purchased many bricks for the house of the saloon keeper, has bought him loaves of bread, has put clothing onto his back.

"In the penitentiaries of the land are 200,000 young men, all under the age of 24 years, who are being fed and clothed by the tax payers. Most of those young men, 95 per cent. of them, are serving time because of intoxicating liquors. In addition to these we have an army of tramps and drunkards, who produce nothing. And again, we have an army of police and court officials who would have no occupation if the liquor traffic were stopped. All these policemen and court officials and retainers, lawyers among them, total up five million more to add to the class of non-producers. Here we have ten million persons, that we are forced to carry along and support. And it is all due to our absolutely wrong economic system that we are forced to give them a living.

"Last year five hundred millions of dollars were taken from the taxpayers of this country to protect 97 per cent. of the country's population from three per cent., to keep the three per cent. from killing the 97 per cent. and from stealing everything which isn't nailed down. And the five hundred million dollars hasn't done very much, at that. The thievery went on, there were 9000 murders and everything the acknowledged thief class didn't take was stolen by the police of the city of New York.

"Last year $16,000,000 bushels of grain was raised and used for the purpose of distilling liquor. Had that amount of grain been put in the market the price of wheat would have dropped 10 per cent. in the past 10 years but the number of beef cattle has increased but three per cent. If that grain had been fed to cattle to raise beef instead of being put into whiskey, which is sold in cities to raise hell, you would have had a whole lot more good meat to eat, and at a decently low figure at that.

"We will look at the three notable men who are candidates for president. Mr. Taft is supposed to be a statesman. Mr. Wilson is one of the finest men in morals and education who has ever pursued the office. He is the best scholar who has been a candidate since James Madison. And everybody supposes Mr. Roosevelt is the biggest thing on earth. All three of these men are supposed to have studied our economic questions. But not one of them has uttered a single sentence that touches upon the great liquor question. Either these distinguished gentlemen know the awful waste that is being caused or if they don't know it they are not fit for the high office to which they aspire. And if they do know of it and don't say something about it they do not deserve to be elected, any one of them.

"The prohibition party, if it gets into power, proposes not to stop the sale of liquor in a single township until it has stopped the government from granting the right to manufacture it. Elect me president and send a congress of prohibition congressmen to Washington, and we'll make a severe penalty for making liquor.

"Somebody asked me yesterday what I would do with the saloon keepers, if the prohibition ticket were elected. Well, I would get that vast army of 50,000 men into line, have them put on their best white aprons and would then lead them out to the 750,000 acres of unoccupied land in the west, where they would be forced to produce something worth while. And the bartenders? They could get jobs on western farms at $30 and $40 a month and keep, and they could assist in producing something worth while. And the police court judges and the police court lawyers and sheriffs and police officers could be allowed to look for their employment, for there would really be nothing for them to do.

"You will have no change in economic conditions until this liquor condition is wiped out. Many drinking men every year vote the prohibition ticket, and every drinking man ought to vote it. It would be the best thing that could happen to him. It is a lot more consistent for a drinking man to vote to prohibit the manufacture of liquor than it is for a church member to vote the whiskey ticket.

"The prohibition platform holds a plank which means that in the future there need be no shedding of blood to settle disputes. The first thing I would do if elected president would be to create a bureau of peace, and then do away with the bureaus of navy and army. A court of international arbitration would settle all of the disputes. But the election of a democratic or republican or progressive candidate will not solve the matter of waste which I have shown to you. It's the simplest thing in the world. Perform a surgical operation on this old cancer that's eating into our vitals, perform it by voting the prohibitionist ticket."

DOES NOT THINK THAT ALDRICH WILL RUN

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 5.—Governor Aram J. Pothier, who had not visited Newport for more than a year, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Marsden J. Perry.

The governor and Mrs. Pothier attended the dedication ceremonies of St. Augustine's church yesterday morning and later drove about the cottage colony with Mr. and Mrs. Perry.

Yesterday afternoon Governor Pothier was asked about the report that ex-United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich was to be a candidate for reelection, to which the executive replied he did not think the report was true. Asked if he knew who would be the candidate for Senator George Peabody Wetmore's seat when he retires this year, replied: "I have heard the name of Judge Lebaron Colt of Bristol mentioned, but this is not new and perhaps you have heard the same report."

The governor, asked if he were enjoying his visit at Newport, said: "You have a grand place here and I am enjoying every moment of my stay, which unfortunately ends tomorrow morning, as I am taking an early train for Providence."

Governor Pothier and Mrs. Pothier were entertained at a dinner last night. The 30 guests included Mr. and Mrs. Duer Irving, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Miss Josephine Gibson, Miss Beatrice Colt of Bristol, Charles Thompson of Narragansett Pier, Mrs. Oliver H. Belmont, Capt. and Mrs. William B. Caperton of the naval station, Frederick H. Paine, Commander William P. Scott of the navy, Col. and Mrs. Samuel M. Nicholson of Providence and Mr. von Bulow, attache of the German embassy.

Over One Thousand In City Today

TREMENDOUS SUCCESS OF NEW REMEDY ATTRACTS ATTENTION OF LARGER CITIES

It was stated that over one thousand people in Lowell and vicinity are strong supporters of Var-ne-sis, the new remedy now being introduced at a local store down town. The tremendous success this remedy is having has attracted attention all over New England and letters come pouring in seeking further information about the medicine. For the benefit of those who cannot call on the Var-ne-sis physician here it was announced that all reliable drug stores carry Var-ne-sis and if one is unable to secure it or is offered a substitute, write to the doctor direct.

Among those who consented to talk for publication was Mr. J. E. Willett, a well known Lowell man, who lives at 37 West Fifth street, and a more enthusiastic man it would be hard to find. He said: "For 20 years I suffered with rheumatism in my shoulders and hands; it gradually worked down until it settled in my feet and knees and I was unable to bend my knees. When I got up in the morning it was almost impossible to get about and sometimes I had to actually crawl about until I got limbered up. I tried every kind of cures and remedies without relief, and I finally gave up all hope of ever getting rid of this trouble.

"An old friend of mine who was cured of a severe case of stomach trouble and rheumatism recommended Var-ne-sis to me and I began to take it immediately. Well, I am glad I listened to him for it has absolutely cured me every sign of that dread disease. My limbs and feet are as limber as can be and I know what it is to walk with comfort again, thanks to Var-ne-sis."

This remedy is composed of entirely different ingredients than that usually given for this disease and the success they are having with it more than bears out the statement that we are living in an enlightened age and nothing is impossible. Its main action is on the stomach and liver and Mr. Varney says get these organs working right and with good, rich blood, disease cannot exist.

The Var-ne-sis physician will meet the public at Dows drug store, corner Merrimack and Central streets, every day from 10 in the morning to 8 at night.

REV. A. C. LINCOLN AT KIRK ST. CHURCH

Talked on "The Progressive Christian"

"The Progressive Christian" was the topic of a sermon preached yesterday morning at the Kirk Street church by Rev. A. C. Lincoln of Moline, Ill. The words of Paul: "Forgetting the things which are behind, and stretching forward to the things which are before; I press toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Jesus Christ," served as his text.

"Every age has its watchword," said the speaker in opening his address.

He went on to contrast the conservative policies so popular in this country a short time ago, with the progressive tendency of today. St. Paul, he said, was a true progressive. Being the exponent of a new religion it was his policy to cease to cling to precedent and to strive for what was before him, to "forget the things which are behind." In the developing of his text, Rev. Mr. Lincoln said in part:

"These words, 'Forgetting the things which are behind and stretching forward to the things which are before,' catch the attention and engage the interest of a true progressive in any walk of life.

"But these words, 'Forgetting the things which are behind,' if taken literally, are the counsel of impossibility. We cannot forget the past if we would, and most of it we would not forget if we could. Painting, architecture, music, science, literature, commerce, government, religion: all of these by their present power testify to the virility of the past in the present. In the matter of commerce,—of the business world in which we daily toil and which we daily enjoy, we find strong testimony to the healthy influence of the past. The man who would try literally to forget the past and press forward into the future, is a dangerous radical.

He went on to interpret the text of Paul more clearly.

Forget the evil of the past, he said, for it will hinder the good of the future. Forget the good deeds of the past for one must forget what he has once accomplished, in large measure, that he may repeat his success.

Concluding, he said:

"The things of the heart are the greatest source of wealth. Love is the highest of all these things of the heart. Forget te things that are behind you in matters which have engaged your affection. Do not let them become an obsession; stretch forward to the things which are before."

MANAGER GRAY

WAS INJURED AT THE LOWELL-LAWRENCE GAME

Manager Gray of the Lowell baseball team met with an accident at the Lowell and Lawrence double-header Friday. He was directing his players from the bench when a foul tip from one of the Lowell men's bats struck him on the left knee. For a few minutes he felt the effect of the blow but thought that he was nothing serious. This morning, however, he discovered that the knee had swollen and it was very painful. He consulted a physician and was advised to carry a cane for a few days.

HEALTH BOARDS ARE CRITICISED

By the State Board of Health

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The state board of health has issued an extended criticism of local boards of health in this state in the matter of caring for tubercular patients who have been released from state sanitariums where consumptives are cared for. This attack is based on the report of Dr. William Hall Coon, the state inspector of health.

Dr. Coon has taken the cases of 80 patients discharged from state sanitariums who returned to one of the largest cities of the state, the name of which is not given. It covers a period from July 15, 1910, to March 14, 1912.

Of this number 19 were discharged as either "apparently cured," "arrested" or "improved." A brief statement of these cases is as follows: Dead 5, disappeared 9, active tubercular process 12, no history 3, in apparent good health 5, not investigated 9, stayed at hospital to work 5.

Of the 80 cases it was found on inquiry at the office of the local board of health that 16 had apparently never been reported. No knowledge whatever could be obtained as to the whereabouts of 20 of the 80 persons supposed to have returned to the city. Of these, nine had been discharged from a state sanitarium as "apparently cured," "arrested" or "improved," four had been discharged as "unimproved" and seven with no comment as to health.

The state inspector found that in the greater number of cases no aid or assistance had been rendered to the persons afflicted and that no inquiry had been made into their surroundings. It appeared to be the custom for the local boards to offer no aid except on request. And in any event no patient was aided unless it was first shown that tubercular was found.

The state board says that this custom prevails among all the boards with a few notable exceptions. It says that the facts were collected without any bias. That there should be co-operation on the part of health officials and private tuberculosis organizations is the claim of the state officials if this disease is to be prevented from spreading.

NORMAN E. MACK

SAYS CAMPAIGN FUND RAN SHORT IN BRYAN'S TIME

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the democratic national committee in 1908, today told the senate committee investigating campaign funds of that year and also those of 1904, that the only contribution he could remember having rejected was one by Col. J. M. Guffey of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. Mack added that after Mr. Bryan had been defeated the campaign committee was several thousand dollars in debt and Guffey's contribution was accepted.

The official report of expenditures which the committee filed at Albany in conformity of the New York state law, Mr. Mack said, was absolutely correct and covered every dollar contributed.

BADLY INJURED

A. H. SARGENT OF NEWTON, N. H. STEPPED IN FRONT OF AUTO

NEWBURYPORT, Aug. 5.—A. H. Sargent, aged 71, a lumber dealer of Newton, N. H. was struck and probably fatally injured yesterday morning by a machine owned and operated by John P. Lane of 7 Bakers road, Everett.

Mr. Sargent was walking on the street car tracks in the direction of this city, and when Mr. Lane's auto was about 75 feet from him, a warning was given by a number of toots of the horn.

The elderly man, believing that it was an electric car approaching, stepped from the track directly in front of the machine, which was going at a rate of about 18 miles an hour. He was knocked down, run over and dragged several feet.

Mr. Lane immediately stopped, placed the injured man aboard the car and hurried to the Homeopathic hospital. Mr. Sargent sustained a lacerated wound on the back of the head about two inches long, one over the left eye, and it is feared that he is injured internally.

MILLMEN'S UNION

HELD ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING AT CARPENTERS' HALL

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Millmen's union was held at Carpenters' hall in the Runels building yesterday afternoon, and the most important business of the session was the vote on the strike question. The members of the union have been on strike since July 5, and, contrary to reports, they voted unanimously to remain on strike. C. N. Kimball, organizer, presided and also spoke. Among the other speakers was John Hannigan of Worcester, president of the state council.

It was reported that about all the men who came out on strike are engaged in other places and that the reason they voted to continue the strike was to keep union men from taking the places that they made vacant. At the close of the business session several of the members addressed the gathering.

FALL RIVER

MAY PLAY IN THIS CITY FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

It is expected that the games scheduled between Lowell and Fall River for the latter city on Friday and Saturday will be transferred to Lowell, owing to the fact that Manager John O'Brien of the Fall River team informed Manager Gray on his last visit to Lowell that he would prefer to play in the Spindle City. The Lowell manager said this morning, just before boarding the 11.25 train for Worcester, that he will announce upon his return to Lowell where the games will be played.

Messrs. Elzear Hebert and Arthur Brunelle of this city will spend the coming two weeks at Old Orchard beach.

LOWELL PLAYERS SHOW UP WELL

DeGroff Still the Leading Batter in N. E. League

While three men are ahead of him in the percentage table, Rube DeGroff, the Lowell right fielder, is still the real leader in the New England league batters. He has played all season and has the splendid average of .359. Halstein, who has played in 31 games with the Lowell team, has an average of .369. In the first 30 batters of the league, Lowell has six men.

Clemens of the Lowell team has scored the largest number of runs, 78 and De Groff of the same team is in third place, having crossed the counting station just 69 times.

Clemens also leads the base stealers, having purloined 40, while De Groff is second in this department of the game, having "pinched" 38 during the season. Lowell is 'way down the list in the sacrifice hitting, Magee and Miller being the leaders of the Lowell team, having made but 15 each during the season. Crum of Worcester, leads in that department, with 26 to his credit.

Lowell leads in team batting with an average of .286. In team fielding, strange to relate, Haverhill is leading the league with the average of .960, and Lowell is in fifth place, with an average of 952.

"Big Jeff" Pfeffer of Lowell has yet to lose a game, having won all that he has participated in to date, five in number. Van Dyke of Worcester is the real leader with a percentage of .714, having won 15 and lost 6 games.

The leading 30 batters of the league and the pitchers who have won the majority of their games are as follows:

Work on New Reservoir Is Progressing Favorably

THE NEW RESERVOIR IN CENTRALVILLE

Commissioner Barrett stated this forenoon that work on the new reservoir is progressing very favorably, and he thinks that work on the roof will be begun next week. The concrete floor has been laid and all but one section of the wall has been completed. Engineer Barbour, who has charge of the work, says the walls are perfect and that the fellow who said one side of the wall was out of plumb must have been suffering from the heat or perhaps had been taking a wee drop too much. Mr. Barbour is one of the best known engineers of reservoir construction in this section of the country, and he was engaged by the water board of 1911 to supervise the work, and the agreement was that he should receive 5 per cent of the total cost of the work. It was figured that the work would cost about $50,000, but Commissioner Barrett believes that it will in all probability foot up to $60,000. The contract was awarded Contractor Cyrus Barton in the early spring, his estimate for all the cement work being $31,949.50, slightly under Charles R. Gow, who bid $32,065.

MAN STRUCK BY AN AUTO RECEIVED SERIOUS INJURIES

James Duckworth and Family of This City Had Narrow Escape at Salem

George W. Dowrey, aged 62 years, residing at 76 Epping street, Wigginville, had a narrow escape from being killed Saturday afternoon as a result of being struck by an automobile near Chandler's turnout in Tewksbury. The unfortunate man was thrown under the machine and dragged a distance of about 25 feet before the machine could be brought to a stop.

Arthur H. Barthwick of Reading, who was driving the machine, brought the car to a stop as soon as possible, and then placed the injured man in the tonneau and hurried him to the state infirmary at Tewksbury where he received attention.

An examination of the man's condition showed that he had sustained two broken ribs and severe bruises about the chest and head.

Dowrey was at the time of the accident engaged with two other men in oiling the roads and, according to the story which his wife gave after visiting him at the hospital, he was facing the automobile and was aware of its approach. He stepped off the road about three feet. When the automobile was almost up to him it seemed to swerve toward him and, seeking to avoid it, he jumped back into the road. The automobile in making another attempt to avoid him, swerved again as he tried to step off the road, but it was too late then to avoid him and the accident resulted.

Narrow Escape

John Duckworth and family of this city had a narrow escape from being badly hurt in Lafayette street, Salem, yesterday, when Mr. Duckworth was forced to run his automobile into a fence in order to escape colliding with a touring car belonging to United States District Attorney Court Judge Edgar Aldrich of Littleton, N. H.

Mr. Duckworth's machine was going through Lafayette street directly behind Judge Aldrich's car when the latter machine made a turn in order to cross into Ocean Avenue. In order to avoid striking the car ahead Mr. Duckworth headed for the sidewalk and, after passing over the curbing, struck a fence.

The automobile was badly damaged, but fortunately the occupants escaped injury.

LOWELL PEOPLE ENJOYING FINE AUTO TRIP

Mr. Omer Deziel and his family and ex-Councilman Arthur Genest with his family left this morning on an extended automobile tour to Canada. Mr. Deziel is using an F. M. F. car, while Mr. Genest will make the tour in a Ford touring car.

The trip was undertaken for the sole purpose of deciding which car would stand the most endurance. Mr. Genest claimed that the Ford could outdo the E. M. F. on a long run, while on the other hand Mr. Deziel has great confidence in his machine and expects to be forced to tow the other car especially in hill climbing.

The party will go from here to Montreal and then to Trois Rivieres. They will push ahead as far as Shawinigan Falls. They will be gone a couple of months, and on the way they expect to meet other Lowell parties who are now traveling in the dominion.

GUARANTEES TO THE PUBLIC

ANOTHER DELICIOUS FOOD

GOOD FOR ALL THE FOLKS ALL THE TIME

We have spent years making a whole-wheat food good enough to replace bread in nourishment and toast in flavor —

Good enough to satisfy any appetite at any time —

Even good enough to brand as KELLOGG'S!

The result is KELLOGG'S TOASTED WHEAT BISCUIT —

First of its kind.

Made of whole wheat — more nourishing than ordinary bread.

Thoroughly (twice) cooked — a golden brown inside and outside.

The right size biscuit at last — firm, convenient and handy.

And Oh! you flavor!

The very first taste forms a habit.

At 12 cents a box, the new biscuit is better and cheaper than ordinary bread.

More nourishment to the ounce; more flavor to the penny.

Comparative Statement Was Given Out From the Assessors' Office

A comparative statement of the appropriations for 1911 and 1912 was obtained at the office of the assessors of taxes this forenoon and it shows an increase of $42,988.68 for the present year and that amount would represent an increase in the tax rate of about 50 cents on the thousand unless it is overcome in some way, and it is believed that the increase in valuation will more than wipe it out. The present statement has nothing to do with overlayings, for they are not known until the tax rate has been established. The clerks in the assessors' office are working both day and night on the valuation books and their work is being increased by the number of new names that are coming in, names that did not appear on the original returns. The comparative statement referred to is as follows:

CHARLES R. CRANE

MAY BE TREASURER OF DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 5.—Governor Wilson had nothing to say today about the appointment of a treasurer for the democratic national committee, but indications were that Charles R. Crane of Chicago, whose name had been suggested to the governor, would not be the man.

Friends of Mr. Crane had laid his name before members of the national committee, through whom it reached the governor. It was reported today, however, that the governor had another name in mind when he went to New York, and was withholding it merely to determine if the man selected was willing to serve.

No invitations have been issued to the notification exercises on Wednesday other than those sent out by Stager-elect James of Kentucky as chairman of the notification committee to the 22 democratic governors, Speaker Clark and Representative Underwood of Alabama.

Gov. Wilson declared today that the exercises would be "utterly informal."

Under the laws of the Central Labor union, the origin of the resolution will remain private business. It went through the resolutions committee, emerged and was passed unanimously.

LOWELL PEOPLE

A NUMBER ARE GOING TO THE MAINE BEACHES

The exodus of Lowell people continues and on all trains this morning, great numbers of people left the city. As has been the case during the past six weeks, the majority of the people leaving here are going to the beaches along the coast of Maine, Old Orchard beach is being visited by a great many and on the 9 o'clock train this morning about twenty Lowellites left for the beach.

The 11.10 train was delayed about 10 minutes this morning. There was a large number in the station waiting its arrival. This is one of the best patronized trains running from Lowell and daily takes many Lowellites to the Hub.

The travel in general was quite heavy and considerable baggage was handled during the day.

DIAMOND NOTES

Down with Jesse for two days.

Fall River here Wednesday and Thursday, and Lowell at Fall River Friday and Saturday, if the schedule isn't changed.

Boehling has Lowell's nanny. He's the boy who fanned Rube De Groff four times one afternoon, and the little fanning exhibition took place at Spalding park, on July 4.

Flaherty's homer was a good clout, and he received the little check calling for 72 packages of the famous Bull.

Thirty-one home runs have been made on the local grounds this season, and for each a check for 72 packages of Bull was issued. That's some bull.

Manager Burkett was a happy individual Saturday, for the attendance looked good to the old boy, and the winning of the game also made the veteran smile.

CITY SOLICITOR GIVES AN OPINION

Relative to Expenditure of Money

The following opinion, handed Commissioner Cummings today by the city solicitor, is self explanatory:

August 5, 1912.

Lawrence Cummings, Commissioner of Public Property and Licenses:

Dear Sir—Your request for an opinion of the city solicitor as to the advisability of entering into contracts where an order of the municipal council has become effectual, appropriating money to satisfy said contracts, but such money being not in the possession of the city for that particular purpose, has received the consideration of the city solicitor, and he is of the opinion that it is not advisable to execute such contracts before the money is actually placed to the credit of the appropriation, for the reason that a multiplicity of conditions is apt to arise between the time of executing said contracts and the time of the acquisition of the money to be appropriated.

The city solicitor therefore advises that no contract should be entered into until the money appropriated is actually accredited on the auditor's books, to the satisfaction of the contemplated contract. Respectfully submitted.

J. Joseph Hennessy,
City Solicitor.

NOT GUILTY

MAN WAS ACCUSED OF KILLING WOMAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—G. R. Harkness, a real estate broker of Sea Cliff, who shot and killed Mrs. Florense Hopp, a milliner of Louisberg, Pa., last month, was discharged today by the coroner. Harkness testified today that he had been explaining the workings of the revolver to the young woman when it was accidentally discharged. The jury returned a verdict of accidental shooting.

NEW ANTI-TRUST BILL

Is Aimed at Steel Corporation Combines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A new anti-trust bill, aimed particularly at the steel corporations combines will be introduced in the house by Rep. Stanley of Kentucky, chairman of the "steel trust" investigating committee. The bill will prohibit corporations engaged in the interstate commerce from holding stock in other concerns or from buying or selling their own stock and would prohibit over-capitalization, excessive overholdings and operation of common carriers by industrial corporations. Heavy fines and long prison terms would be imposed for violations of the law.

BECKER'S COUNSEL

ENTERED A PLEA OF NOT GUILTY TODAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Counsel for Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, the central figure in the Rosenthal murder case, today entered a plea of not guilty to the indictment charging the policeman with murder in the first degree in the killing of Herman Rosenthal.

Becker was not brought into court, and his plea was entered by his counsel, John W. Hart, who appeared before Judge Mulqueen in the court of general sessions.

Hart made two motions: first, to dismiss the indictment on the ground that it was drawn by an irregular jury, and second, that he be given permission to inspect the grand jury minutes. The first motion was dismissed and the second will be argued on Aug. 7.

Dense crowds surrounded the prison and court buildings, eager to catch a glimpse of the accused policeman. Squads of additional policemen were stationed about the two buildings to keep the crowd moving, while scores of policemen and detectives maintained order in the crowded corridors of the court building.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Rockdales A. C. would like to arrange a game with the North Chelmsford Cadets for two quarter hails a side, for August 10. Send all challenges through this paper.

The Rockdales A. C. won a lively game from the Tyler A. C. Saturday, by the score of 15 to 1.

The Ponies have a few open dates, and would like to hear from 15-16 year old teams.

The Tiger A. C. won from the Indians, Saturday, 7 to 3.

The Tyler A. C. defeated the Rockdale A. C., Saturday, 10 to 3.

The North Billerica Independents defeated the Chippewas of Lowell, Saturday afternoon, at the Fair grounds, Lowell, by the score of 7 to 4.

The O. M. I. Cadets accept the challenge of the Belvidere A. A. for Aug. 10. The Cadets defeated the Central A. A. and the Methuen A. C. of Lawrence, Saturday, by the scores of 8-1 and 9-10.

The T. R. & T.'s defeated the strong Milford team, Saturday, at Milford, by the score of 7 to 2. McCarthy of the Billerica team was in fine form and allowed the New Hampshire men but seven scattered hits, as well as making two hits and scoring two runs himself. Linehan and Allen also starred for the T. R. & T.'s, while McLane and Kendall batted well for Milford.

The Lenox A. C. defeated the Young Buffalos in a six inning game yesterday, by the score of 7-5. The lineup of the Buffalos is as follows:

A. Lonting, p; R. Sullivan, c; G. Steadman, 1b; P. Sullivan, 1b; W. Sullivan, 3b; J. Gerard, ss; C. MacCarty, rf; A. White, lf; P. Marr, cf.

LICENSE BOARD

GIVES WORCESTER HOTEL KEEPERS QUITE A SCARE

WORCESTER, Aug. 5.—The liquor license commission, William I. McLoughlin and Moses D. Gilman, went over the heads of the police liquor squad yesterday and stirred up a big scare among the hotel men of the city, when they went on a personal tour of investigation.

The liquor business at the hotel Sterling and Hotel Essex was closed up by order of the commissioners as a result, and the proprietor of the Hotel Vernon will be summoned before them.

The commissioners visited every hotel in the city.

At the Sterling the commissioners say 75 men were drinking freely with no food in sight, except sandwiches and soup plates. This is contrary to their expressly stipulated rules, they say. At the Essex, they also report finding liquors being sold contrary to the regulations laid down and at the Hotel Vernon they charge that beer was being sold to a drunken man. The commissioners also say they are satisfied the tip was passed along to other hotels, for everything was quiet in the other places visited, except one where they say about 15 men were looking for something to drink and be in refused.

CRUMBS OF BASEBALL

Culled by "Sul" From Circuit Dope Sheets

Tough on Van Dyke to hold Lawrence to three hits and still lose his game.

Burkett is still fishing for a shortstop. He needs McCune back behind the bat.

Rube De Groff has played in about every league of any account in the past decade.—Exchange. And he is still there.

For a game going 10 innings, that one at Worcester Thursday was run off in pretty quick time, 1 hour and 25 minutes.

A quartet of swell first sackers have been uncovered in the New England league this year—Ness, Carney, Barry and Halstein.—Exchange.

Worcester would be a whole lot stronger with Jesse in its lineup and besides draw better at the box office.—Worcester Post.

The Wilkesbarre club has bought Pitcher Elmer Steele, formerly with Lynn, from the Toronto club of the International league.

Right over the pan, O Pill!
And the words that my tongue could utter
In print would look very ill.
O, well for the man in the stand,
That tells you to wallop it out;

O, well for the coacher at third
That he hollers to give 'er a clout.

And the pesky pill goes on
And lands in the catcher's mitt;
But O, for a crack at the vanished ball,
And the sound of a ringing hit.

And the umpire shouts: "Strike three!"
But the tender grace of a swat misplaced
Will never return to me.
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Garry Wilson, formerly third baseman on the New Bedford team is playing in Orlando, Fla.

Joe Monahan is showing better form behind the bat for Lowell just now than at any time this season.—Exchange.

Lawrence never has won a pennant in the New England league. It will be a bitter blow to the fans up there if they are cheated out of the distinction this year.—Exchange. We don't like to cheat anybody, but still we like the first place.

Jack Ness' boast that he can take a bigger lead off a base and get back safely than any other player in the league cost New Bedford Monday's game at Lowell.

O'Dowd may be a good infielder, but he shapes poorly at the bat. It is hard to see where he fitted with the New York Americans, even for a day.—New Bedford Mercury.

From now on the Lowell club will be the one to watch in the pennant fight of the New England league. Though Worcester, Lawrence, Lynn and Brockton are all in the thick of the fray, the Lowell players have now struck their stride and are slamming all pitchers alike. Gray has a good pitching staff, and his team certainly has the hitters, a combination which wins games.—Manchester Union.

Being shifted around from one position to another evidently hasn't put Wolfgang on the blink or anywhere near it. He resumed work in the box, his natural position, with victorious results against Lynn.—Lynn Item.

Lefty Wallace has got back all of his old speed on the bases and some more with it. At Worcester, Monday, he made a clean steal home.—Lynn Item. Look at our old friend, Eddie McLane, doing the same.—Brockton Enterprise. And our old friend, Jake Boultes.

Jimmy Gray came within an ace of making good his prediction that his Champs would be at the top on the first day of August. They are so close to it that the Lawrence bunch are digging out of their little dope books everything which will help keep them in the lead.—Lynn Item.

It is caustically remarked by the Brockton Enterprise that the Lawrence club has of late taken to kicking about everything since they have been so nearly overtaken again and their position in the race is seriously threatened by several clubs thundering along close behind.

The Worcester fans are right on their nerve, now that it is apparent Burkett's players have a look-in for the flag and their bombardment of Umpire Kerins, Thursday, with sticks and stones, shows that they bitterly resent any decision which tends to retard the upward progress of their representatives in the league race. It's not a nice way to win pennants, though, and the Busters don't need any such rowdyish assistance.—Exchange.

Dr. Carney, the Haverhill first baseman, who graduated from Tufts' Dental school this summer, plans to hang out his shingle in the fall, probably in Worcester, his home burg.

Cy Perkins, the Haverhill catcher, has ordered 600 shells for his shotgun, according to the Haverhill Gazette, in anticipation of a winter of marsh shooting near his Gloucester home.

After looking all the league catchers over critically, the New Bedford Times concludes that Larry Pratt of Haverhill tops them all. Looks to us, too, like a safe or draft for this blonde backstop.—Exchange.

Interest in the game is at low ebb down in the city where John O'Brien's tail-enders are struggling along with the booby prize fastened to them in a double-and-twisted bowknot. "The crowds get slimmer and then more slim," says the Fall River News, "and it looks as though pretty soon no one but the three sporting writers will be left. "You've got to show the 'punklings' to get a ribbon at the fair.—Exchange.

Terry McGovern is doing good work this year for Lynn on the initial sack, no doubt leading the first sackers of the league in fielding at the present time, with a mark of .995. He has accepted 660 putouts and 31 assists, with but four misplays. He has been in 70 games and has made 71 hits for a .293 average. Managing the club hasn't affected his work evidently.—Brockton Enterprise.

Lowell is the first team in the league to win 50 games.

TY COBB LEADS

TURNS IN SIXTEEN HITS IN A WEEK

Ty Cobb of Detroit continues to hit 'em out at the terrific rate he began to travel at about three weeks ago, all pitchers looking alike to Tyrus these days. Last week he turned in 16 hits for a total of 20 bases, batting at a .470 clip for the seven days and running his average up from .425 to .429.

Tris Speaker of the Red Sox is still second, increasing his standing a single point in the week, his mark now being .391. Joe Jackson of Cleveland is a distant third with .367, while next to him is a man new to the .300 list, Larry Pape of the Red Sox, who, however, is tied with Kocher of Detroit for fourth place.

Larry Gardner is still batting for .315, but with him Boston's share in the .300-or-better honors ceases. Jake Stahl having dropped out of that group and now being marked at .296.

Next to Cobb, Moeller of Washington made the most hits last week, getting 12. Incidentally, Moeller made the greatest gain in percentage of any man in the league, moving up from .303 to .323. Speaker made 12 hits in the seven days, Milan of Washington got 11, while McInnis of the Athletics and Jackson of Cleveland turned in eight apiece.

The batting averages of the American leaguers, who are hitting for .300 or better, excluding those who have not played in at least 10 games, follow.

REFORMER BUSY

"HINTS FOR LADIES" SHOCK COTTAGERS AT BAR HARBOR

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 5.—Conspicuously posted on telegraph poles and fences close to the Swimming club, where it is the custom of Bar Harbor's summer people to gather, the postoffice, schoolhouse grounds and other points of public notice, a number of scrawling notices appeared Saturday.

These caused amusement to those who read them, and then wonder if they were the work of a practical joker or a bonafide reformer, for so many appeared that it would seem hardly the work of one bent on fun.

The notices were written in a straggling, evidently disguised hand on torn pieces of note paper, and criticised strongly the feminine set at Bar Harbor. No one knows when or how they were put up. The posters read as follows:

HINTS FOR LADIES

1. Wear stockings heavier than gauze.
2. Wear skirts more than one-half yard around.
3. Don't wear French heels.
4. Don't stare.
5. Don't go to church to see the styles.
6. Wear colors that harmonize.

BOOTT REPAIR SHOP OUTING

The annual outing of the employes of the Boott repair shop was held Saturday afternoon at Mountain Rock, and was largely attended. A feature of the afternoon was the ball game between the machine shop and the carpenter shop, the former winning by a score of 11 to 4. A very pleasant afternoon was spent, and it was late when the party broke up and returned to this city.

VESPER GOLF CLUB

At the Vesper Country club Saturday afternoon, R. W. Gleason turned in the best net and gross card in the medal play. Gleason had 41-33 for the 18 holes and with his handicap of six took first place with 74. A. H. Sweatt, W. G. Eaton and F. L. Allen with 75 were tied for second honors. The scores:

SILVER WEDDING

WAS OBSERVED BY MR. AND MRS. J. B. LELACHEUR

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lelacheur, were yesterday the recipients of many beautiful silver gifts as well as the congratulations from their many friends, the occasion being the 25th anniversary of their wedding. The event occurred last Friday, but inasmuch as Mr. and Mrs. Lelacheur wished to let the occasion go by unnoticed, their many friends did not learn of it until yesterday, when they gathered at their beautiful summer home, B. Hive camp on Bowers avenue, Willow Dale, and extended their best wishes and congratulations to the couple.

Mr. Lelacheur was born in Quebec, 48 years ago and at the age of 18 he came to this city, where he learned the tailor's trade. He has been a resident of Lowell ever since and for the past few years has been in the employ of Marks Brothers, in Central street, previous to which he was for many years with Alexander the tailor.

Mrs. Lelacheur, nee Ella Richard, daughter of Mr. Jacob Richard, was born in Chazy, N. Y., 45 years ago. She came to Lowell at the age of 15 and five years later on August 2, 1887, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. Lelacheur, the ceremony being performed at St. Joseph's church by Rev. Fr. Marion, O. M. I. Ten children were born to the happy couple, nine of whom are living. They are: Arthur, Alice, Eva, Paul, Gertrude, Irene, Edouard, Willis and Hortense.

The Lelacheur family is one of the best known families in this city and they have a very large number of friends. They live at 199 Mt. Washington street and during the summer months enjoy life on the shores of Lake Mascuppic at Willow Dale.

TRUNKS FULL OF JEWELRY FOUND BY CHICAGO POLICE

Raffles' Loot Now Amounts to About $250,000 in Value—More Recovered

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—After 24 hours' work, the police yesterday completed inventory of the art treasures, jewelry, silver plate and other articles stolen by Jacob F. Guthrie, alleged society burglar and forger, who is now under arrest and announced that the goods recovered are estimated to be worth $250,000.

Last night, after a partial examination of the barn and the room in a storage warehouse, which Guthrie used to hide a portion of the articles stolen, the police estimated the value of the property found at $150,000. This was nearly doubled when half a dozen additional trunks and chests, filled with jewelry, laces and other valuables, were discovered. Much of the stolen property was found in Guthrie's home, where he lived with his mother, sister and brother, who is a Chicago policeman.

Further investigation of the young man's history revealed that after graduation in a course in electrical engineering at a Chicago technical institute, he obtained employment with an electric company. Later he was employed in the municipal laboratory. Subsequently he was appointed an instructor in electrical engineering at one of the public high schools.

Guthrie is 26 years old, six feet in height and weighs 200 pounds. He is poorly dressed, although when arrested he had more than $16,000 deposited to his credit in Chicago banks.

Dr. Leslie W. Schwab, who has been physician for the Guthrie family for a number of years, talked with the prisoner for an hour yesterday, and later conferred with Capt. Halpin of the detective bureau. Dr. Schwab said:

"Guthrie is an educated fool, in my opinion. I have known him since a childhood. He has always been a bookworm, and read detective and problem novels incessantly. He has all the characteristics of a confirmed kleptomaniac."

Chief of Detectives Halpin said: "Beyond a doubt Guthrie has obtained the most valuable collection of stolen articles I ever saw in all my connection with the Chicago police department. There is an endless list of all kinds of jewelry, silverware and art treasures. There are diamonds, rubies, sapphires, emeralds and pearls worth thousands of dollars each."

Many valuable articles were identified during the day by society women who called at the central station.

PROGRESSIVES MET TODAY IN THE CHICAGO COLISEUM

Great Cheering for Many State Delegations When They Entered Convention Hall

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The big Coliseum, transformed in a few weeks from the battleground of the republican national convention to the meeting place of the new national progressive party, was thrown open shortly before 11 o'clock today but it was nearly an hour after that time before the first of the delegates began to arrive. They filtered in slowly at first, in ones and twos. Then came the big phalanx of delefiates from Pennsylvania singing "We'll hang Boise Penrose to a sour apple trees as we go marching on."

The Pennsylvanians got a demonstrative welcome.

The galleries of the hall were all but empty as the hour set for the convention approached and spectators were coming in slowly.

The scene in the hall, except for the lack of a jam in the galleries, was almost identical with that of the republican convention. The seating arrangements for the delegates and alternates had been changed but little. Many of the standards had been raised on the identical spots where they stood during the tumultuous convention which renominated President Taft. New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania had front row places.

California, a pioneer state in the Roosevelt movement, was promoted to a prominent front position at the right of the stage.

The big sounding board suspended by wires over the speakers' stand, looking for all the world like an aeroplane in flight, attracted much attention. It had been constructed particularly for Col. Roosevelt's speech tomorrow afternoon but similarly assisted everybody else, including the reading and tally clerks.

Large canvas portraits were features of the decorations. Back of the stage were those of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. The portrait of Jefferson had been labeled Jackson but the mistake was rectified before the convention was called to order. At the left of the stage was a portrait of Hamilton and at the right one of Andrew Jackson, at first first labeled Jefferson.

The Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln portraits have been linked on the convention tickets and badges.

Suspended from the band gallery at the far end of the hall, where all could see, was an oil painting of Col. Roosevelt. The artist did not at all flatter the progressive leader.

Over the main entrance was a stuffed head of a splendid specimen of a bull moose.

Shortly after noon the delegates began to arrive in increasing numbers. They came in singing and shouting. Three cheers were ready for almost any proposition suggested. They were loudest and longest, however, when some newly arrived delegate would jump to a chair and yell: "Hurrah and three cheers for Teddy."

California's delegation, carrying the same banners they used at the republican convention and each member with red bandana about his neck, was greeted with prolonged cheers.

The band, perched in its lofty coop among the ceiling girders, regaled the assemblage with popular and patriotic airs, vieing at times with a Grand Army fife and drum corps stationed on the stage.

The New Jersey delegation came in shouting the same yell they used so often at republican conventions. "Rah! rah; ree; who are we? We are the delegates from New Jersey. Are we in it, just you wait; till we give Teddy 28 straight."

The New Jersey delegates brought a new battle hymn with them, which like the Pennsylvania ditty, was set to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

At 12:20 Senator Dixon, national chairman of the new party, who was to call the convention to order, arrived at the hall and was cheered as he went upon the stage.

Former Sen. Beveridge of Indiana, temporary chairman, was seated at this time in the Indiana delegation awaiting the ratification of his selection as chairman when the convention should get under way.

The delegate section now was crowded and the aisles were choked.

The galleries, too, were beginning to fill rapidly. Tickets had been sold to spectators to help defray the expenses of launching the new party.

At 12.30 the gallery space was half filled.

The Michigan delegates added to the enthusiasm when they arrived, emulating the university of Michigan football team by singing a parody on the old Michigan football song.

For Vice President

With the arrival of Col. Roosevelt on the scene this morning the talk of Gov. Johnson of California for vice president seemed to receive a new impetus. Col. Roosevelt, it was said, regarded Gov. Johnson as a great campaigner.

Gov. Johnson told his friends he was anxious to do whatever was thought best for the party. Both Col. Roosevelt and Gov. Johnson are said to have given first consideration to the advisability of naming a southern democrat for the party for second place on the ticket in the hope of winning votes in that section of the country. The leaders, it is said, have not been able to agree upon a southern man, however, and there was a strong belief today that Johnson eventually would be chosen.

Convention Officers

Temporary officers of the convention as announced today were as follows:

Temporary chairman, Albert J. Beveridge, Chicago.

Temporary secretary, O. K. Davis, Washington, D. C.

Chief assistant secretary, Wilson Brooks, Chicago.

Assistant secretaries, W. A. White, Emporia, Kan., Judson Welliver, Washington, D. C., John C. O'Loughlin, Chicago, George E. Miller, Detroit, Angus McSween, Philadelphia, E. A. Dixon, Los Angeles, Cal., Harry J. Haskell, Kansas City, Mo., Edward B. Clark, Chicago, C. P. Connolly, New York, George Odell, New York, Charles C. Hart, Spokane, Wash.

Sergeant-at-arms, Chauncey Dewey, Illinois.

Official reporter, C. R. Leonard.

Reading clerks, Henry F. Cochems, Milwaukee, Wis., J. H. Gregory, Key West, Fla.

The only negro delegate in sight from the stage occupied a seat with the Pennsylvania delegation.

Women were to be seen in the delegations from a score or more states.

The temporary roll of the convention had not been completed when it was called to order and it was impossible to give an exact number of delegates.

Called to Order

At 12.40 the sergeant-at-arms was directed to clear the aisles and at 12.43 Senator Dixon rapped for order and took up a place on the glass-insulated speaking rostrum under the flying sounding boards. He briefly reviewed the significance of the call for the convention.

"In the past four weeks a nation has seen a new alignment in American politics," he said. "Within four weeks, responding to our call, are assembled here today more delegate representations to a national convention than ever before assembled on American soil. This afternoon a new milestone will be erected in American politics. A new political party, knowing no north and no south; founded on the live issues of today, will take its place with those parties which live on the dead issues of the past."

Senator Dixon called to Secretary Davis to read the call for the convention. The reading was frequently interrupted by applause.

The slogan, "Thou shalt not steal," appearing in the call, was greeted with cheers.

The names of those signing the call were read and cheers greeted each name. When Senator Dixon's name was called a mild demonstration started.

James R. Garfield got a cheer when Ohio was reached and Pennsylvania cheered E. A. Van Valkenburg and Gifford Pinchot. Cecil Lyon was accorded a round of cheers.

When the reading of the call ended Senator Dixon called on Rev. T. F. Dornblazer, who pronounced the prayer.

Mr. Dornblazer's prayer was rather long and he was interrupted by cries of "Amen," "Amen."

He reviewed the various crisis in the history of the country and begged the blessing of God "in this great crisis of our national life."

When the minister had been praying for more than 15 minutes the delegates interrupted with applause and shouts of "Amen."

In conclusion he led the entire assemblage in the Lord's prayer, delegates and galleries joining. The band struck up "America" and, still standing, the assemblage sang the anthem.

From the steel girders in the roof of the big hall a cloud of American flags were unfurled.

At the conclusion of the song, Senator Dixon quieted the crowd while a flashlight picture was taken. The band, under orders from Senator Dixon struck up "Dixie" and the crowd cheered.

A round of cheers greeted Senator Dixon's announcement that former Senator Beveridge of Indiana had been selected as temporary chairman of the convention by the national committee. Gov. Johnson of California, Governor Vessey of South Dakota, Governor Carey of Wyoming and Frank Funk, progressive nominee for governor of Illinois, escorted Beveridge to the platform. Senator Dixon introduced him in a flattering eulogistic speech.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM

AT LAUNCHING OF THE NEW PARTY

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—There was every evidence early today that the launching of the National progressive party at noon at the big coliseum on Wabash avenue, long the home of national republican conventions, would be attended by a great outburst of enthusiasm.

Col. Roosevelt's arrival on the scene as sponsor for the new third party having been impatiently awaited by the delegates who had been filtering into the city during the past week, for the more important work of the convention up to today had been more or less imitative, his coming is regarded as the principal event of the day, everyone is waiting for the scrutiny and final approval of Colonel Roosevelt. The matter of a platform had particularly been left in abeyance and in view of Colonel Roosevelt's statements on leaving New York last night that the convention must accept his views in full of he was to be the nominee, the convention leaders felt today they had been wise in not taking the matter up in any definite shape.

Many of the delegates are in favor of emulating the example of the national prohibition party and make the platform the briefest sort of document, containing the advanced declarations of principles in tabloid form devoid of al rhetorical embellishments. Col. Roosevelt's announcement, however, may change all this, for his "confession of faith," which he declares must be accepted in all essential details, is publicly reported to contain more than 20,000 words.

There appeared to be no question today among the delegates but that Col. Roosevelt would get whatever he wanted at their hands. His nomination has been depended upon to give the party an auspicious start and if he desires to run on a platform based on the speech which he asserts may be termed "anarchistic" the progressives here are more than anxious to give it to him.

Col. Roosevelt will make his "confession of faith" at the convention Tuesday afternoon following the formalities of permanent organization. It had first been announced that he would speak tonight but inasmuch as Senator Beveridge as temporary chairman was to be a central figure in today's proceedings and had prepared a speech of some length it was proposed that Colonel Roosevelt withhold his pronouncements until tomorrow. The committee on platform was scheduled to be appointed today but is not to make a report until Wednesday. The committee will not have to wait until Col. Roosevelt speaks before getting down to business, for he has expressed a willingness to go before the committee or to give it access to an advance copy of the speech upon which he proposes to appeal to the people.

Col. Roosevelt has insisted that his speech precede the adoption of a platform. In anticipation of the arrival of Col. Roosevelt during the early morning hours the headquarters of the new party were filled with an expectant throng. No formal plans had been made for the greeting. Col. Roosevelt was expected to take personal direction of affairs soon after his arrival and delegates and leaders alike were eager to have him do so.

No attempt had been made up today to crystalize sentiment on a vice presidential candidate.

The crowd massed in front of the station waved bandana handkerchiefs as the Roosevelt party entered automobiles and a chorus of cheers was merged in the blare of a brass band when the trip across the city was begun. The streets along the route were lined with crowds and as the colonel passed cheer after cheer was raised.

The delegations formed in procession and followed their chief to the national headquarters.

In front of the hotel another crowd was encountered and for a time the street was blocked. Col. Roosevelt stood up in the automobile and spoke briefly.

Then a path through the crowd having been made he hurried to headquarters and was soon in the thick of conferences with his aides.

Col. Roosevelt's Speech

Standing in his automobile in front of his hotel, Col. Roosevelt said:

"I am very pleased to be with you in Chicago again and this time at the birth of a party and not at the death of one. I am convinced that the people will not stand for the convention of seven weeks ago, especially as it was against the interests of the people. By November the men nominated at that convention will not be a factor in the race.

"The days of the political boss and the crooked financier who stands behind the boss and the newspaper owned by the boss and financier are over.

"The channels of information have been choked by the opponent of popular government in the effort to prevent the people from finding out what we stand for. I intend to see that the facts are known and that the people find out what this movement really is and decide for themselves what their government shall be."

After completing his speech, Colonel Roosevelt went to his headquarters, where he said he would remain all day consulting with the leader concerning the convention. He said he did not intend to go to the Coliseum today.

COL. ROOSEVELT

TO DELIVER HIS "CONFESSION OF FAITH" TOMORROW

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The national progressive party took its place in the arena of American politics here today when its first national convention assembled in the Coliseum, where the republican national convention was held seven weeks ago.

Theodore Roosevelt, sponsor for the new party, arrived here this morning, but did not attend the first session of the convention. He will deliver his "confession of faith" tomorrow.

Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge was elected temporary chairman of the convention after Senator Dixon had called the assemblage to order and prayer had been offered.

Senator Beveridge was greeted with prolonged cheers and delivered his "keynote" speech bristling with the most advanced ideas of progressivism.

The floor of the convention hall and the galleries, slow to fill at first, held but comparatively few empty seats when the convention got under way.

The delegates were most enthusiastic, frequently interrupting the proceedings with cheers and applause.

WERE BARRED

CONTESTING NEGRO DELEGATES NOT ALLOWED INTO HALL

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Contesting negro progressive delegations from Florida and Mississippi were barred from the progressive convention today by the national committee.

The contests were decided at a stormy executive session of the committee that lasted for three hours just before the convention met. While the committee deliberated the negroes gathered in the corridors outside the committee room and raised their voices in indignant protest. When the decisions were made known the leaders declared that they would continue the contest for seats before the credentials committee.

A tentative arrangement was made by the committee as a means of compromise which it was thought would settle the dispute. The committee decided to allow the negro contests from Florida to sit in the convention as supplemental delegates without a vote. This was considered settled but the Florida negroes protested so vigorously that the committee finally decided to throw out both Florida delegations, the negro and white.

In Mississippi where the progressive state convention had been called as a "lily white" meeting, the white delegates were given their seats.

On Saturday the committee had thrown 12 negroes who contested seats in the Alabama delegation with today's decision this barred all the contestants.

The negroes were indignant and excited over the action of the convention and there was some talk of holding a mass meeting of Chicago negroes to protest. No definite arrangements were made, however.

THE STATE MILITIA GETS TRAIN ORDERS

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Next Sunday the movement of Massachusetts troops who are to participate in the Connecticut manoeuvre campaign commences. Two brigades, the 1st and the 2d, commanded respectively by Brig.-Gens. Frederick E. Pierce and William A. Pew, Jr., and the signal corps, field hospital and ambulance company, to be attached to the 2d brigade, will leave home stations, via rail, for Derby, Conn., and vicinity.

The exact time of the departure of the 9th infantry from this city has not yet been announced and it may be that the regiment will leave Saturday night, instead of Sunday morning. This point will be settled early this week. Lieut.-Col. Willis W. Stover, who is to command the 5th infantry in the absence of Col. Frank F. Cutting, who is on leave in Europe, has issued regimental orders governing the movements of companies of the 5th infantry. It is directed that the commanding officer and staff will leave with the third battalion, Maj. Whitney comanding, made up of companies A, L, E and G, on the first train section, leaving the South station at 8 a. m. Sunday.

The second battalion, Maj. Francis Meredith, Jr., made up of Companies B, H, C and F, will entrain at the South station, its train pulling out at 8.10 a. m.

The first battalion, Maj. William C. Butler commanding, with two companies, M and K, will occupy the third section and will leave at 10 a. m., stopping at Attleboro to pick up the local company and company D, the latter reaching Attleboro from Plymouth. At Attleboro the Plymouth company will entrain and with the local company will await the arrival of the third section at about 11 a. m.

The 2d infantry and the 6th infantry will entrain at Springfield and South Framingham, respectively, on Sunday, while the signals corps, field hospital and ambulance company will leave this city before noon on Sunday.

The instructional period of the manoeuvres will commence when the Massachusetts troops report to the brigadier-general, Albert L. Mills, U. S. A., who is to command the Red army and will hold until Aug. 15, the final period commencing on Aug. 16 and continuing until the end of the manoeuvres. As the Massachusetts troops are to return on Aug. 18, they will have but two days to join in the final period.

More than 80 escort and other wagons will be required to remove the impedimenta of the Massachusetts troops alone, while over 400 horses and mules will be necessary to haul the teams. This number of animals will be exclusive of the animals required for mounts.

A DANGEROUS LUNATIC

Made His Escape From the Police

BOSTON, Aug. 5—Police and citizens of West Roxbury, Hyde Park and Jamaica Plain are engaged in a search for Edward C. Smith, a dangerous lunatic, who escaped from the Pierce farm some time yesterday afternoon. This man, whom they fear has found some means to arm himself, is homicidal, and the residents of the section where he is supposed to be at large are terror-struck.

Smith is about 45 years of age, is 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighs about 170 pounds, is of medium complexion and has a peculiar impediment in his speech. When he escaped he was dressed in a faded blue suit and wore a black fedora hat.

At present he is supposed to be in hiding in the woods in West Roxbury, and a strict watch is being kept over all parts. The police fear that he will attack someone, and last night everyone was warned away from the suspected region.

DRACUT

The pupils of the Sunday school department of the Dracut Centre and Hillside churches held a joint picnic on Saturday afternoon at Willow Dale. The event was very largely attended and was very successful. Special electric cars conveyed the children to the place of the outing, where outdoor games and sports were features of the day. The return trip was made at 6 o'clock, and it was made quite as enjoyable as any number on the program.

NATIONAL PARK FOR THE DANES

Was Presented by the Danish-Americans

AARHUS, Denmark, Aug. 5.—King Christian yesterday received at Marselisborg castle the committee representing the association of Danish-Americans, which has presented a new national park in Jutland to the government.

The American minister to Denmark, Dr. Maurice F. Egan, on behalf of President Taft, honorary president of the association, read a message from Mr. Taft extending greetings to the king and people of Denmark. The message was as follows:

"On the occasion of the presentation to His Majesty, King Christian, of a deed to the Danish-American National park, I desire that you convey in my name, as honorary president of the association, and in the name of the people of the United States, my warmest greeting to King Christian and the Danish nation.

"It is with great pleasure that I have witnessed the action of the American citizens of Danish birth in this country in acquiring a tract of land near Aalborg for the purpose of establishing a Danish-American national park, to be dedicated to the Danish government and to be open at all times to the public.

"I am gratified to be identified with this act in my capacity as honorary president of the association. I recognize in it a concrete expression of the cordial relations which have always existed between the Danish and American people and which are today based more firmly than ever on friendship, understanding and mutual esteem.

"On this happy occasion I desire you to convey to his majesty and to the Danish people my sincere wishes for his happiness and welfare and the continued prosperity of the Danish nation."

In response the king said: "I have heardn words in the name of the president of the United States in which I see new testimony of friendship and understanding between the Danish and American peoples with the greatest pleasure.

"I beg you to give to President Taft my heartfelt thanks for the interest he has taken in the realization of the plan acquiring the Rebild tract as a proof of the loyal feelings toward their old country of the men and women of Danish birth who have found a home in your country.

"In my own name and in the name of the Danish people I request you to convey to Mr. Taft on this pleasant occasion and through him to the American people the Danish people's and my own warmest greetings and best wishes for the future."

MATTRESS ON FIRE

An alarm from box 131 early yesterday morning summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in a mattress in a house at 26 Wall street. A stream from the extinguisher put an end to the blaze. The building is owned and occupied by Mrs. Elizabeth Kerwin. The damage was confined to the destruction of the mattress, bedclothing and scorching of the bed. The origin of the fire is unknown.

CAMBRIDGE BOY MISSING IS PROBABLY KIDNAPPED

Police Search the Woods and the Ponds of Three Towns for Him

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The police and Cambridge residents yesterday unsuccessfully searched the wooded sections adjoining the Fresh pond parkway and the clay pits in that vicinity, Belmont and West Somerville to find Richard D'Arcy, the 7-year-old son of William D'Arcy of 42 Chilton street, Cambridge, who has been missing since Saturday at noon.

One theory is that the lad has been kidnapped. A small boy in the neighborhood told the mother of the missing child that he saw a boy answering the description of the lost boy on Huron avenue, near Chilton street, with a poorly clad man late Saturday night. They were going in the direction of Belmont.

The Cambridge police called on the Belmont department for assistance, and ran down the clew from every angle, but were unable to learn anything that would corroborate the story. They tried to find the author of the rumor, but found that he had talked with Mrs. D'Arcy while she was in great mental distress and his name had passed from her mind. As near as she could recall she said his name was either Conklin or Clonin, and he lived on Lakeview street. The police made a search through Lakeview street, but were unable to locate such a boy.

Late last night when they matched up all the facts they had learned in the day's search, they were inclined to disregard the kidnapping theory. They were of the opinion that the boy had either been lost in the woodland or drowned, and as the woodland had been thoroughly gone over by a searching party led by William D'Arcy, they believed more strongly that the boy had drowned. Following up this belief, they will drag Scrotfen's clay pit, near the boy's home today.

The drowning theory impressed the police because of a story the missing child told his mother shortly before he disappeared. He said that another boy in the neighborhood had told him never to go near the claypits, as they were very dangerous. He also told of the drowning of a boy in a claypit pool on July 4. The police believe that this might have inspired a desire in young D'Arcy to see where the boy was drowned, with fatal results attending his curiosity.

MARKET LIST

INCLINED TOWARD HEAVINESS IN THE LAST HOUR

American Tobacco Yielded Practically All Its Gain—Prices Hardened in the Final Dealing—Other Features of the Trading

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The strength of the railroad, especially the Hill issues and Canadian Pacific, was the feature of the opening of today's stock market. Prices in general tended higher with some further activity in Atchison convertible bonds.

The list became reactionary but met support on the decline. Later it became more active with gains in many specialties.

Further progress toward higher prices was made by stocks today, although the market was without its usual foreign influence, London observing a holiday. Gains were most marked in shares of the special and more obscure classes but Reading and Hill issues reflected further demand, with some inquiry for Union Pacific. Steel led, the active industrials being apparently unaffected by the proposed introduction in congress of the Stanley bill, calling for its dissolution. Lackawanna Steel was up over five points while Local Tractions Cans., Harvester, Biscuit, Malting issues and American Tobacco participated less materially.

St. Paul became weak, selling 1 1-4 under Saturday and pulling other standard shares down in sympathy. Canadian Pacific was the most striking exception, gaining two points.

Canadian Pacific rise to a new high record was the feature of the late afternoon, the market otherwise showing irregular firmness.

The market closed firm. The list was inclined toward heaviness in the last hour. American Tobacco yielding practically all its gain but in the final dealings prices again hardened under lead of Reading.

KNIVES USED

AT A HOUSE PARTY IN CHARLES STREET

There was a house party held at 150 Charles street Saturday night and during the festivities an argument arose and knives were drawn and during the fracas which followed Frank De Palma received a cut in the right hand. The matter was reported to the police and the latter are on the lookout for the assailant.

BADLY INJURED

PIERRE BRIERE MET WITH PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Pierre Briere, aged 12 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Briere of 88 Ford street, met with a painful accident Saturday when he was thrown from a buggy. The accident occurred in Moody street near the Textile school. The horse is owned by Zephyr Roussel and was being driven to the stable of the latter's father in Riverside street. When turning the corner of Moody and Riverside streets, the buggy was overturned and the boy was thrown to the street, fortunatly landing in a mud hole. He received a few scratches but today is none the worse for his fall. The horse kept right on until it reached the barn, but the buggy was badly smashed.

WHY DETAIN INNOCENT MEN?

The meeting held on the common here yesterday to protest against the prolonged detention in prison of Ettor and Giovannitti was attended by many sympathizers who do not belong to the I. W. W. Whether guilty or not, these men should have been tried before this time and their detention in prison so far from injuring the cause of the I. W. W. is helping it immensely. The district attorney of Essex county is undoubtedly responsible for the delay, and in holding these two men so long in prison he is violating the constitution of the United States which says: "In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed."

The two prisoners have now been in jail for over six months, and if after trial they be acquitted of the charge brought against them neither the state nor the county will compensate them for such prolonged imprisonment. Why then hold these men from January till the September term of court? In the administration of justice it is important that there shall be no injustice done to any citizen because all are presumed by law to be innocent until proven guilty. Why are two innocent men held for seven months in jail awaiting trial? That is a question that comes home to the district attorney and the courts of Essex county. We do not approve of the extreme methods used by the I. W. W. in some cases; but we hold that the constitution of the United States guarantees to all men justice and protection and to those accused a speedy trial by a jury of their peers. Does the constitution mean anything or has a district attorney the right to ignore it in the prosecution of alleged criminals? If the district attorney of Essex county fails to do his duty, the attorney general might have something to say on the matter if it were brought to his attention.

THE "BLACK DEATH"

According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, the Bubonic Plague or "Black Death" of medieval Europe is threatening the United States. The plague has appeared in Porto Rico and Cuba, two of the principal islands in the West Indies, and with such intercourse between these islands and the United States, the transferrence of the disease is inevitable unless the most rigid precautions are adopted to prevent it. There is undoubted danger to the Mississippi valley and the Atlantic seaboard. Dr. Howard King of New Orleans, instructor in tropical medicine in Tulane university, announces that the danger is menacing, and that it must be met by active measures of prevention by the health authorities of the threatened states. The federal authorities, too, should assist in the work by a strict supervision of the emigration from these islands to the United States.

It is found that rats convey the plague, and the ports all along the coast are badly infested with the rodents. They are carried from place to place in ships, concealed in the large cargoes into which they burrow at will. The opening of the Panama canal, it is believed, will increase the danger while the possibility of infection over the Mexican border must also be guarded against. It requires long and persistent work to stamp out this dread disease wherever it gets a foothold, and hence the necessity of precautionary measures at all points to prevent it spreading in any part of the United States.

THE CANAL TOLLS AGAIN

The Johnstown Democrat does not favor the discrimination in canal tolls in favor of American ships. In a lengthy editorial on this subject it says:—

> "Aside from the national perfidy of violating a treaty that we voluntarily agreed to, it ought to be apparent to our national lawgivers that discriminating in favor of American merchant vessels in charges for the use of the Panama canal would not benefit the American people. It would not increase our foreign trade. It would not reduce the cost of transportation and therefore it would have no tendency to lessen the cost of living. The owners of the vessels would be benefited at the expense of the people. The builders of American vessels would be benefited indirectly. How those who are opposed to the shipping trust or opposed to a ship subsidy can favor this kind of discrimination it is difficult to understand on any theory except mental incapacity to trace effect to cause."

If the government undertook to remit the tolls to American vessels other governments would do the same. It is a fact that other governments are doing more to promote their shipping interests than is the United States which has practically no merchant marine. If any shipping trust would derive the principal benefit from the free passage of the canal, there should be no such privilege extended to American vessels.

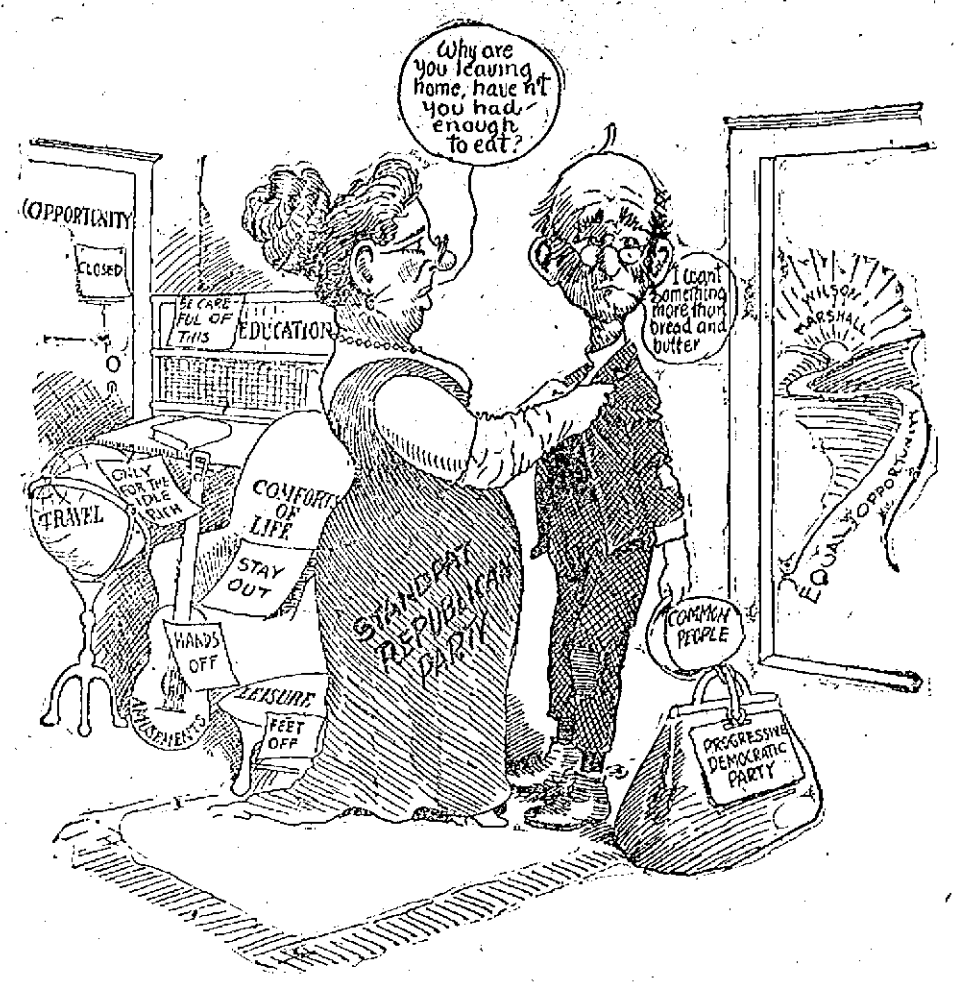

THE VICE OF GAMBLING

The recent murder in New York was but the result of a climax in the gambling dens of the city. Rosenthal was the leader in this vice so common to American cities, and some of the police officers were either beneficiaries of the business or active participants therein. The worst thing that can happen any city is the corruption of its police force so that instead of ferreting out crime and bringing the guilty parties to justice, they aid and abet it and receive pay for affording it protection. That state of affairs has undoubtedly existed to a most serious extent in New York and there is no doubt that it exists in some other American cities today. At least one police official in New York pursued the gambling craze too far and now he is in the toils charged with complicity in the murder of Rosenthal who was about to expose him. The men who did the shooting are or will undoubtedly be arrested and will probably pay the penalty of their crime.

The tragedy opens up a fearful state of corruption under which the vilest dens of vice were paying police officials for protection. Perhaps after all the murder of the leading gambler of the city although a heinous crime, will put an end to the system by which $2,400,000 a year was collected for the protection of the worst law-breakers.

DEPARTMENT EXPENDITURES

The showing in departmental expenses of our city government this year as compared with last is not as good as it might be, not as good as was expected perhaps; but five months remain in which the departments may improve the record and show a greater balance on the right side. It must be remembered that last year was not a model of economy; but the comparison thus far made is intended as a test of the economic qualities of the new form of government as compared with the old. There is still another question that enters into the calculation, and it is this: In the money expended has the city got more for its money this than last year?

HER SIMPLE BOY HAS COME TO HIS SENSES

SEEN AND HEARD

"Queer name," remarked the editor. "Yes, it might belong to either a parlor car or a Russian dancer."

The writer, seeking local color for his new novel, ought not to make it yellow.

No man really knows just what he would do if he should wake up suddenly at night and find a burglar in his room.

Even if you are not Sherlock Holmes, when you see a man with his fingers black with ink you may safely reason that he does his writing with a fountain pen.

Running a newspaper in a little country town is a fine business, if a man isn't ambitious to make money and doesn't care what the people say.

Even when you go on a Sunday school picnic, it is possible to have a pleasant time.

Another way to decrease the high cost of living is to substitute corned-beef hash for porterhouse steak, but comparatively few are doing it.

If you are really unselfish, you won't heave a sigh of envy even when you hear the rattling noise as the men are putting in your neighbor's winter coal.

The man who gets only wages thinks that he would like to have a salary. The man who gets a salary thinks that he would like to have the freedom from responsibility that the man who gets only wages has.

"What is this picture?" queried a little fellow who was visiting at the home of one of his classmates, pointing at a picture representing the battle of Fontenoy in 1776.

"That," replied the other little fellow, "is a picture of the battle of Fontenoy, and that man on horseback there is my father."

"Whew!" said the boy while looking at the date on the picture. "Your father must be pretty old."

Don't ask your sincere friend to give you his candid opinion of anything you do. If he doesn't give it to you without asking, it probably will not encourage you.

The pessimist is always hunting trouble, and thus doing unnecessary work. According to his own principles, if he would only sit still and wait, the trouble would come to him all right.

It was a divorce case, and the detective witness came to the stand dressed in black broadcloth, wore a gold fob, and seals and looked much more like a respectable middle-aged solicitor than a member of the police force. The man's testimony was damaging to his client, so the learned counsel began his cross-examination very gently and was excessively polite.

"I believe you are John Blank, of the firm of Blank & Co., the eminent detectives?"

"Yes, sir," said the witness, "I represent that firm."

"And I presume," continued the counsel, "that in the course of your duties as a detective you have, at times, to assume many disguises?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then," said the counsel, smiling, "will you have the goodness to tell the court just what you are disguised as now."

THE INVISIBLE COMRADE

I have been down in the deeps there with you,
I have been walking the streets of your hell,
I have been doubting and trusting with you,
I have been helping because it were well,
I have been stumbling with you in the dark,
Weary, disconsolate, hoping in vain;
I have been suffering your sting and your blow,
I have been feeling your ache and your pain.

I have been walking, O sister of sin,
The pavement with you in your tour of the night;
I have been standing the snubs and the slurs
Of men who were foolish and men who were tight,
I have been feeling your bitterness, child;
I have been haunted with woe like your woe;
I have been lost with you, maddened and wild,
Not knowing whither the next step would go.

I have been lurking yon corner with you,
Thief of the city; been watching the chance
To do a fine job that my thirst might be through
And maybe my feet get a whack at the dance.
I have been forcing a window and door;
I have been driven to dregs by the crime
Of the old inefficiency called being poor.

I have been lying, poor forger, tonight
Stretched on your cot with you there in the cell,
Thinking of days that have gone evermore,
Thinking of what I have done and its hell.
I have been there in the gutter with you,
Slab of the alley, with bloated, red face;
Cursing God's mercy and pity and love,
And calling down oaths on His power and His grace.

I have been there with you all in your grief,
I have been there in your sin and your gloom;
I shall go with you, dear sister of vice,
Holding your hands to the brink of the tomb.
Thief and accomplice and forger and dregs
Of the gutter and alley—wherever you wend,
I shall be there with the pity God gave
When He sent me the impulse of being your friend.

—Bentztown Bard, in Baltimore Sun.

Herbert stood on a chair. The chair stood in the pantry. The jam stood on the shelf. Herbert's mother stood on the threshold. Herbert stood his ground. "My son," said the mother, pointing at him with astonishment, "I am s-u-r-prised! To think that my little boy would do a thing like that." Herbert, resourceful and not at all abashed, looked his mother straight in the eye. "Please do not interfere with the minnuvers of a boy scout," he said. "A boy scout?" "Yes, mother, after supplies."

No woman, of course, would ever read a letter addressed to anybody else if there were any other way of finding out just what is in it.

CAPTIVE

He's big and strong and manly
As any man could be.
His heart is full of courage,
As any one can see.
If Fate should be against him,
He'd battle unto death,
And never give up fighting
Until his final breath.

He's bold and lion-hearted,
He's ignorant of fear.
He has no dread of danger,
Although it may be near.
And still, for what I'll tell you
Perhaps you are prepared:
He knows a five-foot maiden,
And she has got him scared!

MY PILLOWMOBILE

'Tis my delight
In the depths of night
To speed in my Pillow Car;
To dance perchance
Through sunny France,
Perhaps to the Polar Star.

I linger long
In the Hills of Song
I travel to Mandalay;
I board my ship
And take a trip
To glorious Yesterday.

My Pillow train
Will jump from Spain
To Saturn perhaps the Moon;
Then take the track
That leads me back
To the Home of eternal June.

Through old Japan,
Heliochilstan
And Thibet and gay Pekin;
And thence we creep
Through the vastly deep
To the haunts of the Tribes of Fin.

My Pillow Car's
Been up to Mars,
It travels both earth and air;
And like the wind,
It leaves behind
The City of Woe and Care.

So come with me,
On a billowy spree,
For the Land of Dreams awheel;
Through sky and earth,
To Joy and Mirth,
In my wonderful Pillowmobile.

M'CALL A CANDIDATE

HE WANTS TO SUCCEED SENATOR CRANE

BOSTON, Aug. 5. — Congressman Samuel W. McCall formally announced his candidacy for United States senator to succeed Senator Winthrop Murray Crane in a statement issued last night.

Mr. McCall states that he favors the direct election of United States senators and indorses the action of the legislature in the ratification of the amendment to the constitution declaring for the direct election of United States senators.

He states that he will not attempt to secure the nomination or election of candidates to the legislature who favor his candidacy on the ground that "any attempt on the part of one aspiring to the senatorship to control the nomination of candidates for an office of such important and varied powers would be an unwarranted intrusion and would merit the rebuke of failure.

INJURIES WERE FATAL

Child Crushed Under a Car is Dead

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—After one of the gamest fights for life ever put up by a child of his age, Jacob Gooberman, 7 years old, and living with his parents at 13 Fay street, South End, died shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday morning at the city hospital, from injuries he received by being crushed by a car at the corner of Washington and Dover streets, late Saturday night.

The motorman of the car, Norman Brown, was arrested and locked up, charged with assault, and later released under $2000 bonds. An application will be made in court today for a warrant against Brown on a charge of manslaughter.

The boy was walking down Washington street with his mother, shortly before 10 o'clock, when suddenly he started to run across the street directly in front of the car driven by Brown.

The car, according to witnesses, was not moving at a high rate of speed, but the boy was so close that it was impossible to bring it to a stop before it struck him and the forward part went over his body.

Brown, as soon as the car stopped, jumped down and dragged the crushed but still conscious boy from underneath and handed him to Patrolman Frazer, who was nearby, and had in the meantime sent in a call for the ambulance.

Frazer held the boy in his arms during the ride to the hospital, and during the whole ride, the little fellow kept a running chatter to his mother and the police officers, telling them not to worry, that he would be all right.

When laid on the operating table in the hospital, the little fellow told the doctors his name, his father's name and where he lived, and then passed into unconsciousness from which he did not recover. He died a couple of hours later. He received a fractured pelvis and crushed thigh, besides internal injuries.

GOV. WILSON

IS ENJOYING NOVEL EXPERIENCE OF THE CAMPAIGN

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 5.—Governor Wilson's sudden entry into the political limelight with a squad of correspondents and telegraphers camped in tents on the meadow near his cottage, has given him a novel experience.

The governor remarked today that while he recognized the sincerity of most newspapers, he could not understand some misrepresentations and inaccuracies.

"For example," related the governor, "when I was president of Princeton university, I delivered an address in a certain city in which I said that public opinion was not developed in great congested communities. I said that public opinion was developed in the cross roads store, where the farmers sat around, chewed tobacco, spit into the sawdust and exchanged ideas. I added, jokingly, that no matter what might be said against tobacco chewing, it must be admitted that it made men think, and wherever you found men chewing tobacco together you found the real public opinion of the country.

"Imagine my horror when the newspapers the next day ignored the rest of my speech—when I thought not without merit—and gave prominence to what I said about tobacco chewing, declaring in the headlines that I said tobacco chewing made thinkers."

The governor added that a big tobacco company also made a photograph of one of the newspaper reports and used it in their advertising, stamping him "as a college president who advocated chewing tobacco to develop the mind."

LUTHER McCARTY

TO MEET JIM STEWART AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Luther McCarthy, the Springfield, Mo., heavyweight who came into prominence by knocking out Carl Morris, will make his first appearance in New York when he meets Jim Stewart of Brooklyn at Madison square garden. McCarthy will lay claim to the heavyweight title if he defeats Stewart decisively. The local fighter holds a popular decision over Morris, whom he outboxed. McCarthy is a "rusher" and depends upon his slugging ability.

COL. ROOSEVELT

GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION ON ARRIVAL IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Theodore Roosevelt arrived here shortly after 8 a. m. He was given an enthusiastic welcome and hurried to headquarters in the Congress hotel. The crowd cheered as the colonel stepped from the train. He was received by a delegation of progressives headed by George W. Perkins and Gov. Johnson of California.

WILLOW DALE

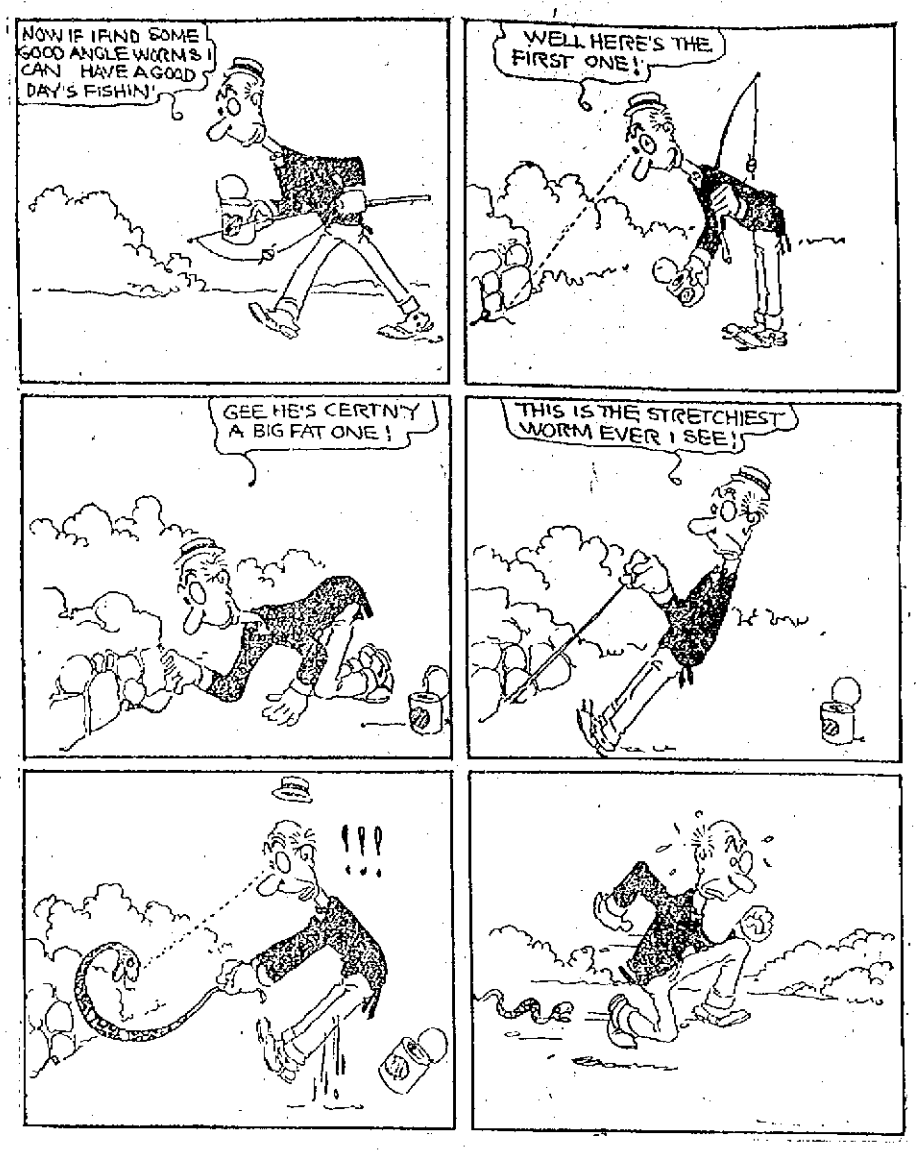

The attractions furnished here of late by the management have proved a great success and drawing card. The strong man, Darrow, drew a large number to see his performance during the week, while yesterday the concert given in the pavilion by the M. T. I. Bachelor Girls brought thousands from the city to hear the pleasing voices of these popular young ladies. It is estimated that there were 5000 on the grounds during the afternoon and evening. The popularity of the singers was evidenced by the applause which they received at the conclusion of the concert.

Saturday night witnessed the largest crowd on the dance floor during the season. The music furnished by Miners' orchestra is admitted to be the finest attainable. Dancing to such music is certainly a pleasure to both dancer and music lovers. The good old times seem to be coming back to the popular old summer resort, Willow Dale.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 5.—A. G. Daley, democratic national committeeman for Alaska, committed suicide yesterday aboard a river steamboat near Tolovana, 70 miles west of here, while en route from Fairbanks to the Iditarod district. Mr. Daley shot himself through the head with a revolver. A coroner's jury at Hot Springs last night found that Mr. Daley was temporarily insane when he killed himself.

ALGY TURNED—NOT THE WORM

LAKEVIEW DANCE HALL

Novelty numbers will be introduced at all sessions at the Lakeview dance hall all this week and the orchestra will play a number of the latest New York selections. The new music arrived here last week and was carefully rehearsed, for the special numbers. At several of the sessions last week some "innovations" were introduced that made a great hit with the large crowds and owing to the numerous requests for a repetition of the line of entertainment the management has decided to provide new features every week. One of the most enjoyable features of last week was the surprise waltz and this number will be given again in the near future. Dancing at the Lakeview hall is enjoyed under perfect conditions, the floor being as smooth as glass being in charge of an expert. Tom Pool will give his xylophone and bell selections that have proven such an important part of the entertainment at the hall and several of the other musicians will play solos on their instruments.

BATHING AT WILLOW DALE

The new bath house at Willow Dale had its real opening day yesterday and although the weather was hardly warm enough to arouse great bathing enthusiasm, the bath house was well patronized and those who patronized it were delighted with the pleasure and convenience it afforded. The ladies' apartment is separate and apart from that used by the men and it was a young lady who carried off the honors at diving. She made the boys and men look like second raters and some of them were good divers, too. The young lady was a stranger at the Dale, Henry F. Sullivan, Lowell's greatest swimmer, and one of the best in New England, looks after the safety of the bathers at the new bath house and offers generous assistance to beginners. It is a splendid opportunity to learn to swim and there isn't any better fresh water bathing in New England.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Lowell week," the week which marks the completion of the 100th consecutive week of the Merrimack Square theatre, will be the biggest week ever. As a headliner attraction, Mortimer Snow and company will present scenes from Shakespeare's great tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," one of the most beautiful tragedies ever written and one of Shakespeare's masterpieces. It is hardly necessary to say that with the very capable company presenting it, and with the superb staging, it will be one of the biggest popular successes ever given at this theatre, one which should appeal to every one.

Among the other splendid features on this week's bill will be Joe Harrington and Lucia Miller, both Lowell people, in their comedy skit, "The New Janitor," an extremely amusing little playlet; Prof. Galloway, known professionally as "England's Greatest Ventriloquist," but now a resident of Lowell, in a very interesting ventriloquist act; "Ye Singers of '76," all very well known Lowell singers, in popular selections, and Walter Davis, a Lowell man famed for his odd and interesting personality, in clever songs and dances.

The photo-plays are of unusual interest and will include a series of colored views of Lowell, her factories, playgrounds, and beauty spots, furnished by the board of trade.

M. T. I. BACHELOR GIRLS

The M. T. I. Bachelor Girls gave two excellent concerts at Willow Dale yesterday afternoon and last evening. There were large audiences at both concerts and that the performances were enjoyed was evident by the applause accorded the singers. Every number was given in a manner that reflected great credit on the young ladies, and they were the recipients of many compliments at the conclusion of the entertainment. The girls will meet in Mathew hall, Dutton street, tomorrow evening to make arrangements for several engagements that are scheduled for the near future.
